AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Tells of Mrs. Vogel's Terrible Suffering and how she was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"My troubles were severe pains in my back and terrible bearing-down pains in my right side, also headaches and sleepless nights. I first began having troubles when I was 15, and they have increased as I grew older. A little booklet was left at my door and I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women and decided to try it. After the first week I could go to sleep every night and I stopped having that nervous feeling and got a better appetite. The doctor had always said that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but I never had any faith in an operation. Since the Vegetable Compound has started helping me I do not suffer the severe pains, feel stronger, and am able to do my own work. I am more than glad to tell my friends that it helps where other medicines have failed."—Mrs. GUS VOGEL, 6608 Pelouse St., Detroit, Michigan.

A record of fifty years service must convince women of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

COOLIDGE SEES TAX CUT AS SPUR TO PROSPERITY

Effect of Delay on Revenue Bill Discussed by Cabinet While Senate Pledges Action

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, April 1.—President Coolidge believes that a reduction of taxes on the lines of the Mellon plan would usher in an unprecedented era of prosperity and business expansion.

He expressed this conviction today following the meeting of the Cabinet at which business conditions were chiefly the topic of discussion. The President brought up the subject in the Cabinet call and referred to reports of the slowing down of business in certain lines, and asked Secretary of Commerce Hoover for light on the situation.

Mr. Hoover replied that there is no serious slowing down of production. The situation in steel is always a barometer of business conditions, he said, and there is a steady increase in the production of steel in future orders. The building industry reached its peak last year and yet the number of building permits this year exceed those of the corresponding period last year. Increase of production is noted in all the industries depending on building construction.

HELD UP BY CONGRESS

This slowing down as has been noted in certain lines, the President concluded from the Cabinet discussion, is probably due to the failure of Congress up to date to adopt the policies of retrenchment recommended by the administration, particularly tax-reduction measures. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was strongly of this opinion.

Investors are marking time. They are not putting their funds into industry because of the existing tax measures. They prefer to lend their surplus money at 3 per cent, which amounts for the large accumulation of "call" money.

If the tax rates were lowered, however, as in the Mellon plan, money would flow back into industry and within six weeks or two months is the opinion of the President, the country would feel the effect of a great revival of production and general prosperity.

MORE EARLY ACTION

Shortly after the Cabinet meeting adjourned, assurances that tax reduction will be pressed to a conclusion without unnecessary delay were given by both Republican and Democrats in a debate on the floor of the Senate.

The discussion was in line with the marked trend toward submergence of investigations and giving serious consideration to pending measures. Democrats as well as Republicans now appear convinced that the public has had its fill of expensive and futile investigations and that the only effect of pursuing inquiries much further will be to injure both the

Lieut. E. R. Brown Declared $120,000 Short in His Account Books

Officer Failed to Return to His Destroyer Division When on Leave

Search for Lieut. Ervine R. Brown, paymaster of the Thirty-first Destroyer Division, who disappeared from his squadron at Mobile, Ala., recently and who is said to have been $120,000 short in his accounts, centered around Los Angeles yesterday according to reports from Department of Justice circles.

Investigation at San Diego disclosed, it is said, that Brown's wife and mother, who were living there, packed their furniture, closed their house and took the family automobile to parts unknown. They said they were going to Azusa to meet Brown. Officials who were presumably checking that fact could not be found last night for confirmation.

LIVED QUIETLY

Lieut. Brown, according to San Diego dispatches came to the naval base in 1920 from Great Lakes, Ill. He has always lived quietly with his wife and three children and went very little into society it was said.

The Washington dispatches said that Lieut. Brown was given leave at Mobile, leaving the destroyer Somers on March 10. He did not report when the fleet sailed from Mobile, but the commanding officer received a wire from him at New Orleans asking permission to rejoin his ship at Jacksonville, Fla., on

POISON RUM DEATH TOLL AT TWELVE

Toledo Casualties May be Increased; Druggist Faces Federal Action

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

TOLEDO (O.) April 1.—Deaths in Toledo since Sunday from drinking denatured alcohol amounted to twelve late today when Charles O'Donnell, 55 years of age, of Buffalo, N. Y., died at Municipal Hospital. O'Donnell's death was the fifth today. Seven men died Sunday night and Monday.

Half a dozen are in hospitals suffering from alcohol poisoning. Physicians expect two to die.

Police began a drive against druggists and others who sell denatured alcohol for beverage purposes, and arrested Meyer Selzman, 25 years of age, druggist, and two of his clerks, Harry Porter, 16, and Martin Bracker, 24. Bracker and Porter admitted, police said, that they are not registered or licensed druggists' clerks. Porter and Bracker are said to have told police they were instructed by Selzman to sell denatured alcohol without labeling the bottles poison. Selzman denied such instructions.

Federal action against Selzman was promised by prohibition enforcement officers, who say Selzman admitted he knew his customers were using the denatured alcohol for beverage purposes.

M'ADOO TRAILS AL SMITH

Wisconsin Returns Show Close Race for Democratic Delegates; La Follette Wins Easily

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MILWAUKEE, April 1.—William G. McAdoo encountered an obstacle in his race for the Democratic Presidential nomination today when Gov. Al Smith of New York gave him a hard run for Wisconsin's delegates in the State-wide primary.

Sparse returns late tonight showed Smith leading, but the trend of the votes had failed to indicate a winner.

The vote with 158 precincts out of 2574 reported showed Smith 3335 and McAdoo 2845.

A victory for Senator La Follette in the Republican primary was a foregone conclusion, President Coolidge's forces having made no campaign in the State, and no Coolidge candidates being entered in four of the eleven Congress districts, or for three of the seven places on the list of delegates-at-large. Despite this fact, the La Follette machine, still evidently in excellent working order, brought out a fair Republican vote in an effort to demonstrate the insurgent leader's power in his home State.

The vote on delegates-at-large in 317 precincts gave those favoring La Follette 31,998; Coolidge, 14,956.

The vote in Milwaukee was heavy, but elsewhere in the State a light poll was indicated, conditions resulting from recent storms having kept rural voters at home.

Daniel W. Hoan, Socialist, running for re-election as Mayor of Milwaukee, maintained a consistent lead over his opponent, David S. Ross, Nonpartisan, as returns came in tonight, and at midnight his victory was announced by the Milwaukee Sentinel, which supported Mr. Ross.

GOOD WISHES SENT AIRMEN

Round-the-World Flyers, Resting at Seattle, Get Messages from Nation's Officials

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE, April 1.—Good wishes and confidence that the four United States Army aviators who are resting here prior to hopping off Thursday to Prince Rupert, B. C., on the next leg of their attempt to fly around the globe will accomplish their purpose were expressed in thousands of telegrams and letters received by Maj. Frederick L. Martin, commander of the squadron.

Messages already made public include those sent by President Coolidge, Secretary of War Weeks and Maj.-Gen. Patrick of the Air Service. Maj. Martin gave out tonight those received from Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Assistant Secretary of the Navy; Secretary of Interior Hubert Work; Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, and Col. Calderara, air attache, Italian Embassy.

"The first part of your trip will take you over waters where Drake, Bering and many others of the great explorers sailed," declared Assistant Secretary Roosevelt. "They were opening up the sea lanes to traffic. You, in turn, are opening up the air courses to traffic and, like them, are heading out on a new venture. Good luck to you."

"May good luck attend you in your epoch-making flight. Bon voyage and a safe return," stated Secretary Work's message.

MESSAGE FROM HOOVER

Secretary Hoover's telegram read: "In view of the pioneering achievements of Americans in the fields of aviation, radio and other sciences, it is particularly fitting that you should be leaving the Continental United States on an expedition which seeks to show to other nations the practicability of girding the world through the air. You are about to demonstrate that the spirit of those earlier Americans who faced unknown dangers in navigating the seas still lives in those who navigate the air. In your great undertaking the earnest hopes and prayers of every American for your success will go with you and that knowledge will undoubtedly help to cover the rougher portion of your endeavor. I wish to join with my fellow-countrymen in offering my heartiest wishes for the success of your enterprise."

Col. Calderara said in part: "On behalf of Italy's air force and aero club, in the name of all pilots of my country, I wish with all my heart you and your mates complete success."

ARRANGES ROUTE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PEKING, April 1.—Lieut. Malcolm Lawton, advance manager for the United States Army aviators, who are attempting to fly around the world, has arrived at Peking where he is enlisting the co-operation of Chinese officials. Lieut. Lawton is proceeding ahead of the route, arranging landing fields, repair stations, etc.

The machines lack wireless equipment and it is felt that it would be dangerous to travel in the interior, so Lieut. Lawton is suggesting a change in the route so that the longest flight would be seventy-five miles, not including several strips where it will be impossible to land.

Leaving Shanghai, Lieut. Lawton proposes the following bases: Amoy, Hong Kong, Haihpong, Tourane, Saigon, Bankok, Rangoon, Akyab and Calcutta. Lieut. Lawton goes to Shanghai tomorrow.

HAMON NOT "SPENDER"

Aide Tells About "Huge Gifts"

Says Oil Man Great Kidder, in Declaring Jennings Testimony "Bunk"

Denies Hays or Daugherty Received Large Sums at Convention

BY J. O'DONNELL BENNETT
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 1.—That it cost Jake Hamon $105,000 to be a Republican national committeeman in 1920 was told under oath to the Teapot Dome investigation committee of the United States Senate today by J. E. Dyche, who added that he personally expended $50,000 of Hamon's $105,000.

And R. H. Wilson, State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Oklahoma, swore that after the Harding convention Jake Hamon told him that when the Harding organization found itself broke in Chicago he had "advanced them" $25,000.

"To whom did he give it?" asked Senator Walsh.

"To Harding's manager, Harry Daugherty," the superintendent of public instruction replied.

Later in the committee's sitting Dyche, who was grand almoner for Jake Hamon, said this of Mr. Wilson:

QUITE A KIDDER

"Bob Wilson is a reputable gentleman and if he says Jake Hamon told him that he gave Daugherty $25,000 for the Harding cause then I believe Jake did tell him that—but Jake was quite a kidder and when he was talking to these Democrats he sometimes said things he didn't mean."

It was the Bob Wilson thus vized as "a reputable gentleman"—and he looked and spoke the part with quiet dignity—who contributed one of the gems to a day's testimony that was full of roughhewn laconicisms.

"What sort of man was Jake Hamon?" asked Senator Walsh.

"He was in the oil business," the superintendent of public instruction replied, and seemed to think this answer ample, for he added naught to it.

It also came out that the name Hamon is properly pronounced like Hammond without the D and while Senator Walsh was reading aloud some back testimony that included his name, he invariably pronounced it as if spelled Welsh. They say in Washington that he always does.

NOTHING FOR BANDS

Another treasure—this time contributed by Mr. Dyche—was added to record when he was asked what all that money—that $105,000—went for. Did any of it, for example, go for bands?"

"No," Mr. Dyche replied dryly, "we didn't run a band campaign. It was the hardest political fight that was ever pulled off in the State."

Senator Stanfield, Republican, Oregon, with eyebrows elevated—one to express curiosity and the other amazement—said to the witness:

"You have a corrupt practices law in Oklahoma?"

Mr. Dyche with entire freedom from either present or retroactive anxiety replied, "I suppose so. I never thought of it."

All the last Thursday's testimony of Al Jennings relating enormous payment of money asserted to have been made by Hamon to Republican overlords Mr. Dyche took not with a grain, but with a whole barrel of salt, on which he vigorously slapped the label—

"Bunk," adding: "You may call Jake Hamon anything you want to, but he wasn't a fool and he wouldn't have told Al Jennings any secrets."

"Jake wasn't in the habit of giving away his money."

"NOTHING TO IT"

The inquisitors ran over Al Jennings's testimony that Hamon had given Boies Penrose $250,000 to the end that Harding, if elected, would appoint a "complaisant" Secretary of the Interior, and Will Hays $25,000 and Harry Daugherty $25,000.

"What do you think about that story?" Mr. Dyche was asked.

"Nothing to it," said he. "Such money as was paid out I handled, and no such sums were paid out. Jake could have done it but he wouldn't have done it."

The deceased was, in short, a large but not a loose spender. And upon occasion he dried up entirely as a font of benefactions large or small.

"I went home with him from the Chicago convention," Mr. Dyche said, "and he did not even as much as buy me a meal."

And as to Hamon having "bought the Oklahoma delegation," before or during the Harding convention, the witness grew dramatic and wrathful, shouting:

"That's just as false as hell!

A CALL TO ARMS!

California is today facing one of the most serious crises in her history.

California is literally in a state of war, with the hostile army already on her soil.

The spread of the foot and mouth disease not only gravely menaces the very existence of our tremendous live-stock industry but as well the whole of our agricultural prosperity and everything that depends thereon.

State and Federal experts are on the firing-line, doing everything humanly possible to a handful of overworked men.

But the only thing that can stamp out this plague is the whole-hearted co-operation of every individual in California in absolute and strict obedience to the quarantine regulations laid down for the affected areas.

City, county and State officials should make available from the public funds every possible facility to carry on the war. If 10,000 inspectors are necessary, get them. A few thousand dollars saved may mean millions lost.

Exactly in proportion to the energy and honesty with which you and I make this our personal business will the fight succeed. If everybody does his part the quarantine will be short-lived and normal conditions will quickly be restored. If an attitude of evasion and indifference is maintained, no one can say what may happen.

Los Angeles county is now in close quarantine. The regulations applying to this area are repeated below. They apply to every man, woman, and child in the county whether they have any live stock or not.

Read them carefully and follow them religiously. If all do so they will not be long needed.

HERE ARE QUARANTINE RULES

1. All movements of live stock to or from premises, including dogs, cats, poultry, carcasses of live stock, parts of products thereof, except eggs, are prohibited except as hereinafter provided.

2. Live stock originating outside of closed quarantined areas may be removed to points within any quarantine area for immediate slaughter, provided they are not unloaded en route within said area. Live stock for immediate slaughter may be shipped from closed quarantined area by official permit.

3. The movement of live stock, other than for immediate slaughter, from points outside of closed quarantined area to points within said area prohibited except by official permit.

4. Horses in harness and under saddle may be moved on roads, other horses may be moved only by official permit. Official disinfection may be required when deemed necessary.

5. Poultry, rabbits and pigeons may be moved from closed quarantined area only by official permit.

6. Carcasses of animals and parts thereof bearing Federal, State, county of San Mateo, cities of Oakland, Sacramento, San Francisco, San Jose or Los Angeles inspection marks may be moved and sold without restriction, provided the hands, feet, and hides are removed from calf carcasses and such carcasses are wrapped in cheese cloth and burlap.

7. Animals dead from causes other than foot and mouth disease in closed quarantined areas may be moved by official permit.

8. Hides, horns, pelts, wools and skins of domestic animals may be moved from the place of slaughter by official permit. Domestic animals within the meaning of this rule, shall include cattle, sheep, other ruminants, swine, horses, mules, dogs, cats, poultry, pigeons and rabbits.

9. The movement of hay, straw, fodder, grain and similar material used for packing, feeding or bedding, from or within closed quarantined area is prohibited except by official permit.

10. The movement of manure is prohibited from premises in closed quarantined area except by official permit.

11. Trucks visiting slaughter plants and corrals must be properly cleaned and disinfected before moving from closed quarantined area.

12. All persons are prohibited from entering or trespassing on private premises along public thoroughfares in any closed quarantined area except by official permit. This includes pleasure seekers, campers, flower pickers, mushroom hunters, salesmen, agents, peddlers, sheep shearers, buyers of live stock, poultry and junk.

13. Dogs may be moved only in crates by common carriers by official permit. Officials may destroy dogs and cats found on other than the owner's premises except those under immediate control.

14. Milk and cream offered for sale at farms shall be delivered at the roadside to be collected by receivers, or delivery made to plants in a conveyance which may be thoroughly disinfected. Conveyances of receivers are prohibited from entering private entrances or roadways where live stock is kept.

15. Milk or milk products may be sold or transported only by official permit, provided, however, milk sold and collected at farms, condensed and evaporated milk in sealed containers, milk powder and casein may be sold without permit.

16. All cans used for transporting of milk or products of milk moving within closed quarantined area shall be thoroughly washed, sterilized and dried at the plant before returning to farms. Clean cans shall not be placed on floors, platforms or conveyances until such floors, platforms and conveyances have been thoroughly scrubbed and disinfected with steam or a solution of chloride of lime in the proportion of one pound to three gallons of water. All cans used for transporting of milk or products of milk, moving from and to closed quarantined area must be handled in the manner indicated above and under constant supervision of an official at the expense of the plant.

17. Disinfection of milk trucks under official supervision is required before crossing county line in closed quarantined area.

DISEASE IN KERN COUNTY

Seventeen Foot and Mouth Cases at Bakersfield Bring Close Quarantine; No New Cases Here

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, April 1.—Foot and mouth disease has broken out in Kern county. Seventeen infected cattle belonging to the Kern County Land Company were shot late today and buried. State Inspector Bolender examined the suspected cattle and stated that there was no doubt as to the nature of the ailment.

The infected cattle were discovered on Kern Island, near Twenty-fourth street, at the city limits of Bakersfield. F. G. Munser, superintendent and general manager of the Kern County Land Company, reported the cases to the Board of Supervisors.

The whole county of Kern will be automatically quarantined. Federal authorities, headed by Dr. Rudolph Snyder of the United States Bureau of Animal Husbandry, will take charge of the situation. Dr. Snyder declares that if the disease is not checked immediately not a single carload of perishable products will be shipped from Kern county during the 1924 season.

WILL KILL ANIMALS

In contact with the seventeen cattle showing the worst symptoms of the disease were about seventy-five animals, according to Deputy Sheriff Floyd Dunlap. All of these animals will be killed and buried as soon as possible. Land company employees, in charge of the State inspector are working now on the island.

This morning the Board of Supervisors met to take whatever measures it saw fit to prevent the spread of this disease to this county. The result of the session was that Dr. Price Edwards, county live-stock inspector, was invested with almost arbitrary authority respecting the control of cattle.

EMBARGO PLANNED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, April 1.—Nineteen northern California counties from El Dorado on the east to Mendocino on the coast will probably bar livestock shipments from the south, officials here stated today. This is part of a program for the noninfected counties outlined at a meeting here today called by G. H. Hecke, director of the State Department of Agriculture. The program calls for maintenance of the quarantine and organization of the counties for uniform regulations in patrols, education and other phases. Each county will be asked to furnish men for the State-wide "deadline" around the infected area. This will leave the free area unhampered by quarantine and embargo.

Dr. J. J. Frey, chief of the dairy division of the Department of Agriculture, will meet tomor-

DAUGHERTY HIT IN NEW CHARGE

Witness Asserts He Delayed Action on Land Fraud

Testimony Given by Ousted Federal Attorney

Investigators Hear Denial of Judgeship Graft

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Charges that Harry M. Daugherty and Albert B. Fall, former Cabinet officers, by inaction and silence, aided the Miller Brothers of the famous 101 Ranch in Oklahoma to defraud the Ponca and Osage Indians of valuable lands, came out before the Daugherty committee today in the testimony of Herbert M. Peck, former United States Attorney of Oklahoma City.

The committee also heard a denial by Wayne Wilson, New York insurance man, that he had solicited $35,000 from J. Van Vechten Olcutt for an appointment as federal judge, as the latter had testified.

The Miller case, Mr. Peck said, was the biggest land fraud case in Oklahoma in ten years. The three Miller brothers, George M., Zack and Joe, own or lease 101 sections and it was the leased part of this land that they got away from the Indians, the witness said.

DEEDS DISCOVERED

Reciting the history of the case, Mr. Peck said that during the war, an Indian enemy, instead of being sent to prison, had been farmed out to the Millers. While working there he found in the safe nineteen undated deeds signed by Indians on their allotments. This "enemy" had turned the papers over to the Indian agency chief and the Department of the Interior had worked up the case.

The Indians, it appears, were in debt to the Miller Brothers' store, or for automobiles, or owed money in various places and all this was charged up against the value of the land which they had unknowingly signed away. Mr. Peck said the Indians thought they were signing a mortgage. In reality, he said, they had sold for one half or one-fourth of the value. As the Department of the Interior issued patents in fee to the Indians, the deeds were dated and recorded, he said.

Mr. Peck said 7680 acres had been taken in this way, worth at the time $50 an acre for agricultural purposes. Since then oil has been found in the locality.

AGENTS DISCHARGED

Mr. Peck was first informed of the criminal aspects of the case on September 3, 1920. He was then United States District Attorney. The Millers and two employees, Victor Norton and John Newton, were indicted in December, 1920, R. C. Bell was assigned by the Attorney-General, then Mr. Palmer, to help the prosecution. The case was set for the May (1921) docket in Guthrie. On April 12, a personal letter came from the new Attorney-General, Mr. Daugherty, saying that he wanted to make a thorough investigation and directing that the case be postponed until fall. In the meantime Bell had been fired. The Department of Interior investigator, Taylor, who had worked up the case, was discharged in June. On September 7 Mr. Daugherty demanded the resignation of Mr. Peck.

"I told him," said the witness, "that I was the only man left who knew about these cases and that they were coming to trial. He replied that an investigation had been made and that he felt the government would not be prejudiced by my resignation. No investigation had been made that summer."

Mr. Peck resigned October 31, 1921. He then received a wire from Rush Holland, Assistant Attorney-General, asking him to act as special prosecutor in the Miller case. Questioned by the committee as to the reason back of this he said that Senator Harreld, Republican, Oklahoma, was back of it and it was by his special request. He suggested that the committee call the Senator.

FINES ASSESSED

The case was set for February 6, 1922. He prepared to push the case and demand penitentiary sentences. He received a wire from the Attorney-General directing him not to make any recommendations as to penalty to the court. He agreed that the cases against Zack and Joe Miller should be dismissed, as their names did not appear on the deeds. The other three pleaded guilty and were fined as follows: George Miller, $7500; Norton, $1250; Newton, $1250. George Miller wrote a check, tossed it on the table and that ended the case.

In making such a light fine, the court said, according to Mr. Peck, that it was the government's business to protect its wards and preserve their property and that such fines would be sufficient in view of the civil suits to be instituted to get the property back for the Indians.

Mr. Peck said that he instructed the Attorney-General he was ready to start civil suits and that he could have had the papers ready in a month, but that he never received any instructions. No civil suits were started.

Former Senator Chamberlain had memoranda ready on which to cross-examine this witness and ask him if preparations for the recovery of the lands had not been started recently.

"About ten days ago," said the witness, "Edwin S. Booth, formerly solicitor under Hall, came down to Oklahoma and in a letter which I received asked me to help him prepare data for civil suits."

NO LIMITATIONS

The witness agreed that there was no limitation on these suits and they could be started now.

The committee obtained possession of Department of Justice files relating to the matter for examination in executive session and Senator Wheeler, said that Booth, a special assistant Attorney-General, would be summoned tomorrow.

Wilson, who followed Peck on the witness stand, although declared by Mr. Olcott to have fixed the sum of $10,000 as necessary to obtain the Presidential nomination for a Federal judgeship, and $25,000 as suitable payment upon the confirmation by the appointee in office, denied explicitly that he had made the statements, or that he was in any way connected with the Department of Justice.

Seeking to further Mr. Olcott's candidacy for the place, he asserted, he interviewed New York politicians and was told by one Edgar S. Newell, "who died a year ago" that "a campaign for the place might cost $10,000 or twice that much."

The money would be spent, Wilson explained "in getting indorsements and meeting expenses" but he insisted he told Olcott not to spend "a red cent" of his own money.

There was a momentary excursion by the committee into reports that special agents of the Department of Justice had busied themselves in looking up the record of Senator Wheeler. Emmett Dougherty, a special assistant Attorney-General, said he had been in Montana for a month recently, looking up complaints as to liquor prosecutions, but denied having investigated Senator Wheeler.

FALSE, SAYS MILLER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 1.—Declaring there was no fraud in his purchases of Indian land, George L. Miller, one of the owners of the 101 ranch, near Ponca City, Okla., today characterized the testimony of Herbert M. Peck, former special United States prosecutor before the Senate investigating committee as "untrue."

"Politics is at the bottom of all these charges," the ranchman asserted. To Peck's charges that the ranch books were so jumbled that it was difficult to ascertain the price paid for the land, Miller said a Federal audit in 1920 shows "just how much we paid, and Peck knows it."

Miller asserted the Indians received $99,835 for 3104 acres.

DEAD SEA EXPLORERS FIND MOAB FORTRESS

SODOM AND GOMORRAH SITES YIELD FINE POTTERY OF ABRAHAM

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ST. LOUIS, April 1.—The lower Dead Sea region of Palestine has been scientifically explored for the first time and with great success, Melvin Grove Kyle, president of the Xenia Theological Seminary of Missouri and head of the research expedition, writes from Jerusalem.

The expedition, which acted in co-operation with the American School of Archaeology of Jerusalem, reports the discovery of the old fortress of Kir of Moab and the region of Sodom and Gomorrah is determined. Graves of a cemetery there yielded fine pottery of the days of Abraham and the "glory of Sodom."

Dr. Kyle writes that the mysterious rising of the Dead Sea cannot be explained and the biblical story of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah is fully confirmed.

SAYS BUSINESS AWAITS TAX CUT

old parties and boost the prospects of a third party radical movement.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, a member of the Finance Committee, brought up the question of tax legislation in the Senate. He said that it is important that the tax bill be expedited and sought to show that the Democrats have not delayed its consideration in committee, and will not do so on the floor.

SECONDED BY LEADERS

Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, minority leader of the Senate, and Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking minority member of the Senate finance committee voiced similar sentiments.

Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah chairman of the finance committee, declared that he hoped the committee would finish action on the tax bill by Saturday. He asserted that this Congress will not take final adjournment without enacting tax legislation and that it should be possible to pass the bill before the national conventions. He explained later that by declaring that tax legislation will be disposed of before final adjournment, he meant that in case the bill is not passed before the conventions, Congress will return in July to finish up.

In response to a question by Senator Robinson, Senator Smoot said that the investigations had not delayed the tax bill.

EXPLAINS POSITION

Senator Robinson explained the position of the Democrats with reference to investigations.

"It is not necessary in order to secure legislation to cover up evils," said Senator Robinson. "There is no disposition on this side unduly to prolong these inquiries and to go unnecessarily into trivial or collateral issues. Necessarily, some collateral issues have been raised. Important business before the Senate will receive hearty co-operation from this side of the chamber. The object to be brought about by the investigations is in so far as possible to secure thoroughly honest investigations of the affairs of government. This achievement must be recognized as of primary importance."

Senator Walsh read a number of letters from constituents protesting because of delay in enacting tax legislation. He said that there had been no undue delay.

"I can assure the American people that there is no reason for a business depression because of indifference of Congress to this subject," said Senator Walsh. He added that he could promise passage of an equitable tax bill at this session.

AGREED ON REDUCTION

Senator Simmons said that "we are all agreed that taxes should be and will be reduced."

The question of soldiers' bonus legislation was referred also in the Senate debate. Senator Smoot said in response to a question by Senator Robinson that it appeared to be the sentiment of the finance committee that a bonus bill be passed at this session. He said, however, that definite action had not been taken on the question of reporting the bonus bill ahead of the tax bill.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon appeared before the finance committee at its morning session. He began a prepared statement advocating the elimination of the increase in rates on estate taxes of the House tax bill and the elimination of the gift taxes. He was interrupted by questions, however, and did not conclude his statement. He will return tomorrow to complete it. During his testimony today he was questioned about surtax rates and he reiterated his previous declarations that business is being held back by the retention of high surtaxes.

Democratic members of the finance committee continued to defer making public their schedule of surtax rates. They appear to desire to wait until the committee completes action on the bill. It is understood that the Democratic schedule calls for a maximum surtax of 40 per cent on income in excess of $200,000.

Probable postponement of the opening of the fishing season loomed as a suggested means of aiding in the fight. It is not now known whether this will be legal.

This organization will give the nineteen counties the right to ship fruit should an embargo against California fruit shipments be declared by other States, according to County Veterinarian L. J. Anderson of El Dorado county. He said it would give these counties a clean slate in the eyes of the Federal Department of Agriculture and in surrounding States.

MEET AT SALT LAKE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SALT LAKE CITY, April 1.—Western live-stock men met here today and formulated uniform quarantine regulations to prevent the spread of the foot and mouth disease. They organized the Western Live Stock Association with the following officers: President, State Veterinarian Butler of Montana; first vice-president, State Veterinarian French of Wyoming; second vice-president, State Veterinarian Douglas of Arizona and secretary-treasurer, State Veterinarian Smith of Idaho.

The plan will be presented to each State for adoption.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDDING, April 1.—The Shasta county Supervisors today voted to join Modoc, Siskiyou, Trinity and Lassen counties in the establishment of a rigid quarantine.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, April 1. — Fresno county is free of foot and mouth disease although a herd at Clovis is under provisional quarantine. Dr. Smith of the United States Department of Agriculture today said nothing in the condition of the suspected cattle indicated the dreaded disease. The rigid quarantine is still on.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MERCED, April 1.—Slaughter of infected cattle on the La Paloma ranch occupied the authorities today. No new cases have been discovered since yesterday.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—One plant was released from quarantine today. It is probable others will be released within the next few days. The disease here was confined to a small shipment of hogs which was killed a week ago.

Although no further outbreaks of foot and mouth disease in Los Angeles county has been reported up to a late hour last night there has been no let up in the vigilance that is being maintained. Yesterday the Board of Supervisors passed an emergency ordinance providing for temporary deputy live-stock inspectors as follows: Not more than five inspectors at $10 per day, not more than ten inspectors at $7.50 per day, and not more than 200 at $5 per day. These men will be under the direction of Dr. Leslie M. Hurt, Los Angeles county live-stock inspector, at whose request the ordinance was passed after he had explained to the board the seriousness of the situation and the need of this augmented force in handling the work. In order to prevent further spread of the disease to sections outside of the infected area, which is so far confined to the stock yards and packing-houses of Vernon, and the one individual herd there, Dr. Hurt has closed Downey Road from the intersection with Twenty-sixth street to the north gate of the Union Stockyards. This road runs through the highly infected district and on into a big dairy section to the south, and it is for the protection of the dairymen that travel over this road in that section has been discontinued. Bandini Road, which joins Downey Road near the Globe feeding yards has been closed at its east end, as has also a road running north from the Valley Boulevard near El Monte, on which a large number of dairies are located. Certain roads leading to the mountains and ranges may also be closed to prevent possible infection. Every precaution is being taken to confine the outbreak to the comparatively small area of infection, and the co-operation of everyone is asked to help enforce the drastic regulations now in effect in the county.

WIGGINS SPEAKS

Speaking to the representatives of the citizens' emergency committee which committee is assisting officials in charge of the outbreak, Secretary Wiggins of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce yesterday said:

"Many persons think that because they do not own live stock they do not need to be alarmed over the situation and are overlooking the economic side of the subject which should be of great concern to every line of commercial activity. An absolute embargo may be placed upon every product of our fertile soil if the quarantine regulations are not enforced to the letter so that this disease can be segregated and stamped out."

A special bulletin has been prepared by Dr. Laura B. Bennett, assistant director of health and development department, which deals with the character of foot-and-mouth disease, and the necessity of using extreme caution when away from home, and other information regarding the menacing disease, and is intended for distribution among the school children in an effort to secure co-operation from every man, woman and child in the fight to eradicate the disease.

PAYMASTER IS BELIEVED HERE

March 16. He did not appear at Jacksonville and an examination of his accounts was made. The shortage then was disclosed, his superior officers asserted.

REPORT DOUBTED

Officers of the Eleventh Naval district at San Diego said yesterday that they doubted that Brown's accounts could be short as much as $120,000. They averred that paymasters in his position rarely had as much money as that on hand.

According to the Naval Register Brown was born in Missouri, September 5, 1892. He was commissioned warrant officer in July, 1920, and promoted to lieutenant on July 1, 1922.

GRAPE JUICE IN PASSOVER RITE

Denver Temple Not to Use Fermented Wine

Leader Proposes to Remove All Temptation

Has Made No Applications Under Dry Laws

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DENVER, April 1. — Unfermented grape juice, instead of the usual wine, will be used in the celebration next month of the Passover, so far as the Temple Emanuel is concerned.

This announcement was made by Dr. W. S. Friedman, who revealed at the same time that since the Volstead law became effective he has never made application for sacramental wine.

"Fermented wine is not essential to any religious ceremony," he asserted. "In Temple Emanuel we have long since substituted grape juice for wine.

"UNNECESSARY"

"The prohibition law permits the use of wine for sacramental purposes, but I have always taken the position that while prohibition is the law, it is better to use unfermented grape juice than to take a chance on putting temptation in the way of any individual. I believe the law permits us to have something like ten gallons a year per family for sacramental purposes, but this is entirely unnecessary. Grape juice can be used just as well."

Dr. Friedman will conduct the Passover evening service before the Progress Club on April 18. It is expected that this will be the largest passover service in the city. Not one drop of fermented wine will be used, Dr. Friedman said.

OTHERS FOLLOW CUSTOM

So far as could be learned Tuesday none of the other churches in the city has joined with the Temple Emanuel in dispensing with wine in the celebration of the sacrament and substituting grape juice.

Jewish synagogues in a few cities have banded together in abolishing the use of wine in their services. They have taken the position that grape juice can be substituted and that the abolition of wine tends to check traffic in wines which are sold in violation of the law after they have been obtained for sacramental purposes.

Bullet-Pierced Body Identified as Yodel Bandit

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 1.—Ben Hassan, the well-dressed young bandit whose bullet-riddled body was found in a clump of bushes after a battle with police at Burlingame, Cal, on March 21, was identified today by Chief of Police Yancy of Long Beach by finger prints as the "Yodeler," a picturesque character who for a time operated in Long Beach.

Hassan, alias Hansen, was born of a Greek father and an Egyptian mother in Cairo, Egypt, thirty-two years ago according to the police. He got his pseudonym from the peculiar manner in which he is said to have warned confederates. Officer Wishon here recently saw a man standing between two apartment-houses. As he started to investigate, he heard a call, like a Tyrolean yodel. He caught Hassan but at the police station nothing was found on him. Returning, the police found a gun lying on the ground. As nothing could actually be proved, the judge gave Hassan a suspended sentence.

Hardly had he left court, however, before a woman identified his picture as a man who had robbed her house. He was recaptured. The identification did not stand in court and Hassan was freed. He lived at 369 West Fourth street while in Long Beach but left town within a few days.

According to the Burlingame police, he was killed as he was fleeing from the home of William C. Ewing, San Francisco banker.

BANDIT WITH BOBBED HAIR IN SHOOTING

Brooklyn's Blonde Robber Fires to Kill in Evading Capture in Hold-up

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 1.—Brooklyn's blonde bobbed-hair bandit, who has smiled through a score of daring hold-ups in the past ten weeks, shot to kill today when capture seemed imminent after a frustrated attempt to hold up seventeen employees of the Brooklyn plant of the National Biscuit Company.

Her victim, Nathan Mazzio, lies dangerously wounded in a hospital, attending physicians declaring he has put a slim chance to recover.

Today's attempt was by far the most daring in the girl's meteoric career of banditry, a career which she has pursued in spite of the efforts of 250 city detectives who have sought her and her male companion for three weeks, with orders to "shoot to kill" if necessary.

Accompanied by the inevitable male, she sauntered into the retail department of the plant shortly before noon today and asked for a dime's worth of confections. The clerked turned from the shelves to face a small automatic pistol in her hand and one in each hand of the man. He backed into a rear room at their orders. There they were confronted by fifteen girl employees and the cashier, Mazzio, who had just come in with a pay roll sack. The girl did the bossing; her companion worked under her direction. They started herding the seventeen into a smaller room that they might work at the office safe uninterrupted.

Mazzio suddenly seized her wrist in one hand and tore at her heavy veil with the other. She threw him off, sent him stumbling into the prison room, and slammed the door. Then she fired three shots through the door, all of them hitting Mazzio, who had fallen to the floor.

The two fled to a waiting taxicab and the woman, still leading, took the wheel. They abandoned the car seven blocks away, and the police later found a chauffeur in it, neatly trussed up with wire, and gagged. The two had called him to a hotel and directed him to drive to a lonely spot near the biscuit concern's plant. When he halted the car the man seized him, he said, and bound and gagged him while the slim girl stood over him with her pistol.

CALLS HAMON NO "SPENDER"

There wasn't a man on that delegation that would have taken a dime. And he didn't give 'em a dime; absolutely not."

HOW IT WENT

Then what did that $105,000 which caused the wide Oklahoma plains to blossom with Hamon roses actually go for?" asked the Senators.

"Was any of this money spent for fraud, bribery or corruption?" asked suave Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri, in a hushed tone, as one who was also saying, "Bless me, what words am I uttering?"

"Absolutely none," the witness answered.

Then whither went the $30,000 that Dyche spent of the $105,000?

"Well," said Dyches, tentatively, "yes, some of it went for newspaper advertising. Very little, though. And a good deal for circulars. But most of it was spent in organization matters—building up an organization."

Senator Walsh: "How?"

Mr. Dyche: "Well, getting men to look after things; getting fellows to work for us; getting the vote out."

This "looking after things" concerned the election of 3600 delegates who were to go to the county conventions in a Hamon state of mind, and they were to send to the State convention 900 delegates reflecting that state of mind, and the mission of the 900 would be to place Hamon banners in the trusted hands of twenty delegates bound ultimately for the 1920 Republican, National Convention in Chicago, with Jake Hamon also on that resplendent scene as Republican national committeeman.

GUNMEN TERRORIZE POLLS

Murder Threatened in Chicago Suburb as Scores of Auto Bandits Seek to Control Vote

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 1.—After a day of terrorism in which more than fifty gunmen raced in automobiles through the streets of Cicero resorting to gun play, kidnapings and beatings for the purpose of intimidating voters the polls of the village closed amid scenes of general disorder.

Seventy deputy sheriffs who had been rushed to Cicero early in the day after the first outbreaks, supplemented by a force from the elections commissioners' and the District Attorney's offices, had been unable to suppress the rioting, and it was feared half a dozen murders would be committed while the votes were being counted unless additional help were sent to the village.

ARMED QUARTET SEIZED

All forces of the county government were combined to put down the disturbances. In one capture late in the day four men were taken into custody, each of whom was armed with a revolver and carried 100 rounds of ammunition. They were taken by county highway police after a chase of several miles, in which numerous shots were exchanged.

Two Democratic precinct workers were shot, seven Democratic leaders were beaten and kidnaped from the polls or near them by hoodlums in automobiles and two policemen were severely beaten, while a third was kidnaped.

LUDENDORFF RAPS VERDICT

German General, Freed of Treason, Struts and Calls Acquittal Ignominious

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MUNICH, April 1.—Gen. Erich Ludendorff, master strategist of the German army in the World War, has been acquitted of the charge of treason for the part he played in the "beer garden" revolt at Munich last November. It was a popular verdict and in anticipation of it great masses of flowers had been placed in front of the former German first quartermaster-general and one of his codefendants, Adolph Hitler.

Hitler did not fare so well. He was sentenced to five years' confinement in a fortress, together with former Chief of Police Poehner. Their confinement, however, will extend over only six months and the remainder of the time they will be on probation.

Gen. Ludendorff was the only defendant openly to comment on the sentences.

CALLS IT IGNOMINY

"I consider my acquittal and the entire proceeding an ignominious affront to this uniform and the honor insignias which decorate it," the general informed the court, rising to his full height and thrusting out his chest, illuminated with double rows of Hohenzollern, Austrian, Bulgarian and Turkish orders and war medals.

A newspaper correspondent who ventured to observe that Ludendorff was "posing" was given a mauling by native Bavarians. The court refused to release Hitler pending an appeal, and as he and Gen. Ludendorff left the courtroom together, both rapturously acclaimed by waiting admirers.

DISCUSSION BANNED

Editorial discussion of the verdict must be deferred until the 3rd inst., according to an official decree, as the authorities fear that unrestrained public discussion would be inimical to the maintenance of law and order.

The court's verdict comprised a lengthy document in which the origin of the putsch was reviewed in great detail.

Gen. Ludendorff was acquitted on the ground that he had not been initiated into the plans of Hitler and others and was taken in by them as "an innocent bystander."

Tonight Munich's streets are thronged with festive crowds, celebrating what they consider a famous victory.

SNOW AND LIGHTNING VIE IN EAST

Spring Storm Takes to Heels as Winter Rages in Atlantic States

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 1.—A jazz snowstorm in which winter staged a rough dance with spring to a thunder obbligator and lightning novelty effects, and finally tired out its frailer partner, swept the Atlantic States today.

The freak storm was said to have set an April record in New York, and in most of the country it visited. Winter sifted down a fluffy snow to a depth varying from four and one-half inches in Connecticut to eleven inches in Baltimore's suburbs.

In all instances, the snow turned to slush when it struck the ground. It carried down telephone and telegraph wires about New York, interferred with harbor shipping, delayed commuters' trains and was responsible for a rear-end collision of elevated trains resulting in the death of one man and injuries to fifteen others.

Thunder and lightning provided the spring touch for nearly three hours at New York, but the snow did not turn to rain, and the spring-like disturbance acknowledged defeat just as darkness crept down.

The storm brought an early end to the deliberations of the Senate when Washington's streets had been covered under six inches of slush and traffic was generally disorganized. Downtown Baltimore was under nine inches of water snow and the opening day's race program at Bowie had to be put over until tomorrow.

Lightning and thunder flashed and rumbled at a great rate in both places as they did in New Hoven, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester and Poughkeepsie. The electrical storm gave Philadelphia a bad hour or so with broken telephone and telegraph wires, a partly crippled police telegraph system and with fuses blown out all over the city.

NEW RECORD IS SET BY FRANC

Short Covering in New York Held Responsible

French Currency Now Worth Close to Six Cents

Belgian and Swiss Money Also Boosted Up

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 1.—Rushing to buy French francs for settlement of short contracts executed in March, speculators trapped by the currency's sensational recovery today forced the rate up 30 points to a new record high for the year at 5.80 cents. Having delayed covering their requirements on the upward swing, which followed the establishment of an extreme low of 3.45 cents on March 8, short interests were forced into the market to avoid the heavy penalties attached to deferred payments.

The sharp advance of the franc took place in one of the most active foreign exchange markets of the year, in which Belgian, Swiss, Italian and Scandinavian currency attained new high levels for 1924.

SHORTS SCRAMBLE

Reports that Belgium shortly would obtain a credit similar to the $100,000,000 loan to France to combat bear raids on its currency, caused a violent upturn in the Belgian franc, which soared more than 75 points and crossed 5 cents for the first time this year. Late in the day it was selling around 5.10 cents.

Active covering by short interests, having no desire to be caught a second time, was responsible for the scramble to buy. There were also numerous settlements on short contracts in Belgian as well as French francs.

OTHERS BOOSTED

Flotation of a $30,000,000 loan for Switzerland and reports of a new commodity loan for Denmark brought about sharp upward movements in the currencies of these countries. The Swiss franc, at 17.57 cents sold at a new high for the year, and Danish exchange rose 38 points to 16.63 cents. The Swedish rate, advancing 2 points to 26.47, was the highest of the year and the Norwegian kronen mounted 20 points to 13.82.

In establishing a new high rate for the year the French franc eclipsed a previous high record of 5.63 cents reached on March 24. Interests close to the Bank of France, admitting that offerings of francs had been made freely to prevent too rapid an advance on covering operations, said they had found the short interest unexpectedly large.

HONOLULU SHIP DOCK GETS SITE

Bethlehem Company Plans to Move Alameda Floating Plant to Islands

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HONOLULU, April 1.—In confirmation of the report that the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation is considering plans for the construction of a ship repair plant and iron and steel works, here it was stated by J. J. Tyman, vice vice-president and general manager of the company who is in Honolulu, that a suitable site for the proposed industry is assured. He said his company will probably bring to Honolulu its large floating drydock, now at Alameda, San Francisco Bay, and that he is negotiating with the Inter-Island Steamship Company of Honolulu for a berth for the drydock.

Mr. Tyman reiterated that the plant which the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation will erect here will be equipped to make repairs to any ship that may enter port, and also manufacture sugar mill machinery and various other kinds of iron and steel equipment and products.

CLARK SENTENCE TODAY

Convicted Murderer of Schick Will Be Given Life Term; Driscoll Arraigned in Perjury Case

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, April 1.—E. Drew Clark, found guilty of first-degree murder in the death of George E. Schick, will be sentenced tomorrow morning by Judge Luce. In conformity with the jury's verdict, the judge will sentence Clark to prison for life.

F. J. Driscoll, Los Angeles newsboy, who as one of the two defense witnesses testified he saw Schick several times in Los Angeles, and who was arrested on perjury charges following his testimony, was arraigned today before Judge Luce. Driscoll was indicted late yesterday. His counsel, Archie Scheve, was granted until tomorrow morning to enter a plea to the perjury charge.

The indictment against Driscoll charges that he not only committed perjury in the details of his testimony, but also in the statement that he saw Schick.

Clark today, as in the closing days of the trial, was uncommunicative. His attorneys, Arthur L. Dorn and Shreve, conferred with him this morning relative to his appearance in court, tomorrow, at which time a motion will be made for a new trial. Whether or not this is granted, Dorn intends to ask for a Supreme Court ruling on two of the main points in the case; that pertaining to the corpus delicti, and the testimony written into the records by John V. Hendryx, the condemned murderer who swore Clark confessed to him the details of Schick's death.

It was remarked today by close observers of the trial that Clark lost much of his cocksureness as the case proceeded, and that he realized he could expect little mercy from the jury.

BRITAIN OUT OF ARMS CASE

Foreign Office Not to Intervene for Subject Held on Charge of Aiding Sale to Rebels

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, April 1.—Britain will not formally interfere in the case of Eugene T. Bailey, wealthy British subject held here on a charge of conniving in the sale of arms and munitions to the insurgents, it was indicated today by H. A. Cunnard Cummins, British charge d' affaires.

Bailey is agent here for Vickers, Ltd., of London, counted among England's largest shipbuilders and munition manufacturers.

The matter must necessarily rest with the Mexican authorities, the British representative stated. He refused to go into details but took occasion to explain the attitude of Great Britain toward Mexico during the last revolution.

In principle, he stated, England has been governed by the stand taken by the United States, particularly in regard to arms and munitions. The British government, he declared, has not permitted the shipment of war supplies to rebels.

Soon after the revolution broke out, he said, the British government took steps to prevent munitions of any description being sent from British territories to any party in arms against the Mexican government.

The statement by Mr. Cummins is the first made since the revolution regarding Britain's attitude toward Mexico. It served to dispel mysterious reports that England was inclined to take a neutral stand during the revolution.

Mr. Cummins refused to commit himself on the possibility of British recognition, declaring that this matter rested entirely with the Foreign Office in London.

In diplomatic circles it is pointed out, however, that the chief reason for Britain's refusal to recognize Mexico has been the inability of Mexico and Britain to reach an understanding on the loan made to Mexico by British bankers. The fact that several British railroads are still being held by the government despite President Obregon's pledge on assuming the Presidency to protect foreign property is also believed to contribute to the impasse which the governments have reached.

The negotiations between Mexico and London have been virtually dropped although the proposed trip to Europe of Education Minister Jose Vasconselos on what is described as a confidential mission is taken here as indicating a resumption of negotiations between the two governments.

KING'S POET IS NO TALKER

Dr. Robert Bridges Superlatively Reticent in His Views of America on Arrival in New York

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 1.—Dr. Robert Bridges, 80-year-old poet laureate to His Majesty, King George V of England, arrived on the Celtic today for his first view of America.

Reporters who met Dr. Bridges at Quarantine had little success in obtaining an interview other than the poet's prepared statement.

"My opinion of American poets?" he said, repeating one of their questions. "That's the very last thing I'll talk about."

Some one asked Dr. Bridges what his address would be in New York before going to Ann Arbor, Mich., where he will deliver a series of lectures at the University of Michigan.

"Why should I inconvenience myself?" was the poet laureate's answer.

Then he passed around a formal statement, written in the third person.

"He is especially interested in a scheme for the collaboration of British and American philologists," the statement said. "A committee of literary and philological professors was formed some years ago in America and they sent a letter addressed to Lord Balfour for Henry Newbold and himself (the poet laureate,) inviting the British experts to form a corresponding committee which would confer with them on the best means of co-operating in order to spread in educational and literary circles a knowledge of scientific and historic principles which are necessary to guide the development of our common speech."

"The project promises well," the statement concluded. Both committees have decided in favor of the "open court" system, rather than "anything like an authoritative academy," and the wide interest aroused in England and America has been "very encouraging" to its proponents.

ROBBERS TOO CLUBBY

Find Booty Belongs to Brother-Member, Take it Back, Arrested

BERLIN, April 1.—In a recent Police Court case, two professional housebreakers went up for six months—all because they were too "clubby." They entered the apartment of a prosperous merchant in the owner's absence, packed three trunks with valuables and drove off.

While they were investigating their plunder they discovered from the club pin of an athletic club to which they both belonged and a silver trophy cup won in a club competition that they had unwittingly robbed a brother-member. They packed up the loot again and drove back to the house to replace it. The robbery had already been discovered and the police, having been called in, arrested the thieves on their arrival.

NOT GUILTY PLEA MADE BY SINCLAIR

Oil Man's Bond Fixed at $5000 in Contempt Case; Scandal Jury Called

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, appeared in the District of Columbia Supreme Court and entered a plea of not guilty of an indictment charging contempt of the United States Senate. He furnished bond in the sum of $5000.

At the same time Chief Justice McCoy in the District Supreme Court ordered the impaneling of a special grand jury here on the 16th inst., before which will be presented evidence in the criminal charges growing out of the investigation of the naval oil leases. The evidence is now being put in shape for presentation by special government counsel in the oil cases.

Sinclair was allowed ten days by Justice Hoehling to withdraw his plea and enter a demurrer to the indictment if he should so desire. The oil magnate came here from New York today. He was accompanied by his counsel, Martin W. Littleton of New York, who raised before the oil committee the authority of Congress to compel the attendance of witnesses upon its committees; G. T. Stanford, New York, and J. W. Zevely of Washington, Dist.-Atty. Gordon represented the government.

Does Hot Water Wait For You or Do You Wait for Hot Water?

"Let's be frank. It is annoying to wait for hot water for shaving. It is annoying to wait for hot water after working on the car. It is annoying to wait for it any time."

"What a relief to turn the faucet and get hot water immediately. Full force, too, and as much or as little as you like."

"Hot water is not a luxury. You want it on the dot, ready and waiting for use. You can have it, too."

"Store hot water the Triangle Way. Don't wait till you want it before heating it. Heat it in advance and store it up for use. It is cheaper, more convenient and altogether satisfying."

Tuberculosis

Miraculous Results Are Testified to By Tubercular Sufferers Who Have Used the "Haelan" Treatment at Home

Dr. E. M. Davis, a prominent Denver physician, says: "I have personally treated a large number of pulmonary tubercular cases with 'Haelan.' Cases of the chronic type where a continual loss of weight had been recorded responded by a gradual gain in weight, a cessation of coughing, elimination of the blood streaked sputum, renewed vigor and stamina, restored appetite, a ruddy complexion, warm hands and feet, clear eyes and a general robustness of constitution which surprised most of all the patients themselves."

Similar reports from tubercular patients throughout America have convinced us that pulmonary tuberculosis can be overcome with "HAELAN" without leaving the home and without the inconveniences and enormous expense of traveling to distant climates.

Therefore, we offer "Haelan" to the public anywhere at very nominal cost on the following GUARANTEE: TO PRODUCE SATISFACTORY RESULTS, or its full purchase price will be refunded. This guarantee is backed by a deposit of $1000.00 in a large Denver bank.

Full particulars, testimonials, prices and a book on "The Modern Treatment for Tuberculosis" will be mailed free on request. Write today. The General Remedies Co., Dept. AB, Loop Building, Denver, Colorado.—[Advertisement.

MR. SWING HAS FEELINGS HURT

He's Awfully Peeved at Way Pet is Romped On

Doesn't Hesitate to Inform Power Head About It

Says Merrill Just Hopped All Over His Ideals

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 1.—O. C. Merrill, secretary of the Federal Power Commission, was charged in the House today by Representative Swing, Republican, California, with attempting "to undermine the policy" of the Federal Water Power Act.

Mr. Swing, co-author of the Johnson-Swing bill providing for governmental development of the proposed Boulder Canyon dam on the Colorado River, said Mr. Merrill in several speeches had attempted to discredit government ownership and that his speeches had been used as campaign literature by power companies in California fighting municipal projects in that State.

In a speech at Lake Placid, N. Y., last October, Mr. Swing said, Merrill referred to "the California Water Power Act campaign" as a proposal which "might embark the State on the troubled sea of political ownership," and in another speech at Asheville, N. C., last June said "we should not overlook the necessary limitations that surround public ownership."

DICTATOR SEEN

Mr. Swing declared that "whether you agree with the policy laid down in the Federal Water Power Act or not, no man who can read can mistake the fact that on its every page there is written the preference for State and municipal development of water power facilities," and no man who is sworn to uphold the law should "busy himself at every opportunity in trying to undermine the policy of that law."

"You know that the secretary of the Power Commission is the commission," Mr. Swing added, and the three Cabinet members "of necessity must depend on the so-called executive secretary." He said Secretary Weeks before the irrigation committee last week declared "there are not hours enough in the day to enable me to do my legitimate duties as Secretary of War."

ASKS LIMITATIONS

Mr. Swing said "it is sufficient to say" that Merrill "continues to urge all limitations he can think of against public ownership."

Representative Williamson, Republican, South Dakota, urged development by the government of a "super-power system" which would embrace eleven western irrigation and power projects already developed and also include the proposed Boulder Canyon Dam and the Muscle Shoals properties in Alabama.

Mr. Williamson said the government by controlling such a system would be able indirectly to compel private companies to make "reasonable power charges."

NEW YORK, April 1.—More copies of the Bible were circulated in China and Japan in 1923 than were distributed in the United States, the American Bible Society reported. The eastern countries' allotment was 2,868,605 as against 2,395,000 in the United States.

OPTIMISTIC VIEW HELD BY BANKER

Only Cloud on Business Sky Political Turmoil in Washington

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 1. — Arthur Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, returned to Chicago today after an extended trip through the West and South, optimistic as to business conditions throughout the country. The only cloud Mr. Reynolds can see on the business horizon is the political situation in Washington and the Senatorial investigations in progress there.

After giving his impressions gathered through his trip, which took him as far west as California and as far east and south as Augusta, Ga., on the Atlantic seaboard, Mr. Reynolds summed up the reasons for his optimism regarding business in the following manner:

The extremely large railroad tonnage, which is greater than last year.

The mail-order houses are in a better condition and doing more business than they did last year.

There is no marked rise in commodity prices throughout the country and merchants and manufacturers are not carrying the burden of extremely heavy inventories.

The steel industry is in a very fair way, as are the copper and allied industries.

The automobile business, which was feared due for a slump, is now in rather good condition and indications are for a fair year.

One Killed, Ten Hurt in Wreck in Snowstorm

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 1.—One was killed and ten persons were injured when an Interborough train collided with a B.M.T. train on the Corona elevated division of the subway at Rawson street, Long Island City, during a blinding snowstorm this evening.

A B.M.T. train, made up of four cars, was standing at the station when a six-car I.R.T. train plowed into it. Both trains were wooden. The dead man, William Quinn, was seated directly behind the motorman's cab and was crushed to death when the I.R.T. train telescoped the B.M.T. train.

Two ambulances were sent to the scene from St. John's Hospital and one from Flushing Hospital. The injured were removed in these and also in automobiles by persons passing by.

SUSPECT IN STUDENT SLAYING ON TRIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FLORENCE (Ariz.) April 1.—Despite hostile sentiment expressed in Gila county, no semblance of disorder is attending the trial here of William Ward, negro, charged with the murder, near Miami, on December 26, of Ted Grosh, a student at the University of Arizona. Ward had been brought here from Globe and lodged in the State Penitentiary in fear of lynching. A jury was secured without trouble. Mrs. Maxine McNelly Gilbert, who was with Grosh when a negro climbed into their automobile, later to shoot her companion, today made positive identification of Ward as the murderer and as the man who had mistreated her thereafter. Ward also is believed to be responsible for the murder of a woman in Phoenix last November.

MISSING MAN MAY BE DEAD ON PLAIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 1.—The sheriff's office today expressed belief that William C. Wilson has died on the waterless plain between Agua Caliente and Arlington. A cowboy has found Wilson's coat, miles from the road, but a sheriff's posse, circling around for many miles has found no trace of the missing man. Three weeks ago Wilson jumped from the Phoenix stage, twenty-five miles this side of Agua Caliente, saying that he was going to walk back. He was a member of a Masonic lodge in Sonoma, Cal., and had been employed here by the Santa Fe as a telegraph operator.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

RICHMOND (Va.) April 1.—Dr. Asa W. Chamberlain, 69-year-old surgeon, under sentence to life imprisonment for the murder of his brother, Judge Albert Putnam Chamberlain, planned to escape from the Virginia State penitentiary here last week, it was learned today. The authorities learned of the plot, however, in time to prevent the aged man from getting it under way. Maj. R. M. Yousil, superintendent of the institution, said today that a letter written by Dr. Chamberlain to a sister in Wyoming furnished him with information of the prisoner's intention.

SAN FRANCISCO NINE IS STRONG

Bert Ellison Opens Season With Veteran Team

Real Infield is Easily Class Entire League

Oaks's Pitching Staff Rated About Ace-High

BY BRAVEN DYER

About this time of the year, when the opening of the season is only a few days distant, baseball fans are prone to search the sporting news columns for the opinions of some one in regard to the relative strength of the Pacific Coast league clubs. Generally they are rewarded by finding the past, present and even future records of the respective teams. At the time the stuff may look good, but later in the middle of the season is usually productive of loud and raucous laughter. However, very few people save these papers that long and even less remember what a mere sports writer said, so here goes for a word or two concerning San Francisco and Oakland, other spasms to follow later.

Being winners of the 1923 pennant the Seals are content to start the 1924 season with practically the same club that copped the gonfalon last year. Manager Bert Ellison's opening day line-up will read much the same as the one which ran away with top honors a year ago. It has been said that every club in the league but San Francisco boasts of being at least 50 per cent stronger than last year and that the Seals don't care if they haven't improved.

NEEDS PITCHERS

In their practice games to date the Bay City players have shown a tendency to slam the apple hard, but have been handicapped by only fair pitching. And apparently it is in the box that the Seals are to find the going roughest. Manager Ellison has a number of supposedly good pitchers, but just what shape they are in is hard to say. Jim Scott, the veteran, turned in a very good game against the Pirates a few days ago. Williams has pitched some good ball, but the rest—Shea, Hodge, Burger, Schorr, Mitchell, Davis and Geary haven't shown the form the local owners would like to see. The loss of Doug McWeeney, who did well last year, will hurt San Francisco a lot.

No fault can be found with the local infield. Ellison at first, Pete Kilduff on second, Hal Rhyne at short and Ed Mulligan, on third make up a combination that looks to be the class of the league. In the outfield Valla, Kelly, Hendryx and the youngster, Paul Waner.

OBSERVATIONS by the INNOCENT BYSTANDER

W.M.H.

A lot of good friends of Jack Dempsey have expressed some worry regarding the possible outcome of a battle between the champ an dusky Harry Wills, because of the well-known cleverness and quickness of the dark-skinned giant. They point out Dempsey's well-known habit of dashing in with his guard down, and leading with a right swing to the head, much to the horror of DeWitt Van Court, George Blake and all other orthodox experts on boxing. The prediction has often been made that a clever boxer would take advantage of Dempsey's unprotected chin and lay him away.

What they seem to forget is that Dempsey is so fast that nobody has been able to beat him to a punch, regardless of whether or not he had his guard up. Tommy Gibbons was popularly supposed to be as smart as they made 'em, and twice as fast, but Brother Dempsey charged in on him at Shelby with his left down and his right swinging, and Tom was so busy trying to keep from being knocked into the next county by that right that he never came near hitting Dempsey.

Two or three times, particularly early in the fight, Tom did try to beat Dempsey to it when th echamp was leading with his right, but every time Dempsey's unbelievable speed found him hitting the mark before Gibbons could land. It may be that Wills can succeed in hitting Dempsey before Dempsey hits him, but if he does, he'll be the first guy to do it since Jim Flynn did it at Salt Lake City, many years ago.

Tiny Hartranft's performances in the U.S.C.-Stanford track meet were enough to write his name in history for years to come, and yet Tiny's performance was scarcely less spectacular and noteworthy than the marks hung up by the other weight heavers. Imagine a guy putting the shot 45 ft. and throwing the discus in the neighborhood of 130 ft. and still not being able to place.

Norm Anderson, with a heave of some 46 ft. in the shot and a throw of 142 ft. in the discus would have been able to win two first places against pretty nearly any institution in the world, and yet he was almost completely overshadowed by the giant Cardinal weight juggler. Bud Houser, tonsilitis and all, put up some performances that

HAGEN RETAINS GOLFING TITLE

Finishes in North and South Event Two Strokes Ahead

Score of 283 for 36 Holes Leads Strong Field

MacDonald Smith in Tie for Third Place

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PINEHURST (N. C.) April 1.—For the second consecutive year Walter Hagen of New York today won the North and South open championship. Leading the field by four strokes at the end of the first thirty-six holes yesterday, Hagen finished with half that margin today. His total for the seventy-two holes was 283 strokes, six strokes less than his winning figure last year, which established a new low record. Cyril Walker of Englewood, N. J., duplicated his performance of a year ago when he finished second, two strokes behind Hagen, with a total of 285.

There was a tie for third place between Johnny Farrell of Quaker Ridge and MacDonald Smith of San Francisco, their totals being 286, which outdistanced Jock Hutchison of Glen View, Chicago, by five strokes.

BARNES NEXT

After Hutchison came Jim Barnes, formerly of Pelham, with 292 and in a tie with Freddie McLeod of Washington for sixth place. Gene Sarazen of Briar Cliff Lodge, holder of the P.G.A. title, finished in eighth place with 293 by virtue of a brilliant closing round of 69, the best figure turned in by any of the contestants today.

Following Sarazen came Joe Kirkwood of Rockwood Hall with 296, and Henry Ciuci, 18-year-old professional star, and Tom Boyd of Fox Hills, in a tie for eleventh place with 297.

Hagen started the day with a four-stroke lead over Hutchison, his total being 136 and Hutchison's 140. At the end of the third round Hutchison had reduced Hagen's lead by two strokes, the Glen View Scot total being 212 and Hagen's 210.

In maintaining his lead and gaining his victory Hagen played wonderful golf, his driving in the majority of cases being the longest of any of the contestants and his approaching and putting superb. During the afternoon round he gave a brilliant exhibition of his ability to make recoveries.

The leaders:

Walter Hagen, Westchester Hillsmere	219-73—292.

Macdonald Smith, San Francisco	213-73—286.

Oxy Baseball Team Defeats Loyola Nine

Coach Wilkie Clark's Occidental baseball team got off on the right foot yesterday when they knocked one Loyola College pitcher out of the box and pounded another for several runs, making a total of six tallies to Loyola's two. Old Man Jupiter Pluvius saved further defeat for the Loyola nine when he cut loose with the rain drops and ended the game after the seventh inning.

The Loyola nine found Fulton for only four hits during the tilt and the visitors would probably have gone scoreless if the Tigers had not committed a couple of errors. All the Bengals were hitting the ball hard, several of them rapping out two-baggers.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Loyola College	2	5	6
Occidental College	6	8	2

FINE BOXING CARD AT VENTURA CLUB

Bob Spanuth, matchmaker for the Ventura Athletic Club, has completed another one of his good programs, for tonight's card at the club. Jimmie Hendricks of Santa Paula will trade punches with Frankie Oaner, who hails from Tulsa Oklahoma, in the main event at 128 pounds. Both these men shake a mean fist and the bout will probably be a fast affair.

Sam Langford will referee these good matches, which will feature Cy Cooper of Santa Paula and Johnny Villardie of Kansas City in the semifinal event, at 130 pounds. The special event will be a fast set-to, in which Al Thomas and Johnny K. Lewis will furnish the attraction.

Other good bouts on the card will be Battling Scotty vs. Tommy Moran, at 138 pounds. Jack Lang vs. Wildcat Ted Seares in the 145-pound class. In the 118-pound weight, Billy Tinkle will meet Finky Ellsworth.

Principals in the Conference Track Meet

Mickie Gardner of Pomona, shown above, is the Sagehens' hope in the 440, while Phil Buckman (below) is doped to take second in the 100-yard dash for Occidental. The annual event is to be held at the Coliseum, Redlands, Caltech and S.B.U.C. being scheduled to compete in addition to Oxy and Pomona.

ANOTHER DOPELESS MEET

Oxy and Pomona Figured About Even in Conference Track Struggle at Coliseum Saturday

BY CHARLES WEST

With Occidental and Pomona being the only colleges in the organization capable of carrying off top honors, athletes representing five institutions will disport themselves in their flimsies Saturday on the Coliseum oval in the annual track meet of the Southern California Conference. In all probability the margin of points between Oxy and Pomona when the last event has been run can be counted on the fingers institutions will disport themselves in their flimsies Saturday on the preliminary dope to be adjudged a favorite.

It is generally recognized that Caltech, California's Southern Branch, and Redlands will eat into the Tigers' points a whole lot more than they will into those of Pomona, but whether they will pull Pipal's score down low enough for

DENIALS FILL THE AIR WHEN RUMOR OUSTS DEAN CROMWELL

Violent rumors to the effect that Dean Cromwell, veteran University of Southern California track coach, is to be let out at the end of the present season were denied on all sides last night. It was noised about that the Trojan mentor would be through with the close of the track year, the continued failure of his squads in their efforts to defeat California and Stanford being given as the reason.

When interviewed last night Coach Cromwell denied that he was to quit. "I have heard nothing about it," was the mentor's only comment. E. C. Henderson, director of intercollegiate athletics at the Methodist institution, used three more words than Cromwell. His voice said: "As far as I know there's nothing to it." Warren Bovard, head of the athletic committee, which has the power of hiring and firing coaches, tied with Cromwell for briefness. The telephone eased the following into the reporter's ear: "We are not considering the matter."

FILIPINO DEFEATS GORDON

Young Nationalista Wins Vernon Main Event After Fast Battle

Abie Gordon is now probably convinced that he cannot defeat Young Nationalista. The Filipino handed the Portland flyweight a trimming last night in the main event at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena, thus making it two wins in two starts with Gordon.

Nationalista took three rounds, losing only the third, which went to Gordon by a good margin. Nationalista started out strong in the first and landed several rights and lefts to the face, bringing blood from Gordon's nose. Nationalista took the second round, although not much damage was done in this stanza. The Filipino started out strongly in the third, but when the round was about a third over Gordon suddenly came to and proceeded to put over numerous rights. However, Nationalista took all the better of the fourth and was handed the decision.

Al Grunan defeated Young Datto with a strong fourth-round rally in the semi-wind-up. At the start of the final round the fight was even, but Grunan had too much stuff. It was the second meeting between the pair at Vernon, Grunan getting the decision in the last battle, although everyone present thought Datto should have had it.

Jack Dempsey was introduced just before the main event and given a big hand. John Aasen, the eight-foot giant in Harold Lloyd's picture "Why Worry," also managed to find room in the same ring with Dempsey and challenged the champ—in an April Fool way, though.

Frankie Grandetta, the sheik flyweight of Portland, was given a firm and none too pleasant surprise by Battling Chink in the special event. Grandetta was expected to give Chink a boxing lesson, but the pupil turned out to be the teacher. Chink was simply too clever for the Portlander.

In the fourth bout of the evening, Jimmy Darrah, after being dropped for the count of nine in the first round, came back strong in the final stanzas and managed to win a verdict over Leo Matlock. Johnny McManus, subbing for Billy Ryan, was trimmed by Young Farrel. Billy Storey put Jack Rogers to sleep in the second round, while Red Williams took the decision over Sammy Cirinelli in the curtain raiser.

Tiger Frosh Add Another Win to List

Out of five games played with the best prep teams in the south the Occidental Frosh baseball nine has not been defeated once. Another victory was added to the list yesterday when they walloped Manual Arts to the tune of 14 to 2 on the latter's diamond. The yearlings were handicapped by the absence of Mischin, star first baseman; Condie, the regular catcher. Hitch was on the mound instead of Teachout.

Capt. Hazerott was the individual star of the day. Besides playing his usual excellent game at shortstop he banged out two home runs, a three-bagger and a single out of four times at bat. Hitch performed very well at the twirling, allowing the preps only three hits during the fray.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Occidental	14	15	2
Manual Arts	2	3	6

Hitch and Godett; Boran, Budley and Moyrn, Kobey.

TWO HUNDRED-MILE DASH AT ASCOT TURKEY DAY

Event Will be Held on Spectacular Hill Course; European Cars Expected to Take Part

BY BILL HENRY

The most spectacular road race in motoring history will be held Thanksgiving Day at Ascot with a purse of $50,000, just four times as big as the biggest purse ever offered for a road race. The course has already been surveyed and will be in condition within thity days for drivers to look it over. The race will be a "free-for-all" affair open to cars of any size or make. In addition to the $50,000 pize money, there will be a huge annual trophy and large gobs of side money offered by the accessory makers.

The above announcements were made yesterday by George Bentel, owner of the Ascot plant, demonstrating that although you can knock a good man down by hitting him with a motorcycle going a mile a minute, you can't fracture his nerve.

SURPASSES FORMER TRACKS

Yesterday, Raiph De Palma, at the wheel of a Packard Single Six, took a batch of experts over the proposed course and it can be said without any qualification whatsoever, that the new Ascot Road Racing course surpasses for its spectacular possibilities anything that has ever before been laid out.

A thirty-foot road will start on the present track right in front of the grandstand and duck out into the open fields at a point almost exactly opposite the start. It dashes across an open field and then up over the profile of a steep hill back of Canary Cottage, approximately an 18 per cent grade, and then doubles back down toward the track on an equally steep grade.

An extremely sharp turn of the hairpin variety takes the cars up a grade of nearly 30 per cent which is being used every day by all the amateur hill-climbers in town to test the ability of their cars to climb straight up. Right over the top of the hump the cars will disappear from view for a fraction of a second while they drop down a steep slope on the other side, and then they dash off straight up a canyon for nearly half a mile.

STRAIGHTAWAY DASH

Another steep left hand turn around a white house finds the cars along the ridge of the hill where the coffee sign is located, some 300 feet or more feet higher than the starting point. It is almost a straightaway dash from this point right along the back of the hill and then down a startlingly steep declivity to dash out on to

Hawaii Team Biffs Cardinals in Polo Clash

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, April 1.—In the first rounds of play in the senior handicap the Hawiian division team defeated the Del Monte Cardinals in one of the fastest games seen on the Coronado field this season, 9 to 6.

The Hawaiian team displayed brilliant stick work in all period of the game and their fleet ponies and close team work proved too much for the Del Monte aggregation. Col. Browne played well at No. 1 for the Hawaiians, making three of the winning goals, while each of the other members of this team made two. Elmer Boesecke played well for the Cardinals, but lack of team work kept them constantly behind.

The match started all square, as each team has a handicap of 12. The line-up follows:

Hawaiian Division — Col. Browne, No. 1; Capt. Reynolds, No. 2; Maj. Brewer, No. 3; Maj. Swing, No. 4.

Del Monte Cardinals—G. G. Moore, No. 1; R. Albright, No. 2; E. Boesecke, No. 3; W. Tevis, No. 4.

Referees — Carleton Burke and Arthur Perkins.

SANTA BARBARA, April 1.—A strong field will go in quest of the La Cumbre invitational golf title here this week when the fifth annual tournament is held on the sporty links. W. W. A golf dinner will be held at La Cumbre clubhouse tomorrow night for the visiting and local golfers.

The Pacific Coast Conference may add baseball to its sports program. Among institutions enrolled in its membership, favoring the addition of the national pastime, are Stanford and University of Southern California.

CHESS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 1.—Amateur chess players, good enough to compete in the same class with the masters, assembled for the international tournament today defeated the professionals in a problem-solving contest arranged for an off-day in tournament play.

Twelve problems were presented for solution from diagrams without setting up the pieces on the boards. Three amateurs solved them all. Richard Reti of Czecho-Slovakia, who made the best record of the masters, could solve only eleven in one hour and twenty-three minutes.

Irene Kashdan of the City College of New York, made a perfect score in one hour and five minutes. Alexander Alekhine, the Russian master, finished four minutes sooner, but had only nine correct answers.

John F. Barry of the Boston Chess Club, and Alfred Schroeder of the Manhattan Club, also solved twelve.

The second half of the tournament play will begin tomorrow with Dr. Emanuel Lasker of Germany leading by a full game.

CINDER STARS RUN SATURDAY

the Sagehens to leap over is a matter of conjecture.

In dual competition Occidental won from Nixon's proteges 74 1-6 to 65 5-6, scoring heavily in the track events and less emphatically on the field. The Tigers may be counted on to take about as many points on the track Saturday as they did against Pomona alone, but the field events will find Oxy many points weaker.

Pipal's ambition to have Argue go to Paris with the American Olympic team will make Occidental suffer. Argue's regular Saturday program throughout the season is to start off with the 100-yard dash, then compete in the high jump, dashing over to the shot-putting pit for a toss now and then, throwing the discus when occasion demands, running the 220, and finishing up with the broad jump. Although not capable of winning all these events against very strong competition, Argue can always be counted on for a few very valuable points. He has leaped over 6 feet in the high jump, won the national junior broad jump title several years ago at 22ft. 8in., heaving the shot close to 40 feet, and runs the 100 in 9 4-5s. and the 220 in 23 1-5s.

SPRINTS ONLY

Saturday Pipal will permit Argue to run in the sprints only, while Pomona will take advantage of his absence to collect points in the jumps.

Graham of Caltech, who with Goodenough of Oxy holds the Conference pole-vaulting record of 12ft. 5 3-4in., may rob the Tigers of a first place in this event which has been conceded to them ever since Goodenough entered 'varsity competition. Holly Moyse, another Caltech athlete, will cut into the Tigers' score in the weights, being almost sure to defeat Ridderhoff in both the hammer throw and the discus, while Thompson of Redlands may squeeze the Oxy strong man out of second place in these events.

According to present dope, Oxy can be counted on to win all but three track events, Pomona being heavily favored in both hurdle events and the two-mile run. The only field event the Tigers stand a chance to win is the pole vault. Conservative dopesters figure Oxy to take in the neighborhood of 56 points, over forty of which will come from track events.

Diles, Rogers and Richardson are strong contenders in the shot put, and will undoubtedly take two places among them in behalf of the Cubs, although Clark of Pomona is considered a slight favorite. He has put the shot a fraction of an inch further than Diles, but a victory by either man may be expected.

Hogue in the high jump is another Southern Branch man apt to take a point or two, while Groat of Caltech will undoubtedly place in the weight events.

FEATURE EVENT

Aside from these men, however, the points seem to be between Oxy and Pomona. Argue's victory in the 100 is conceded, and he will be kept out of other events to win the 220. Maxwell of Pomona will be kept out of the low hurdles to win the same event, and as both men have stepped the furlong in 22 1-5s. this season, the race should be one of the best on the program. An individual named Shultz at Caltech startled himself and everybody else early in the season by covering the distance in 22 seconds flat, but as he has not approached this time since he is not expected to do anything exciting.

With Bob Maxwell being counted on to do some heavy scoring, Pomona fans figure the Sagehen runners have an excellent chance of taking the majority of points. Maxwell will win the 120-yard high hurdles without overexerting, and is considered a third-place winner in the 100, as well as a possible winner in the 220.

Oxy's admitted firsts will be in the 100, 440, with Spangler and Powers performing, the 880, with Ellsworth, Carter in the mile, and the relays. Pomona can count on blue ribbons in the low hurdles and high hurdles, in both of which events they stand an excellent chance to win all three places. Two-mile Snyder being a sure winner and Javelin Eaton's consistent work in the latter event makes him a prime favorite. In addition to these events, the Pomona men may win the broad jump and shot put, in which case they will probably win the meet, providing their second and third place men come through as they are hoped to.

P. G. A. DENIES RECOGNITION

Jack Malley, president of the Southern California Professional Golfers' Association, received a letter from President Sargent of the National Professional Golfers' Association yesterday saying that far-West pros would not be allowed to hold a qualifying tournament for the national open championships this year.

Pacific Coast professionals had petitioned the national body for the right to hold a qualifying tournament here in order that players anxious to compete for the title would not have to go East to try out. As a result Dick Linares, recently crowned Southern California champ will be sent to the Western Open instead of the national open.

Weismuller is Too Fast for His Own Marks

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, April 1.—John Weismuller of the Illinois A. C., broke his own national A. A. U. record for the 220-yard free-style event at the opening of the national A. A. U. senior indoor swimming meet here tonight. His time was 2:14 4-5, 2 1-5s faster than his old record.

Dick Howell of Northwestern University was second to Weismuller and Dick Breyer of Northwestern was third.

In an exhibition, Sybil Bauer of the I. A. C. equalled her world's record for the 100-yard backstroke event, making the distance in 1.12 4-5s. and Miss Ethel Lackie of the I. A. C. failed in an attempt to break her own world's record for the 100-yard freestyle. She made it in 1.07 3-10s. Her record is 1:04 3-5.

Harold "Stubby" Kruger of the I.A.C., established a national A.A.U. record for the medley swim of 300 yards, divided into 100 yards breast stroke; 100 yards backstroke and 100 yards free style. His time was 3:52 1-5. This was not as fast as his world's record of 3:49 2-5 for the event.

Al White of Leland Stanford, national high springboard diving champion, won the low springboard diving contest from Leo Frazer of the Ambassador Swimming Club of Los Angeles, the titleholder.

In the water polo preliminaries the Olympic Club of San Francisco won from the Chicago Athletic Association 7 to 6, and the I.A.C. defeated the New York Athletic Club team 11 to 2. The winners meet tomorrow night for the championship.

OBSERVATIONS BY BYSTANDER

would have been good for a photograph any place else, but Bud was only third.

Apparently Young Stribling is perfectly capable of beating old man McTigue's boy pretty nearly any old time, but hasn't the experience necessary to knock out the old stager, as was shown in his fight Monday night. At all events, the Georgia schoolboy is a good fighter and is coming right along, showing improvement with each succeeding contest. If he can get McTigue in the ring for a fight where a decision is given, he seems practically certain of beating the champion.

McTigue seems to be just about the saddest world's champ we've had since Al McCoy held the middleweight title. So far the only man over whom he has been able to demonstrate his superiority is Battling Siki, the Singular Senegalese, and that seems to be no particular distinction, since everybody from Kid Alcohol on down has been able to wallop France's most recent gift to this country.

HAUGDAHL TRIES OUT NEW 'BOAT'

Norwegian Steals March on De Palma; Rivals Clash at Ascot Next Sunday

Stealing a march on his speed rival, Ralph De Palma, Sig Haugdahl yesterday afternoon wheeled his new Miller, a 122 chassis fitted with a 183 motor, sister car to Tommy Milton's Dry Lake record-breaker, onto Ascot Speedway yesterday afternoon for his first workout. So quietly did Haugdahl conceal his plans that not more than a dozen rail-birds were draped over the fence when the Norwegian did his stuff. Harry Miller and Haugdahl had purposely created the impression that the car would not be ready until tomorrow so that any information seekers would not be able to clock the spins of the famed Norwegian.

Paul Dekkum, veteran starter, who, since the accident to George Bentel on Saturday personally supervises all practice periods at Ascot, declared that while he is strictly neutral in things connected with the $25,000 match race between the two stars on Sunday, it is his opinion that De Palma will have to install a 184-inch motor in his present chassis if he hopes to meet the mad speed rushes of the intrepid Haugdahl. "The amazing acceleration which 'Hug' showed in coming out of the turns were almost superhuman," said Derkum, "and I am sure that if De Palma had been on the job and clocked the separate eighths of a mile he would now be busy at Millers making a change in his car."

De Palma admitted last night that he was disappointed in not getting a glimpse of Haugdahl in action, but stated that he positively will not use any car but his 122-inch Miller as it is at present.

JACK DEMPSEY TO BE FETED AT PLANTATION

Jack Dempsey will make his first public appearance here since his return from New York at the Plantation Sunday night when he will be guest of honor at a gathering of stage and screen celebrities. Dempsey will be the guest of Manager Sam Wolf and the champion will play host to a large number of his local friends. A unique event in the form of a dancing contest by rounds will be staged and the champ will present the winners with a handsome silver cup.

CARDS OPEN GRID PRACTICE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY (Cal.) April 1.—Glenn (Pop) Warner, formerly football coach at Pittsburg University and one of the veteran pigskin mentors of the country, took over the athletic destinies of Stanford University with the opening of spring football practice here this afternoon.

Captain-elect Jim Lawson and a big field of candidates turned out. The new coach said he contemplated no radical change in the Stanford method of playing. A steady upbuilding of the squad, rather than a spectacular flourish, would be his policy, he explained.

First Call is Close Winner at the Border

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, April 1.—First Call lasted long enough to win the feature race of the day at Tijuana, defeating Polly Wale. Polly Wale was pocketed to the stretch and, when given an opening, closed with a burst of speed that all but overtook the outsider. Mission Peak just did get up in time to beat the Spreckels horse, Alta Bloom, in the first race over the four-furlongs route. Summaries:

NET EVENT IN SEMIFINALS

Wightman, Cutler, Wright and Cutting Play in Indoor Tourney; Tilden is Victor

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 1.—Two Boston, one Philadelphia, and one New York player today survived first-round competition in the national indoor court tennis championship singles at the Racquet and Tennis Club, the winner of which will meet Jay Gould, of Philadelphia, for the title.

George W. Wightman and Roger W. Cutler, both of Boston, conquered Metropolitan opponents, the former eliminating E. P. Pearson by the decisive margin of 6-4, 6-2, 6-0, while Cutler disposed of Stanley T. Mortiner, after a hard battle, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

C. W. Wright of Philadelphia defeated John W. Appel, Jr., of New York, 6-3, 8-5, 6-4, while C. Suydam Cutting of New York, advanced by default of J. Gordon Douglas of New York.

A spirited rally when their American opponents were within one point of victory in the second set permitted Masanosuke Fukuda and Kei Okuno, Japanese Davis Cup candidates, to advance into the third round of the doubles play at the national indoor tennis championships by defeating F. C. Baggs and R. L. Baggs of New York, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2. Except for the elimination of Steinkampf and French, New Jersey champions, by Malone and Wiswell of New York 6-4, 7-5, favorites advanced in both singles and doubles.

In the singles, Francis T. Hunter, finalist at Wimbledon last year, and Frank T. Anderson, former national indoor champion, advanced to the round preceding the semifinals. Hunter beat Dr. Nestor L. Gretin of New York 6-2, 6-3, and J. P. Nikonow of New York, 6-2, 6-1. Anderson out-volleyed J. S. Miller of New York 6-0, 6-2.

Vincent Richards and Hunter, defending champions in the doubles, swamped George Stadel and Eugene MacAuliffe of New York 6-0, 6-1.

AUGUSTA April 1.—William Tilden II went into the semifinals in the singles of the South Atlantic tennis tournament here this afternoon by winning easily from Allen Behr of New York city, 6-0, 6-2.

Other players who went into the semifinals were: Cedric A. Majors of New York city, who defeated Vivian Manning of Greenville, S. C., champion of the Carolinas, 6-3, 6-2; Lawrence Rice of Boston, who defeated Roy Coffin of Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-2, and A. P. Chapin, Jr., of Providence, R. I., who defeated Leonard Beekman of Philadelphia, 6-0, 8-6.

British Rugby football players will sail for South Africa June 6.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Billy Gilmore, claimant of the lightweight title of Ireland, arrived today for an American invasion. He expects to make his debut in a match at Philadelphia May 1, with either Eddie (Kid) Wagner or Nate Goldman of Philadelphia.

CARPENTIER TO BATTLE TUNNEY

Dempsey Man Signs Articles for Bout With Yank

Heavyweight Fight is on for June 16

Sportsmen Seek to Put Tilt on in West

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 1.—Signed articles in which he agrees to meet Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, in New York or New Jersey on June 16, were received here today from Georges Carpentier, former world's champion, by Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney.

Gibson said that he would sign articles for Tunney and would go to Paris for Carpentier to accept tentative ring reservations he had made for passage early in May.

INVITED WEST

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SPOKANE, (Wash.) April 1.—Invitation to bring the proposed Tunney-Carpentier bout next July to Idaho, was telegraphed to Floyd Hamilton at Michigan City, Ind., today by Frank W. Smith of Boise City, who said he extended it on behalf of Idaho and Sportsmen and business men.

"As Idaho law permits twenty-round contests to a decision, Smith added Fitzsimmons "if not able to stage your July bout as desired in the East, would you entertain proposition to transfer it to the State of Idaho?"

are sure to afford plenty of hitting strength in addition to handling the fly-catching duties in an efficient manner. Agnew, Yelle, Vargus and Ritchie round out the catching staff, which is a capable group.

There seems to be a rather general feeling that Del Howard's Oakland team will have more power than last year, mainly because of a nifty pitching staff. Heading the list of hurlers is one Walter Mails, famous eccentric left-hander, who in addition to being a good pitcher draws crowds because of his South American brand of temper. Mails is due for a great season, but will have to do some smart hurling to keep ahead of Boehler, who recently held the Chicago Cubs to five hits. Fans around the Bay region think the latter will be the best heaver in the league this year. Other pitchers are Krause, Kunz, Arlett, Pierce and Murchio, the first three being old timers well known to local fans. Should George Foster, former Boston Red Sox heaver, have a good season the Oaks will be mighty dangerous.

GUISTO ON FIRST

Hard-hitting Louie Guisto, former Cleveland player, will hold down first base, with Spencer Adams, late of the Pittsburg Pirates, at second. Shortstop Bris baker is hitting in fine style. Maderas, third sacker, is expected to be one of the sensations of the season.

In the outfield Manager Howard has Cooper, LaFayette and Cather. Cooper, Cather and Guisto are allotted the heavy hitting places in the batting order and Howard expects great things from this trio. Old reliable Del Baker will work most of the games behind the bat, with Pete Reed, a youngster available for relief duty.

If the Oakland pitching staff lives up to its reputation and the rest of the team doesn't fall down the Oaks give promise of making the race pretty hot for the rest of the clubs.

San Francisco is considered the best bet right now for first honors, not only because they retain most of last year's strength but also because there doesn't seem to be enough good pitching in the league to stop the Seal sluggers. Defensively San Francisco must be given first rating.

The new order of track and field events passed by the Pacific A. A. and the Pacific Coast Conference requires the events to be decided in the following order: mile, 100-yard dash, 440-yard run, 120-yard high hurdles, 2-mile run, 880-yard run, 220-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles and relay race.

PASADENA DOWNS LONG BEACH

Pasadena High's tracksters romped rough shod over the Long Beach spikesters in a dual track-and-field meet staged yesterday on the Jackrabbits' oval, winning out by a score of 82 to 31.

Dwaine's winning throw of 46ft. 2in. in the shot put featured the meet. If the Long Beach weightman can heave the iron pellet out forty-six feet in the Southern California meet, he should be good for a second place as only one other Southland prep, Van Fleet of Chaffey, has been doing better than this.

Lewis of Long Beach took the 440 in the fast time of 53 1-10s. A strong wind prevented the athletes from doing anything spectacular in the running events. Summary:

880-yard run—Won by Crow (P.,) Mates (P.) second, Cellar (P.) third. Time, 2m. 12 3-10s.

100-yard dash—Won by Pollack (P.,) Garner (L. B.) second, Greer (P.) and Parent (L. B.) tied for third. Time, 10 4-10s.

Relay—Won by Pasadena. Time, 1m. 39in.

SAN PEDRO BEATS POLY

San Pedro nosed out Polytechnic, 58 to 55, by winning the relay in yesterday's meet between the two squads on the winning team's track. A cold wind and light showers prevented any creditable performances.

Jahnke of Poly took the 100-yard dash in 10 1-10s. However, the Mechanic sprinter was running down hill and had a strong wind at his back. The summary:

880-yard run—Won by Hickman (S. P.,) McKinnon (P.) second, Rafferty (S. P.) third. Time, 2m. 2 3-5s.

100-yard dash—Won by Jahnke (P.,) Aspe (S. P.) second, Hartman (S. P.) third. Time, 10 1-10s.

220-yard dash—Won by Ford (P.,) Hickman (S. P.) second, Hunt (S. P.) third. Time, 23 7-10s.

Discus—Won by Manse (S. P.) Nerwick (S. P.) second, Bones (S. P.) third. Distance, 111ft. 2in.

Mile run—Won by Walsh (P.) G. Rafferty (S. P.) second; J. Rafferty (S. P.) third. Time, 5m. 2s.

High jump—Won by H. Coggeshall (P.) Sutton (S. P.) second, Delavallade (P.) third. Height, 5ft. 9in.

Broad jump—Won by Fletcher (P.,) Sutton (S. P.) second, Marley (S. P.) third. Distance, 19ft. 1in.

JEFFERSON IS VICTOR

In a meet featured by Archie Woodyard's sensational sprinting, Jefferson defeated Huntington Park, 71 to 42, yesterday on the Spartans' cinderpath. Woodyard won both dashes, clipping off the century in 10 1-10s. and the furlong in 22 1-10s.

Graham starred for the losers by taking first in both hurdle events. In the low barrier race Graham was checked in the respectable time of 26 3-10s., while the time for the highs was 17s. flat. The Democrats made a clean sweep in both the pole vault and the 100-yard dash. The summary:

880-yard run—Won by Martin (J.,) Gooch (H. P.) second, Dickinson (H. P.) third. Time, 2m. 15s.

100-yard dash—Won by Woodyard (J.) Williams (J.,) second; Karpeles (J.) third. Time, 10 1-10s.

SEALS AND OAKS STOPPED BY RAIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—The Seals and the Oaks both rested today because of rain. The ball tossers didn't kick about it, either, forty have been working pretty steadily for more than a month now. Weather permitting, both clubs will play games here first of the week, then the Seals will square away, get out the new white uniforms and prepare to meet Portland in the opening game next Tuesday.

The Oaks must go to Salt Lake to open the season, and are just as apt as not to run into a snowstorm. They did that one year, and it took the boys some time to get in shape again.

KILLEFER HAS TEAM ON EDGE

Siwashes Show Pep in Work at Washington Park

Many Familiar Faces in the Seattle Line-up

Tigers and Angels Indulge in Hard Training

BY ED O'MALLEY

The local gate crushers at Washington Park got a slant at Red Killefer and his happy family of Siwashes yesterday afternoon. Red signalized his return to the old stamping grounds by donning a uniform and pepping things up most decidedly. Familiar faces among the Indians bobbed up in Billy Lane, Sammy Crane, Ray Rowher, Red Baldwin, Suds Sutherland, Brick Eldred, Ted Baldwin and that Coast League Methuselah, Wheezer Dell.

The Siwash infield of Bowman at first, Brady at second, Baldwin at third and Crane at short displayed a well-oiled machine. Bowman, built on the lines of Babe Ruth looks good at the initial. He hit .367 in the Eastern League last year. Sawed-off Cliff Brady at the keystone, is one of the smallest players on the Coast. He was regarded as the best second sacker in the International League last season.

HAVE SHOWN WARES

Crane and Baldwin have shown their wares to local bugs. Both are in excellent fettle and fielding smoothly. The outfield of Lane, Eldred and Rowher is one to conjure with. Rowher and his war club should prove a tower of strength to Seattle this season.

Among the pitchers are Bagby, Vean Gregg, Sutherland, Dell, Carl Williams, Percy Jones and Steuland. George Cutshaw wore a Siwash uniform and did a lot of coaching for the Yanigans. George will be used as a utility infielder and pinch hitter. If Brady and Bowman can come through with the stick, Killefer should be right up there at the end of the season. The team will hold forth at Washington Park until tomorrow at noon—then the lads go over to Glendale and finish their work, preparatory to taking on the Angels here next Tuesday afternoon.

CONTINUE WORK

At Maier Park, Vernon, the festive Bengals continued their inter-club series, Chadbourne's nine winning from Hannah's 9 to 6. This makes the series stand 5 to 4 in favor of Hannah. Christian heaved for Chadbourne and Sellers for Hannah. The series will be continued until Sunday when the Tigers, 28 strong, will leave here for Sacramento to tackle the Senators next Tuesday. McDowell, in keeping with his Babe Ruth work of last week, bunted another pill over the fence yesterday at Maier Park, almost putting a Santa Fe avenue street car on the bum.

Marty Krug put his Angels through a course of sprouts yesterday afternoon at "New Iowa." The Celestials were in zippy action from 10 a.m. until 1 o'clock p.m. Krug will keep his prospective pennant winners at Long Beach until tomorrow morning, when they will entrain for dear old Los Angeles, and get back to home and mother.

Sam Grant, batting for Jimmy Austin yesterday afternoon, struck out twice with the bases full. Said Jimmy—"No more pinch hitting stiffs for me."

HUGE PURSE UP FOR ROAD RACE

the present track squarely in front of the stand.

This course, which may possibly be slightly changed in the next three or four days, will cover a total distance of approximately four and a half miles, more than half of which will be in full view of the grand stand. De Palma, an expert on such matters, believes that cars properly designed can average in the neighborhood of 50 miles an hour for fifty laps, a total distance of nearly 250 miles.

The automobile factories of America and Europe are expected to send their experts out to view the course and design cars for the race, which will without any question be the severest test of a motor car imaginable. Not less than four speeds will be necessary to negotiate the steep and varying gradients with any degree of speed while four-wheel brakes will be an absolute necessity.

EXPECTS FIFTY ENTRIES

"This course will, in addition to being a test of driving, bring out and emphasize the very qualities which the motor car manufacturers want in their automobiles," said De Palma yesterday. "It will not be a race for stock cars, but neither will it be a race for racing cars. The car that is sturdily built, equipped with unusual power and quick pick-up and the ability to slow down rapidly and handle well on sharp turns will make the showing."

Mr. Bentel, who is confined to his bed and expects to be for six or eight weeks as a result of an accident last Saturday, anticipates in the neighborhood of fifty entries for the event and will build garages and bungalows to accommodate the racing cars and their crews weeks in advance of the big race. Maps showing the layout of the course and its profile are in course of preparation and will be sent to factories in this country and in Europe.

Work will be started on the new road within ten days, as the course is already laid out with stakes tentatively and as soon as experts have chosen the exact route the men will go to work on it.

HOLLYWOOD OUTFIT JAUNTS TO GLENDORA

The strong Hollywood Mershants will delay the opening of their new baseball grounds in Hollywood, located one block South of Santa Monica Boulevard on Highland one week. The opening game to take place on Sunday afternoon, April 13.

The Hollywood club will journey to Glendora Sunday to tackle Pol Perrit's strong nine on the latter's field. This should be a hard fought game as both nines are evenly matched and should put up a close, hard-fought battle. These clubs met some months ago and Glendora won, 2-to-1. Since that time Hollywood has been begging for a return game.

HENDRICKS TO MEET OSNER IN MAIN BOUT

Jimmy Hendricks of Santa Paula will meet Frankie Osner, Tulsa featherweight, in the main event at the Ventura Athletic Club's weekly bouts tonight. Matchmaker Bob Spanuth claims that the two should put up a great battle. Cy Cooper and Johnny Villardie, junior lightweights, clash in the semi-wind-up.

A pair of middleweights, Al Thomas and Johnny K. O. Lewis, hook up in the special event. In the other bouts Battling Scotty faces Tommy Moran, Jack Lang meets Wildcat Ted Searcs and Billy Tinkle tangles with Pinky Ellsworth. Sam Langford will referee.

"For the past two years I have used Aristo Motor Oil exclusively in my Studebaker Six. Previous to that time I had used a number of different motor oils. Before adopting Aristo I had two scored cylinders and considerable trouble. Recently I had occasion to put new piston rings in my motor and upon examination I found that all rings were free and there was practically no carbon deposit."

Use ARISTO And get like results

25,000 "Carbonless" Miles

Is Another Man's Experience

HE has used Aristo Motor Oil in his 1920 Maxwell ever since he bought it—so he writes—and has found a small amount of "soft, fluffy carbon that could be blown out with an air hose."

A third man's Cadillac has gone 50,000 miles without attention to a valve or spark plug.

Scores of others write in the same vein. And all use nothing but Aristo.

The reason is that the residue from Aristo doesn't cling. Most of it blows out with the exhaust. That which stays is soft and fluffy—softer than the metals of a motor, so it can't cause wear.

The other kind, called "carbon," which accumulates in many motors, is hard and flinty,—hard enough to scratch and score the hardest cylinders and pistons.

It attaches to valves and valve seats so power is lost.

It short-circuits spark plugs and becomes incandescent, causing "missing" and "knocking."

The residue from Aristo avoids these troubles, dangers and the expense of repairs.

Spark plugs remain efficient—a hot spark comes from each.

Valves seat properly—full compression is retained.

A better, smoother motor, better insured against deterioration, is the result; and what man doesn't want that kind?

All motor oils, of whatever make, deposit some kind of residue. Every oil refiner knows that.

One is practically harmless. It permits great mileages without the necessity of taking motors down and the loss of the car's use.

You can get the same results. Drain your crank case so you'll have pure Aristo. Always fill with the same oil to keep it pure. Then simply note your mileage to see how much you get.

For sale at all first-class garages and service stations.

Simple Way to Relieve Gas on Stomach

Nearly everybody is troubled at times with sour gas in the stomach and bloat. In many cases the stomach stands and presses against the heart, causing intense pain, palpitation, difficult breathing or other annoying symptoms. As a rule, these attacks are accompanied by burning in the stomach, sadness, dizziness, blues, drowsiness after eating, or a peculiar nervous tense.

The quickest way to prevent such distress is to take Hope Gas Tablets before eating. They are wonderfully soothing to the stomach, and when used as directed will generally give permanent, lasting results. "Hope," the original and only genuine Gas Tablets. Sold in Los Angeles by the Owl and Sun Drug Stores and all leading druggists. Price, $1.00 everywhere. Koenicke & Kumpes Co., Min. San Francisco.—[Advertisement.]

ARIZONA QUIZ REPORT IS DUE

Committee Will Announce Highway Evidence

No Whisper of Corruption is Heard

Partisan Inquiry Has Cost Nearly $65,000

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 1.—Intimation is given that the joint committee of the last Legislature is about ready to submit its report on highway department conditions during the Campbell Republican State administration. It has been meeting at the Capitol for several days. Under the resolution of authorization, its report is to be made to the Governor and to the presiding officers of the Senate and House.

The committee was formed early in the last session, after announcement from the newly organized Democratic highway department that it had no funds with which to proceed. Assumption then openly was voiced that the preceding highway administration had been irregular in its operations and there was partisan expression of belief that much of this would be uncovered by immediate investigation.

Especial objection was made to the manner in which State Engineer Tom Maddock is declared to have "switched" construction funds from one project to another, as temporary relief. Large appropriations were voted to continue the highway work, till it was found that ample funds already were available, partially from accruing Federal appropriations.

The committee, a wholly partisan one, headed by Senator H. A. Elliott of Clifton, has had about $65,000 available for its investigation and is understood to have spent about the whole sum. An itemized statement of its expenditures undoubtedly will be demanded by Republicans in the next Legislature. Much of the money has gone to auditors, brought in from Chicago. No whisper has come from the committee that any evidence of corruption has been found. The bookkeeping system complained of was one installed when Lamar Cobb, Democrat, was State Engineer and is the same used by several western railroad systems.

RIOT CAUSED BY "LOOF LIRPA"

Story of Treasure Trove Makes Lodi Forget What Day it is

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LODI, April 1.—A notice sent to a local paper by "Loof Lirpa" that he had recovered $25,000 in gold dust which had been buried by an old miner at his home, sent curious crowds scurrying to the address given in the notice. The owner of the property had to call the police to check the gold rush.

Examining the newspaper item, the owner discovered that "Loof Lirpa" is merely "April Fool" spelled backward.

Bandits Slay Bank Carrier and Get Cash

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MONTREAL, April 1.—Bandits shot and killed a messenger of the Bank of Hochelaga here today. The slayers stole $10,000.

Henri Clereux, a messenger who was taking the money to a branch of the bank in the East End of the city, was slain when several robbers jumped on the running board of his automobile as he slackened speed for a crossing. Roland Fortier, who accompanied Clereux, fell unconscious from a wound as Clereux dropped dead upon the wheel. The bandits seized their booty and fled.

The tragedy occurred in a thickly settled place and hundreds of persons watched it.

TO OPEN HARDWOOD TRACT

DEER RIVER (Minn.) April 1. A deal whereby a valuable tract of hardwood timber in the northern part of the State will be taken over, is said to be one of the reasons for the visit of a party of Middle West and eastern hardwood lumber manufacturers to Deer River and vicinity. The tract, now held in reserve, is expected to be made available soon.

GEESE FLYING NORTH

PIPESTONE (Minn.) April 1.—Great flocks of geese have been observed daily flying northward over this city. Sportsmen attribute the early flight of the birds to the severe storms and freezing weather experienced in the southern States.

RECORD FOR NEW FIRMS IS SMASHED

Incorporations in Month Break Previous Marks for California

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, April 1.—Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan announced today that more new corporations were formed in California last month than in any other month in the history of the office.

In March 536 corporations filed articles, an increase of five over January, which established the previous high record.

Collections for the month totaled $112,110.99, with corporation filing fees amounting to $48,712.48 and license taxes totaling $63,398.53.

For the first three months in 1924 the collections of the office totaled $1,280,641.75, an increase over the some period in 1923 of $165,514.34.

Announcement was made today by State Controller Ray L. Riley that 1539 corporations forfeited their right to do business in California for failure to pay the State corporation franchise tax for 1923.

In order to be revived the suspended corporations must pay the delinquent tax and penalties and a like amount of tax for the year of revival. Riley expects many of the corporations will be revived during the year.

DAM INTERESTS PLAN HONORS FOR PIONEERS

MORMON FLAT AND HORSE MESA WORKS UP FOR CHRISTENING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 1.—Suggestion that the new Mormon Flat Dam of the Water Users' Association be named after W. J. Murphy, a pioneer canal builder of the Salt River Valley, now is followed by a movement to name the newer Horse Mesa Dam after B. A. Fowler, first president of the association and its head for seven years after its formation. He was twice president of the National Irrigation Congress and several times was president of the Phoenix Board of Trade. His main service, however, was in the years before water storage was secured by the valley, spending much time in Washington, at his own expense, forwarding the interests of the valley's farmers.

It is remembered that the present Roosevelt Dam, heart of the local reclamation system, first was known as the Tonto Basin Dam, an unhappy designation, as "Tonto" is the Spanish word for "fool." So it is proposed to continue the system by naming all the project's structures after men who served to bring water storage to the valley.

FIGURES REVEALED ON LIQUOR SHIPPING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CALGARY, April 1.—One ship working out of the port of Vancouver has carried 100,000 cases of liquor, ostensibly to Mexico, since June 1923, and another vessel has cleared from that place with 80,000 cases since November, it was stated here by the representatives of thirty of the largest distilleries and wine houses in the world, in the course of an interview with a local newspaper. He intimated that the examples that he cited were but a few in the constant stream of liquor that is cleared from Vancouver for "Mexico," most of which finds its way to the western coast of the United States.

He also intimated that the large whisky firm of the old country, particularly the powerful distillery combines who advertise their goods world over, were watching the developments in Canada under the government control system with the keenest interest.

J. P. MORGAN'S VISIT TO TURKEY AWAITED

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 1.—Turkish official circles are awaiting the arrival of J. P. Morgan who, it is believed, is coming on an important mission. Ever since Mustapha Kemal Pasha restored the nation to Turkish control, Turkey has been expecting to enter money relations with America.

It now is believed that Mr. Morgan personally will engineer floating of a loan or otherwise arrange Turkish affairs. Representatives of Hugo Stinnes have gone to Angora prepared to offer the government a contract for many millions of dollars for the reconstruction of railways and water ways and the exploitation of natural resources.

PLATOON SYSTEM IN PHOENIX SCHOOLS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, April 1.—In view of the advance of local school enrollment, as the rate of 10 per cent per annum, Superintendent Loper next term will put into effect the platoon system of instruction, thereby expecting to increase by 25 per cent the capacity of the city's present school buildings, this without additional gross expense. Under this system, school rooms would be used only for recitations. He also is planning installation of a junior high school, in which the children of the senior grammar grades would be given more latitude in study of things for which they have a natural inclination.

BLUEBONNETS IN FULL BLOOM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) April 1.—The "Bluebonnet," the Texas State flower, now in full bloom on hill and prairie from one end of the State to the other, yields both a rare perfume and a wealth of honey, returns to the soil a rich deposit of nitrogen, and contains also a dangerous poison, according to a warning issued by the State Departments of Agriculture. Its danger, however, is for animals, principally sheep.

CABINET MAN TO BE NAMED SOON

Coolidge for Able Lawyer as Attorney-General

Chief Justice Rugg, Choice of President

Massachusetts Man Urged to Make Sacrifice

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 1.—President Coolidge will send to the Senate in a few days the name of the new Attorney-General of the United States. The selection of this cabinet officer is the one thing that the President is now concentrating on to the exclusion of everything else and he confessed today to some of his friends he was trying to the best of his ability to secure for $12,000 a year a talented and gifted lawyer, who could in the practice of his profession earn $100,000 a year.

In view of the desire to investigate all government functions the selection of any man with corporation retainers is barred and the President is almost forced to go into the courts of the country for material. It is not in the cards for the President to appoint to this post any "lame duck" or a former prominent public official who has suffered popular defeat in contest for office no matter how able he may be.

GREATEST PROBLEMS

Most of the lawyers of the caliber necessary for this post are now representing corporations or individuals whose retainers are many times the amount the government can pay and yet the job that President Coolidge offers the leading legal minds of the country is fraught with some of the greatest problems that have arisen in the history of the United States.

Some of the men the President is considering for the place will not make the sacrifice financially and undertake the grind of administration that the place calls for and some of the men suggested for this place are being discarded because the President's inquiries do not disclose all the details of their various past associations as being free of enbarrassment to the President and the administration in the present situation.

COOLIDGE FOR RUGG

If President Coolidge could have his own way he would appoint Chief Justice Rugg of the Massachusetts Supreme Court and it may be said here on the highest authority that geographical location of the man has no bearing on the appointment. The President has confided to his friends that he is seeking a $100,000-a-year man for a $12,000 place and is solely intent on the man and not on the section of the country he hails from.

Middlewestern Progressives are urging Senator Kenyon of Iowa, New Yorkers are urging the appointment of former Gov. Nathan Miller, overwhelmed at the polls by Gov. Al Smith in the last State contest; but the President is urging Chief Justice Rugg of Massachusetts to make the sacrifice and take the place as Attorney-General. The President knows Justice Rugg's entire history, his life associates and believes he is the ideal man for the great responsibility.

The Chief Executive is having some difficulty in getting all such details about others mentioned for the place and while Chief Justice Rugg reaches a decision much time is being taken up in checking the histories and qualifications of others.

STRIKE OF FILIPINO SUGAR HANDS OPENS

HAWAIIAN EMPLOYERS SAY PRESENT SITUATION IS NORMAL

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

HONOLULU, April 1.—Conflicting statements characterized the opening today of the Filipino sugar laborers' strike for a daily wage of $2.50, shorter working day and changed conditions.

The Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association in a statement asserted that conditions were normal, that there was no strike and that the turnout of labor was better than usual.

Police reports, on the other hand, indicated some laborers had failed to report for work in the cane fields this morning. Only two of the six camps of Filipinos on the Kahuku plantation on the Island of Oahum were working today, the officers said.

The strike is not intended to be an absolute one, Pablo Manlapit, head of the Filipino laborers, having called on only 10,000 workers in the islands to quit. The others, he expects, will continue at work and provide the strikers with financial and other backing.

FUND TO PAY CANDIDATES' WAY URGED

Plan for Government to Defray Campaign Expense Outlined by Bryan

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, April 1.—A plan to let the government pay the campaign expenses of candidates for public office was brought forward here today by William Jennings Bryan.

Recalling that President Roosevelt once suggested some such arrangement, Mr. Bryan said the Senate disclosures had prepared the public mind for acceptance of present details of the plan a advocated quick action so it could be employed in the 1924 campaign.

The formal announcements of candidates would be placed before the people under the plan in a bulletin issued by the government, and there would be an additional appropriation from the Federal Treasury amounting to 10 cents per voter, apportioned among parties according to their last recorded strength.

Thus, said Mr. Bryan, parties and candidates would be saved from "obligating themselves to the predatory interests."

THREE INDICTED IN OAKLAND RUM RAID

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—FrankD. Crowley, alias Joe Daly, Luigi Sasso and Harold Lucas were indicted by the Federal grand jury today on a charge of violating the Volstead Act in connection with a liquor raid by police and Federal officers on the Oakland water front on March 24 last. The raiders seized 390 cases of whisky that had been unloaded from a motorboat which escaped when they appeared. One of the asserted smugglers attempted to hold the raiders at bay with a revolver, but jumped into the bay when they closed in on him. It is not known whether he was drowned or escaped.

When $700 Saves $16,000

In 1915 a splendid bank building was erected in Bridgeport, Conn.

Less than two years later the iron plumbing pipe developed serious leaks, which occurred with increasing frequency until the Fall of 1922, when the rust-consumed iron pipe was replaced with Brass, in both the cold and hot water lines.

The bank paid $16,800 to make this change-over; but when the building was erected could have been installed for only $703.38 over the cost of the iron pipe.

Such costly losses are constantly occurring in buildings equipped with piping that rusts.

Brass pipe simply cannot rust. It is your assurance against an experience like that of the Bridgeport bank.

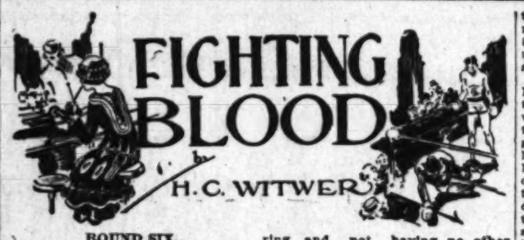
Don't Squeeze Black-Heads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of calonite powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition.—[Advertisement.



ROUND SIX
The Call of the Wild

"Knowledge is power!" says Francis Bacon in the fiscal year of 1924, and Frankie knew what it was all about, don't you think he didn't! That snappy remark of his applies to all of us, from President to plumber. Maybe you'll kind of curl your lip and say that's fourth-grade copy-book stuff. Well, that's just what it is—but when you get right down to it, ain't it funny how them old copy-book sayings seems to cover everything which comes up in later years? What is these up-to-date niftles, anyway, but the old stuff jazzed up? What's new about 'em. "Strike while the iron is hot!" says Jack Heywood in 1565. "Do your stuff" says the modern slang writer and gets credit for a wise crack.

You take knowledge in the game I've just quit—box fighting. Like in anything else, the students is the champions. What does a scrapper have to know besides a straight left and a right hook? Plenty! A rush of brains to the head now and then is as necessary to a boxer as it is to a banker. For instance, I learned to instantly shift my attack from jaw to body when the other boy didn't seem to like it down below, when to dive into a clinch and when not to, how to protect myself from a body puncher once we got to close quarters, how to eel out of a tight corner when I'm pinned on the ropes; to stay on one knee till the referee says "nine" if I'm floored—instead of jumping right up groggy and running into a knockout punch—and how to hit straight out from my shoulder or waist instead of swinging wildly like a gate.

Say, when I think what a chump I was when Nate took me from behind Ajariah Stubbs's soda fountain and changed my name from Gale Galen to "Six-Second Smith." I can't understand now I ever stopped anybody! All I could do then was hit and take it—not quite enough, no matter what the sharps tell you. Half the first-division guys you think is clumsy from your ringside seat is doing fancy work in close where you can't see it which would make your hair curl and is making the other boy's hair curl.

Besides all this, I lived clean and healthy. Plenty of sleep, good food, no smoking, and I didn't know whether you spread booze on bread or rub it in your hair. Lots of people seems to think that all boxers is a lot of little or big thugs, which spends the time they aint in the ring beating up innocent bystanders just to be nasty and drinking like famished fish. That's apple sauce. Maybe the pork and beaners does all of that and more, but the good ones don't, and that's a fact. Even in winning fights, the best of 'em takes not a little punishment in the course of a year, and you can't do that unless you're in perfect condition—not tonight or yesterday, or next week, but all the time.

Well, I got a three months' layoff from the ring through the kind attention of Mr. Frankie Jackson. However, the argument I put up against the king of the middleweights caused a serious epidemic of bashfulness among the other contenders in that class as far as a scuffle with me was concerned. When Nate pleads with Frankie to give us another crack at his crown, why, the champ just laughs and says if we want to fight to get a job on the Dublin police force. In twenty-four battles I had win twenty by knockouts and like Dempsey and many another good boy which has too much stuff for the rest of the field, it seems I have fought myself out of a job.

So, giving up all hopes of getting work in the middleweight division, I tell Nate to go out shopping and get me a nice fresh light heavyweight somewheres, and I'll be pleased to slap him silly for a reasonable amount of pennies. I was then twenty years old, stood five foot ten and three-quarters in my nude feet, and still had trouble keeping down to 168 ringside—about 164 being my proper poundage—and it seems, like London, I'm still growing. Well, Bob Fitzsimmons only weighed a few pounds more when he was bowling over some of the best heavyweights of his time, and I got as many Freckles as Fits ever had!

Don't fall a victim to the idea that I spent the three months my ruined jaw was healing sitting in my room knitting doilies or nothing like that. In the contrary, what I done with them ninety days was to take a course in a New York business school. I suppose that's a laugh, hey? A prize fighter studying the mysteries of shorthand, advertisement writing and salesmanship!

Anyways, I take up this business course and also enroll for the evening lectures at Columbia College, because I'm still incurably addicted to ambition—the thing that drove me from one meaningless job to another—a wild and undownable craving to be somebody, to get somewhere! I ain't got no blue blood in me; I know that on the account it always come out red when I get cuffed on the nose—a mere detail in my business. But I had to much fighting blood in me to be a John Smith in Life's phone book for long.

Judy went to this business school with me, and, of course, that didn't make it hard to take at all. She graduated from Drew City prep a few weeks after my quarrel with Frankie Jackson, and as her mother has absolutely no connection with the Vanderbilt family or the equivalent, why, Judy got ready to bust into the business world herself so's twelve o'clock would mean lunch at the boarding-house and not just noon.

Knockout Kelly, which by this time was keeping steady company with pretty Mary Ballinger, was always riding me for studying at nights instead of stepping out. Kayo claimed life's too short for that kind of business and that education is a great handicap to success. Be ignorant and be a winner, says Kayo.

"I don't know if algebra is pink or green," he tells me one day.

"I can't spell necessity and words like that. For all I know, North Dakota is the capital of Wyoming. But—I'm clickin' off from three to five thousand smackers a fight, never more than forty minutes' work, usually under twenty. They's millions of college guys workin' two years for the same money. Laugh that off!"

"But Kayo," I says, "ten years from now you'll be through in the ring, and not having no other trick, why, that means you'll be through everywheres! You never save a nickel, so what will you do? You'll be hanging around the cheap fight clubs, picking up a dollar here and there as a handler or a human punching bag for some fellow training for a fight. But ten years from now the college guys which is working cheap at present as newly made lawyers, doctors and this and that will be making more jack than you ever saw, Kayo, and they'll make it right up to the time they die!"

"Blah!" sneers Kayo. "Be yourself! I ain't bothered about ten years from now or even one year from now. I never worry about yesterday or tomorrow. Yesterday's gone and tomorrow I may be gone. Today's all that bothers me."

With that he walks off whistling, "Sing a Song as You Walk Along!"

Kayo didn't have a care in the world—or a chance—while he thought like he did then!

Well, just when I'm sitting pretty with Judy and everything is jake between me and the world, I get a terrible shock. I meet her on the stairs going to my room, and if she'd of looked any prettier she'd of fell in love with herself! The net effect on me I will leave in care of your imagination.

"How's your jaw, Gale?" she inquires tastefully.

"Perfect!" I says. "The last X-ray shows it's all healed and they's nothing to stop me now from going back into the ring and getting it broke again!"

Judy laughs—like the tingle of little bells. Then she gets a bit serious. "I hate to think of you going back to the prize ring, Gale," she says. "That was terrible—getting your jaw broken. Why, you might be crippled for life at any time! When are you going to give up boxing? It—it would please me a lot if you would, Gale."

"Judy," I says, "to please you I'd dive off the top of Washington's Monument into a glass of water! You know that. But I got to say it with right hooks till I get a little bigger bank roll and a little better line on what I was born to panic the world at. I don't seem to know just what my trick is yet—I'm what you might call experimenting. I don't want to go back of the soda fountain again, that's a cinch! So I'm just looking around. Boxing is keeping me alive and paying for this synthetic education I'm getting while I'm trying to find out the thing I do best."

But Judy seemed to be peeved. "There are plenty of other things you could do besides boxing," she says slowly, after a minute. She's pulling a cute little handkerchief back and forth between the most beautiful little hands in captivity. "You have a good appearance, personality and enough intelligence to overcome the—the few rough edges left from your premature contact with the world. I'm sure you would not have the slightest difficulty in getting a good position with a future, almost anywhere. Why—" she breaks off with a short, nervous laugh—"why, even I have managed to get a job!"

Ain't it horrible that a girl like that has got to work?

"You did, eh?" I says, nothing but ears. "Where?"

Judy gets as red as red itself. She kind of turns her face away from me and I got a sudden premonition that they's a highly unpleasant surprise coming. I am 100 per cent right!

"I'm—I'm going to work in the office of Dempster & Co.," she says, trying to appear careless about it and flopping hard.

BOGUS BILLS IN PARIS

Although the reports were denied formerly, corroboration was given when a lace merchant complained of having been paid with five $50 notes which proved counterfeit.

DEATH GUNS ROAR IN HUT OF BANDITS

Thug and Officer Killed in Battle as Plunder of Bank is Recovered

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DETROIT, April 1.—Revolvers that roared in "Robbers' Roost," a row of shacks in Ecorse, a down-river suburb, took two lives in a fight between gunmen and police last night. Six men are in jail suspected of several robberies and hold-ups; $6000 in stolen currency has been recovered and detectives in a police car somewhere in Ohio are pursuing a freight train on which another member of the bandit gang made his escape.

The dead are Benjamin Montie, an Ecorse patrolman, and Leo Corbett, alias Leo Owen, gunman, who despite handcuffs, shot Montie, who was guarding him and then himself was shot by Albert Jaeger, Chief of Police of Ecorse.

The Ecorse police were investigating a store robbery when they crashed through a door of one of the "robbers' roost" shacks. They found two men counting money from Commonwealth Federal Savings Bank wrappers. A branch of the Commonwealth Bank was robbed of more than $159,000 in cash yesterday.

The tract is in the heart of the Humboldt State Redwood Park about forty-five miles south of Eureka, Cal. It comprises 113 acres and contains some of the largest Redwood trees of this region. There are several ideal camping spots in this grove, which is located on the banks of the South Fork of the Eel River.

When the patented automatic doors close, the refrigerator is practically hermetically sealed. This construction effects a considerable saving of ice.

It is found, too, that food lasts longer and is more wholesome when preserved in the cold, dry, pure air of the Gibson. Regardless of outside temperature, the inside of the Gibson is cold.

chronize his own part with Swain's.

"There—let's try it."

Unending rehearsal. Chaplin, his entire being in each movement as though each performance were to be his last, nevertheless manages to see every detail on the set and to catch any little slip the moment it occurs. Satisfied, he asks Eddie Sutherland, his assistant, to go through the bit with Swain so that he, in the old familiar position by the tripod, may see how it will look to the audience. At last the cameras click—at last Mr. Chaplin feels that it can be done no better.

"Well, we've got that. Now, let's see—"

Who was it said that genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains? Charlie Chaplin heard the saying in his cradle, and has been repeating it over to himself ever since.

Charlot doesn't build his pictures; rather, he composes them. He writes in celluloid with the beauty of a Shelley and the blunt power of an Andreyev, sometimes satirizing gently and always blending with his theme gorgeous effects of tone and overtone. It would not be amiss to compare him at one and the same time with Shakespeare, Beethoven and Michelangelo, for truly is his work a triple-art symphony in the ultimate dimension of art—the screen.

Just at present, while Mr. Swain, having temporarily recovered from his balminess, is making profuse apologies to his pard, Charlie is being comically pathetic in the removal of all weapons from the hut. He fears that the other will attack him again, and, listening sympathetically, he takes all possible precautions against any such embarrassment in the future. First the knife, then the gun, and so on; one after another he shuffles outdoors with them.

But although Mr. Swain suffers no longer—for the instant, at least—from his aberration, he nevertheless is martyr still to the cause of it. In other words, he is more hungry than ever. Charlie comes back in, to find Mack a preposterous figure weeping in a corner.

"Food! Food!" he cries in a terrible voice. "I must have food!"

Charlie offers him a book.

"Here," he suggests, "take this. It will lift your mind from your stomach."

There's a loud bang as Charlie hits the floor and another as the book, which Mack has taken subconsciously, hits the table. Soon something attracts Mack's attention—he reads that a starving man once ate his best friend.

Well, so much for a precedent. Charlie's book has fulfilled its purpose, for Mack now is mightily interested.

That sequence was the last of the afternoon, and, because it was longer than the others, served better to illustrate how Mr. Chaplin contrives howls of laughter from action which really is stark tragedy. His is just the shade over the line which distinguishes the two, the same shade which is the difference between burlesque and genius. Like heat and cold, comedy and tragedy are distant as the poles, yet identical in infinity.

It is just one's luck, of course, to visit the set on the particular day when Mr. Chaplin's lastest find as a leading woman had been excused. Under such circumstances there is but one thing to be done—and that is to go back another day.

Meanwhile, Charlot goes serenely on, showing in his every picture that his last was but a caprice by the way. Not for him, as Browning almost has it, to recapture the last fine careless rapture; always those unspeakable boots and that uproarious, but pathetic little walk carry him farther and farther upon the road whereupon there are as yet no tracks beside his own. For the rest, Charlot should guard carefully his discarded footage—otherwise, some one will take it and make of it a masterpiece.

Small-Town Barber

a few million dollars and has been hunting his only relative to will it to. The upstate barber, of course, is the relative in question. Then there's the smile which causes all the trouble, bestowed on the party of the second part by the party of the first part—and then the second does the inevitable.

That's the opening situation. The speed-cop comes later. Visualize the scene in the club, where all the members suffer from gout, rheumatism or similar afflictions—into their midst is suddenly thrust a young man who has a peculiar liking for card tricks, sleight-of-hand and parlor magic.

"Keep 'em in the mood," Roy Clements, the director, said after the finish of another scene. Then he turned toward the club foyer, where the aforementioned doubles for John D. and Bryan stood talking. "Hey, crabs," he shouted, "let's see more pain and misery. There's got to be some contrast in these scenes. This upstate fellow is happy—very much so—and you've got to help him by being as miserable as possible. If it'll help make you feel it more naturally, I'll add that we work tonight." The effect was instantaneous. The director laughed.

"Come on, Glenn," Clements said. "Get it this time, and if you don't catch your hat I'm off of you for life. Look happy—let's see—" their antics quite probably will mean a lot.

The actor smiled broadly, but then, who wouldn't be happy with a couple of million dollars waiting for him to spend? Too bad it's only stage money.

"Second Youth"

Mr. Lunt does a most agreeable sort of an ass in a most agreeable sort of a way—no one so unsophisticatedly absurd could possibly exist, but then, that but makes him the more delectable. In so far as Miss Palmeri is concerned, we feel about her much the same as the silk salesman did. In other words, we've been waiting for her all of our life.

As previously hinted at, "Second Youth" has to do with the efforts of a young man to escape matrimony with all except the one woman who doesn't particularly want to marry him. The charmers besiege him even as did the locusts the Egyptians, with the inevitable result. The chief of these charmers was Jobyna Howland, whose marital age was three going on four. Now we know why Adam ate the apple—it was the lesser evil of the two.

Allan Updegraff, who wrote the story from which the film was adapted, and Albert Parker, the director, quite obviously are afflicted with the malady common amongst circus horses. Mr. Parker's work, in particular, is astonishingly uneven. In the one picture he runs the entire comedy gamut from custard pies to the wit of a Wilde; he touches the chord of pathos with a sledge-hammer and then weaves real drama with a subtlety worthy of a Chaplin. Where on earth is there a standard of criticism in a piece like that?

The subtitles are a little of the same. The first one is immense; so are many of the others. And then, again, some of them are manifestly rotten.

However, the cast is a different story. From Mr. Lunt down every member of it earns every inch of his or her footage. Miss Howland, hereinbefore referred to, was superb as the boarding-house lady, and Herbert Cirtheil her match throughout as well as in the end. Water Catlett did a lot to relieve a number of scenes which otherwise didn't belong in the picture at all.

"Second Youth" is a bit slow in the beginning and somewhat protracted at the end. The real tag is passed up for a Ben Turpin finale with a Ford, which might be much more funny if Ben Turpin actually did it. Still, we are grateful that the hero didn't discover himself to be the captain of his soul any sooner than he did.

As for the rest, we have seen much better musical comedies made into much worse pictures—and much longer ones. And, in this one, we didn't miss the music, either.

BY HERBERT MOULTON

GOLDFISH are goldfish, of course; or rather, they have been until this time. But henceforth, thanks to Constance Talmadge and several others, the little animated ornaments will have, like one or two other famous animations, a meaning all their own.

For our gilded finny friends have been imbued with a delightfully symbolic quality. Incidentally, it is one which, in this picture, is decidedly humorous; so much so, in fact, that one is impelled to hazard the guess that it will not be very long before this symbolism manifests itself in the vernacular.

"I'm a free goil, Sadie—I gave the big bum the goldfish!"

Thus will the not-too-genteel lady in future convey to her friend the information that the connubial barque has struck a reef. And it may all be traced back to Constance Talmadge in "The Goldfish," for it is in this picture that she suffers periodic matrimonial shipwrecks.

The Jenny Wetherby of the play is not exactly a Dulcy, but it is dreadfully apparent that Providence did not start her out in the world with a burdensome mentality. True, the deficit is remedied bit by bit, and Jenny blossoms forth as a very desirable young lady, from both a mental and material viewpoint. It is the process which provides the fun; it is not strange, therefore, that when the metamorphosis has been completed, the fun ceases.

Miss Talmadge comes back into her own in the role which Marjorie Rambeau used as a medium for entertaining patrons of the New York stage. Her characterization is painfully modern—a flapper maid transmogrified into a flapper wife—thence upward on the social ladder to her destined place in the universe.

Oh, yes, she is a woman of destiny. The Count tells her so on several occasions, and it appears that he speaks the truth. Until the last reel, that is, when Newton's well-known law has its inning.

To begin with, Jenny is possessed of a very human, very young, and very opinionated husband, Jimmy Wetherby by name. Jimmy is portrayed by Jack Mulhall, and it is safe to say that if the star part had not been in the capable hands of Miss Talmadge, the leading man would have walked off with the picture. As it is, he forces Miss Talmadge to share some of the honors, and this despite the fact that he drops almost entirely out of the picture for several reels. This in nowise reflects on the star's accomplishment—her work, as usual, holds one with its frolicsome charm—but it emphasizes the splendid characterization rendered by Mr. Mulhall.

Jenny and Jimmy jazz their way into the picture and, figuratively, waltz out. There is nothing figurative about their entrance, gracious, no! Jazz provides their livelihood—in a boardwalk cafe in Coney Island. Jimmy treats the patrons with his tantalizing tenor voice, while Jenny manufactures syncopation on an overgrown baby grand.

Most of the early action occurs in their happy little home—a cheap boarding-house not far removed from Fourteenth street, New York City. Here, in a comfortable suite, they bill and coo—sometimes. But innocent flirtations in the dining-room, a one-sided infatuation from across the street, and the attentions of a mysterious, but persistent, gentleman who lives in the same house, all go to make up a discordant note in the song of love.

It starts with the Count, Count Nevski, very adequately portrayed by Edward Connelly.

"You are a woman of destiny," he declares, "the rare type men build empires for."

An iota of the light trickles into Jenny's intellect, alas! (thank heaven there wasn't an inundation!) Thus when the subsequent—and periodic—clash of wills takes place, Jenny's viewpoint has undergone considerable change. Instead of being just another of the oft-recurring battles, this skirmish assumes the proportions of a full-fledged war.

Herman Krauss has a great deal to do with it. Herman, you see, is the lovelorn man across the street, and hitherto he has been content to indulge in flights of fancy and worship the fair Jenny from a distance. But on this fatal day, the humidity or something causes his smouldering passion to burst forth into flame, and thenceforth nothing save a close-up can gratify Herman's fierce Teutonic appetite.

During a lull in the domestic hostilities, Herman pays his first visit. Jenny is properly surprised and somewhat embarrassed, but after her suitor has unloosed a flood of impassioned words, her none-too-agile brain begins to ponder upon what the Count has said anent matrimonial progression. Oh, we know that she still loves the hapless Jimmy, but even love fails to stand the ordeal of boarding-house existence. Jenny's morale, we fear, has been undermined by the sinister prune.

The Intermediate Husband. Necessary Only to Pass On

Nevertheless, her acceptance of Herman comes as a distinct surprise. It is imminent, of course, but even after her wooer has offered to buy her all the furniture she wants—at a discount—one feels that she will remain true to her first love. Instead, she instructs her constant friend, Amelia Pugsley, to lead the old romance off to Reno.

"Run down to the store," she tells Amelia, "and buy a goldfish in a bowl."

Herman has left. His parting words were to the effect that he will return with "the biggest taxicab in town." Before either Herman or Amelia returns, however, Jimmy puts in an unexpected appearance. In his arms is a mysterious bundle. He unwraps it, and places the contents upon the table.

Jenny is astounded, and—most wonderful of all — temporarily speechless.

For in the center of the table, placed there by "her Jimmy," is a shiny new bowl contain-tors and about twenty assistants and technical men, as no big mobs appear in "The Wanderer of the Wasteland" desert sequences, and it seemed just like a jolly family on a camping trip.

The camp, an hour's ride into the desert from the town of Mojave, was prepared by the location scouts, who literally had to "break trail" through the sandy wastes. The company train had been sidetracked on a spur at a water tank, where ordinarily the only sign of habitation is the lonely shack where the tank tender lives.

The location was another hour's ride into Red Rock Canyon. No more wonderful spot could possibly have been found for color-recording than that mass of red boulders, made by time's erosion into carven figures, grotesque, weird and yet of compelling beauty. From the pit of the canyon we climbed up, picking precarious footing over the jutting rocks that varied in color from palest shell-pink to full-flushed rose. A misty low-hung sky seemed to fall like a curtain along the red rim of the peaks.

The effect, as I saw it later in color upon the screen, is one of indescribable beauty and yet, so carefully have the backgrounds been chosen, they do not intrude upon the action, but rather the drama seems to fit into them as though it belonged there.

For hours in the sweltering heat Jack Holt, Noah Beery, Kathlyn Williams and George Irving enacted their scenes. The Zane Grey novel, as you probably know, has to do with the wanderings of Adam Larey who, believing he has accidentally murdered his own brother, sets out to hide his remorse in the great solitary wastes. Noah Beery, burned a leather brown by the scorching sun, looked for all the world the kindly desert soul Disnukes, whom he portrays.

And Kathlyn Williams, the gracious lady of countless society dramas! I had never before seen her except when she was gowned in the latest syllable of sartorial perfection—velvets, ermines, jewels. So no wonder I stared in bewilderment at the drab figure standing before the doorway of a shack perched high on the red cliffside. Her yellow hair was straggly, her face lined; she was painstakingly rubbing her calico dress with sandpaper to give it a worn appearance.

"Oh, won't you come over—I mean up," she called, with gay mimicry. "My, yes, I like my little home. Sweet and simple, here in the great open spaces where men make movies and ladies thirst for ice water."

So, with Mr. Holt pulling and Mr. Beery pushing, I made an uncertain voyage up the steep cliffs. There, lying on our backs between boulders, little Billie Dove and I ate all-day suckers from a sticky bag and picked out fanciful images in the weird rocks about us. In his quiet way, Mr. Willat seemed to accomplish a great deal with the least possible effort. The cameramen, under the supervision of Joseph A. Ball, with an unsuspected Fairbanksian agility, clambered over the jutting rocks to obtain better angles, the tripods of their cameras stuck into crevices in the sandstone.

Later the cabin was to be demolished when the half-mad Virey, played by George Irving, starts the boulders rolling down upon it, killing his wife. But on the days of my visit the preliminary scenes in that locale were taken, having to do with the idealistic love—friendship, rather—between Adam Larey and the middle-aged Mrs. Virey. To the character of the drab, heart-sick Mrs. Virey, to whom love has come too late, Kathlyn Williams is giving a sincerity and realism that should make it one of the best character roles of the season. First, a scene with her worthless husband, his heart black with hate; his tirade she endures with a patient tolerance.

Then, as his shambling figure disappears into the rocky fastnesses, she stands there, brooding, solitary, among the red boulders of her world.

There was a somber beauty about that scene impossible of description—the woman whose heart was wracked, whose eyes were stony with despair, the kind of despair that you wear deep inside of you, that only glimmers vaguely through a wall of pride. Once her lips twisted, the only sign of the revulsion that swept her. The finality of it all seemed to drug her very spirit into helplessness.

Adam Larey came then, the light that had come into her life too late. With a calm surety in each rare gesture, giving a sense of power intensified somehow by its very repression, she bade him go his way. Numb she was with the tragedy of what life had done to her, but her pride of bearing radiated a dignity that could not be crushed. A dim light in his hard, flinty eyes, sparks hidden under drooping lids—an admiration for this woman of such fine ideals, a compassion—Adam Larey promised to find and care for her daughter and slowly went his way.

The scene of parting over, we returned to camp. I got rather a kick out of seeing those high-salaried actors, who at home live in luxury, washing their faces at the old pump, sharing grimy towels, scrapping together as good-naturedly as kids on a picnic.

"I play Ruth Virey, the daughter. I'm not in the scenes here, but I had to come along—too lonesome at home," Billie Dove explained. Which was another way of saying that she just had to be with her adored new hubby, Irving Willat.

The welcome sound of kettle-beats brought us, clamoring for food, into the big canvas cookhouse, where we sat on benches at long tables and ate the grandest food ever I tasted—and I know one young female who didn't leave one smidgen of that turkey on her tin plate! Turkey, imagine, there in the middle of the desert, miles from nowhere! But Mr. Willat believes there's nothing like good food to keep up the morale of his people when on location.

After dinner Billie put a record on her small portable Victrola, Jack Holt and Noah Beery burlesqued "The Squaw-Man" in scenes of inimitable humor and the talk drifted from one channel to another, from snakes to ice-cream sodas, the first unpleasantly evident, the second unhappily yearned for. When the night—that mysterious, fascinating desert darkness that envelopes you like a sudden blanket—had settled down, so tired were we all that we tumbled gaily, with yawned good-nights, into our compartments.

Scenes were later to be shot at the Arrastre location, presumably an abandoned gold mill, where rocks had been placed to rim a pond, the water being taken up in casks on trucks; in the center, the turnstile which figures prominently in the story, for there it is that Adam Larey finds Disnukes fighting with an unpleasant assortment of villains and, after a grand rough-and-ready, throws them one by one into the mill, to be crushed as the great rocky arm slowly turns.

Upon my return I saw the color scenes upon the screen, scenes of indescribable beauty, the somberness of their drama suggested, backgrounded, by those rocky cliffs. One shot of Mrs. Virey, rigid, as implacable as the peaks that towered about her, rocks that were to crash down upon her, presaged the impending tragedy in a way that clings vividly to the memory.

It is Mr. Willat's plan to film every other production in color. The cost of color photography is almost double that of black and white and besides, he pointed out, progress along the new lines must be slowly made.

"If the public were given a succession of color pictures, the return to ordinary filming would be a disappointment; they would demand all color photography and the inability of all the producers to gratify that demand would throw the whole industry into an upheaval. Certainly, color photography is far superior to the black and white. The comparison is the same as between a painting by a master artist and a pen-and-ink drawing. The drawing will please you—but when you have seen the painting you want more of its kind. So we must feel our way gradually to the time when color-filming will be universally in use, as it must be some day, I firmly believe."

This should be his era in the cinema, because the tendency even in the star pictures is in the direction of character sketching.

May McAvoy is to appear under the direction of William De Mille once again in "The Inside Story," and filmgoers may well look forward to her renewal of this association because in "Clarence," which he directed, and "Only 38" she did some of her very best work.

May has been east for about a year, playing in "West of the Water Tower" and opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Enchanted Cottage." She has acquired an interesting poise and dignity that promise well for her acting.

Never a flashing flapper type, Miss McAvoy has always appealed through the warmth and sincerity of her work, and her new portrayals are likely to reveal more of depth as well as humanness.

Anders Randolf is a name that is likely to be highly reckoned henceforward on the Coast, and I know of few players who have had such a background for accomplishment as this Dane, who is not only an actor, but an excellent artist of painting, a great seaman and various other things. Randolf, indeed, is a sort of symposium of versatility.

The portrayal that brings him especially in the foreground is that of Sir George Vernon in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall." He put fire and life and vigor and a lot of humor into this characterization. The scene where his sword comes out of the scabbard, and with an irascible temper he literally fights with it, is indeed one of the most capital that I have recently seen.

ble. He even helps Sir Oliver to rob his own safe—an easy task for him, and one for which he is eternally thankful later on.

Altogether, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" is a very entertaining picture. Direction is weak in but a few isolated instances; the average is quite commendable, so much so, in fact, that one pauses to wonder whether this George Melford is the same George Melford who directed "Flaming Barriers."

day. Mr. Sidney maintains that in this way he has an actual daylogue of his work and knows at any time just where he is and what he is going to do next.

The story is an adaptation of an original by Frank Roland Conklin and has many "fat" parts in it. For these various characterizations Mr. Christie has selected as the cast Tully Marshall, Jimmie Adams, Jimmie Harrison, Priscilla Bonner, Babe London—who, by the way, happens to be the first "adequate" comedian in the matter of avoirdupois to play opposite Walter Hiers.

In order that production on "Roles," Beatrice Joy's first starring vehicle under her new Paramount contract, might be started on time, Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin worked night and day to finish the script in the record time of six days. Raymond Griffith is playing the lead opposite Miss Joy, and Helen Dunbar, ZaSu Pitts and Victor Varconi are also cast. Frank Urson and Paul Iribe are directing.

A Day With the Greatest of Directors---Charlie Chaplin

CHAPLIN SUPREME IN EVERY EXPRESSION OF DRAMA'S MASK

BY OLIVER REGINALD TAVINER

Handel sits at his organ, weaving from scattered chords majestic symphonies of sound. Corot makes a magnificent gesture on an immortal canvas. Milton sharpens a new quill; Rodin picks up his chisel. Bernhardt implores surcease of tragedy while Lauder carols blithely in the wings.

A little cabin in the Yukon—one after another they come stalking in. The bare wooden walls re-echo the emotions of all the earth. A note from the inspired keyboard, a stroke of the master brush; a tap of the sculptor's mallet—

"Great! Now just once more—for luck."

The speaker is a little man in very baggy trousers and a funny bob-tailed coat. He wears one huge, turned-up, long worn-out shoe; his other foot is untidily wrapped in sacking. His collar and shirt are affinities in dirt—and his face is the composite mirror of all those mighty souls who have gone before him.

Charlie Chaplin calls his present picture—he's about half-way through—a comedy. This because he has on his comedy make-up, and because his principal purpose, for the time being, is to make people laugh. But Chariot is drama personified; he couldn't possibly create a chuckle without shading it with its accompanying tear, for so utterly is he the artist that the precisely modulated contrast is instinctive.

Clowns, buffooning around the throne, have ruled empires. Truly the bladder-stick is mightier than the law book. But a clown upon the throne would be incongruous, were he other than the one and only Charles. As for him—well, we reck not that the hearts of the world are upon his skewer. Had not Chicot the wisdom of kings and the courage of conquerors?

"A Night in a London Music Hall"—"A Woman of Paris." Between them, a meteoric career comparable with nothing in the cinema sphere, even as Mr. Chaplin is himself comparable with no one else in it. To the man in the street, Charlie is a darling of the gods; as a matter of fact, one surmises that the gods, far from fondling him, have dealt him many a smack in the eye. An hour or two on his set shows that only his infinite energy and his mental agility have enabled him to laugh at them.

The Chaplin studio is differentiated from most other habitats of the photoplay by the use of the word itself. Essentially is it a studio—not an aggregation of buildings where scores of superiority-complexed individuals turn out animated pictures simultaneously. One set at a time is used; the rest of the stages are dark. The handful of people clustered around the two inseparable cameras might appear to the average film magnate to be doing anything but making a screen epic.

There are present neither mobnor megaphones. There is a minimum of noise. The cameramen, property men, electricians—all speak amongst themselves in hushed whispers when they speak at all. For the most part they look into the center of the set in much the same way as the Sunday flock looks at its pastor. For there, in agonized travail or ecstatic triumph, gesticulates Charlie Chaplin.

Strange how that queer get-up is unable to wipe the pathos from his eyes—how utterly those ragged pants and that trick mustache fail to rob his brow of the Beethovian sweep. One looks at his patched coat-tails and thinks of Hamlet; hears the voice of the jester and thinks of a cardinal. He acts and directs this scene, conceives and considers that—Charlot might equally have become a poet or a prime minister, an actor or an archbishop.

Opposite him on the set is Mack Swain, a gentleman almost counterbalanced in avoirdupois and art. A long time ago he used to wear a silk topper and answer to the name of Ambrose. It was in those leaner days that Chapin met him; custard pies then were theirs both to give and receive.

Now they have gone back further even than the era of custard pies, for the present scene brings memories of the gold rush—to those, that is, who suffer such memories. Charlie and Mack are miners, starving in the cabin. Mack, in particular, because he's making an awful lot of noise about it. Also, it appears, he is temporarily insane with the hallucination that Charlie is a turkey, and that such a turkey would still the void in his aching tummy. Wherefore, he stalks Charlie with a bowie knife.

Charlie, as Distinguished from Charles

Only three scenes are taken in the entire afternoon, but the proof that Mr. Chaplin is without doubt the hardest-working individual in Hollywood is that each scene is shot at least twenty times. Any one of the twenty would transport almost any director other than Charlie; he does 'em over and over again, seeking just the shade to blend with the mood. And his moods are even more numerous than his scenes.

"Just once more—we'll get it this time!" It is his continual cry, ceaseless as the waves of the sea. And each additional take means just three times as much work for him as for anyone else.

Perhaps, in the middle of a scene when everything seems to be superlative, he will stop the action with a gesture. "Cut"—he walks over to a little stool beside one of the cameras and leans his head upon the tripod. The cameramen stand silently beside their cranks; everyone virtually holds his breath until Charlie jumps up with an enthusiastic yell:

"I've got it! Mack, you should cry—you're hungry and you are going to pieces. See—like this!"

Mr. Swain, a veteran trouper, watches intently as Chaplin goes through every detail of the action. Charlie falls into it as naturally as his own past into a barrel of flour, and comes up again instantly to syn-

The comparison is the same as between a painting by a master artist and a pen-and-ink drawing. The drawing will please you—but when you have seen the painting you want more of its kind. So we must feel our way gradually to the time when color filming will be universally in use, as it must be some day, I firmly believe."

Comedy Star Deserts Two-Reelers to Decorate Feature

STAR SAYS SLAPSTICK PASTS HAMPER DRAMATIC FUTURES

Once again a new feature star has been recruited from the cradle of the two-reelers. One more comedy producer has spread his wings and struck for loftier heights than those afforded by the program fillers so often labeled "comedies."

Having spent her film childhood under the protecting wing of none other than the renowned Al Christie, Dorothy Devore has finally learned to walk and now is progressing through the scenes of her first feature—as yet unchristened. But having crawled before she walked, she seems to manage pretty well now without any outside help, other than from her director, Scott Sidney.

Miss Devore was busily engaged rehearsing a scene which simply consists of feeding a baby some cereal. Then Miss Devore was supposed to giggle and coo to the child, who in turn responded with big blue eyes and a happy "Goo!"

The director seemed everywhere. It did not satisfy him to see how it looked through the camera. He watched first from the right side and then from the left. To catch a slip in the simple task of pouring some cream over a bowl of cereal is not the ability of everyone, but soon Mr. Sidney stopped the action with one of his sharp interruptions. It was sharp because his cue seemed to be almost a command. However, the baby simply smiled and Miss Devore corrected her action.

"That's better," Mr. Sidney said. "Let's take it."

The cameras grind out the scene and then—another period of waiting. Waiting while the cameraman resets his instrument; while the electrician readjusts his lights; while the director paces to and fro and thinks out his next scene—for Mr. Sidney does not dive head first into his work; while Miss Devore fixes her make-up. Miss Devore is the first to finish.

"Feature work? Well, it doesn't seem any different from the two-reelers. Just longer scenes and here and there a touch of seriousness, perhaps. I'm glad it's a comedy, though. It would be hard to try a straight feature."

She paused while the lions on the next set roared with deafening loudness.

"It's funny, but take a number of the comedians who have gone into feature work from comedy—I mean the straight dramatic pictures. When I see them on the screen I'm always expecting them to do some funny trick from their old days. The actor who is used to stumbling in his pictures I expect to stumble in this one; if he is of the kind who makes funny faces I expect that. It's the queerest feeling! And I think that it's a terrible handicap, too."

Everyone Seems to Be Quite Upset

Here the baby came over to Miss Devore's chair and smiled up at her. Screen actors or actresses who went into dramas from comedies or vice versa were nothing in his life—not as yet, anyhow.

Scott Sidney is directing his picture, cutting it and having the temporary titles shot all at the same time. Today's work is out of the laboratory, cut and titled for a first run, with titles photographed, too, by the following

THOSE persons who believe that there is no romance in married life—romance between man and wife, I mean—should see the film version of "The Signal Tower." Indeed, it is said that Universal owned the story for quite a while, but hesitated to film it on the assumption that marriage and romance were strangers. The completed photoplay proves the assumption to have been false.

"The Signal Tower" tells a simple and uninvolved story in a direct way and would be worth while even without the inclusion of the supposedly indispensable "physical kick." In this case the "kick" is a spectacular collision between the runaway section of a freight train and a passenger flyer, and the effects obtained are realistic and thrilling to an unusual degree.

But to get back to the story. In the mountains of Northern California, in the heavily timbered country near Fort Bragg, live David and Sally Taylor and their little son. David is the towerman at his siding, and takes his railroading seriously. He works a twelve-hour shift, and is "spelled" by Uncle Billy, a delightful old character seemingly included for the sake of a few laughs and for padding. The town is three miles away, and so Uncle Billy rooms at the Taylor house, and his rent money helps to pay the debt hanging over Taylor's home.

Then comes a notice to the old man that he has been pensioned and he also gets a pass for a trip east. This is the last of him, so far as the film play is concerned.

Joe Standish arrives. He is known as the sheik of the division, and even though Sally dislikes him she consents to having him rent Uncle Billy's room.

More comedy and more padding, furnished by Cousin Gertie, who is foolishly infatuated with Standish. Sally sends Gertie away because she distrusts Standish, but the vain sheik imagines that the move was prompted by jealousy and at once begins to pay court to Sally.

Then comes the night of the big storm. Standish, ousted from his room, gets drunk and tries to break into the Taylor home while David Taylor is chained by duty to his post in the signal tower. The runaway cars start down the grade, and when the passenger train is in peril David learns of Sally's peril at the hands of Standish. He wavers, but sticks to his post, and the happy ending arrives with breathless haste and is contrived without unacceptable trickery.

A simple story, this. It is simply told in the photoplay, and is staged, acted and directed with simplicity and sincerity. Clarence Brown, the director, has attained powerful effects by fitting his methods to his story. There has been no yielding to the temptation to be garish or cheap for supposed "box-office appeal," and the result, judging by the way an audience received the film at a theater pre-view one night last week, has been to attain a real "box-office" picture, whereas if it had been of the "made-to-order" brand it would probably have failed.

Tom Miranda cut the film from ten reels to its present length, and titled it from end to end. Like the director, Mr. Miranda caught the spirit of the story and achieved simplicity and directness in all his work. The people talk to one another as people in that walk of life would talk. Having made no conscious effort at beauty of wording, Mr. Miranda has nevertheless injected beauty into the plain speech of his plain people.

Virginia Valli, as always, is beautiful, and in this characterization is quite as good as she was in "Wild Oranges." But it is Wallace Beery, as Standish, who makes the greatest impression, though Rockcliffe Fellowes, as the husband, has big scenes in plenty and handles them with skill.

Dot Farley is an amusing Cousin Gertie, and James O. Barrows is the lovable Uncle Billy. Frankie Darro, the child, is allotted both scenes of comedy and pathos and does not mar either.

The name of the cameraman is not at hand, but whoever photographed the night scenes and the long shots in the heavy timber had a searching eye for beauty.

NEW FACES AND FRESH ANGLES ON FAVORITES

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

John Barrymore ought to devote more time to the screen, and I am speaking not for his own personal celebrity, which is great enough on the stage, but for the gratification that he would afford thousands of picture fans who admire his work probably more than that of any other actor.

When he left the Coast a few months ago, one of the hopes that he voiced was that he would be able to return again soon to do another silver-sheet characterization.

Many persons have entertained the belief that if ever "Faust" was made he would be a natural choice for the romantic lead, and indeed, none better than he could be imagined. "Faust" is, however, rather far in the offing, especially as the interest in costume films has waned.

LAURA LA PLANTE'S second starring picture has the same serious fault that characterized her first individual effort, "Excitement."

Summed up, neither contains enough Laura.

When Robert F. Hill, Miss La Plante's director, realizes this fact there is little doubt but what he will take official action in the matter, and when he does so the entertainment value of his pictures should rise in proportion to the star's increased footage.

Dad and Daughter Fail to Find a Common Viewpoint

The production was made from a magazine story by Hulbert Footner, and adapted by Hugh Hoffman. It opens with Franklin Faraday, who is ably portrayed by Arthur Hoyt, and his irascible wife, the militant leader of the reform element in her community.

Franklin is a queer combination of henpecked man and daredevil who carries on an affair with a mercenary female in the city. Letters of perfume spell his doom, as a poet might or might not say. At any rate, it takes the combined efforts of his daughter, Diana, and Royall, her college football hero, to extricate him from the beastly mess.

Diana, of course, is imbued with celluloid charm by Miss La Plante. She fits nicely into the background of college campus and athletic field, where she does her bit for dear old alma mater by serving in the strenuous capacity of cheer leader. The best of her work is done, however, in the Captain Kidd Cafe, whither she and pa have journeyed on the first leg of their plot to recover the incriminating letters.

The Hero Tries Verbal Persuasion

Here, Miss La Plante demonstrates her powers of vamping. The villain, she learns, must be subdued before her mission will prove successful, so, accordingly, she sets out to subdue the sophisticated Mr. Gerald Skinner. Philo McCullough plays the part with finesse, and capitulates quite completely before the charms of the scheming heroine.

Then into the cabaret where, one of Robert (Bob) Hopkins's consistently funny titles informs us, it "costs three dollars to sit down and thirty to get up," into this resort comes the hero, or rather, the double-hero, for he has achieved heroism in a football game that day. Edward Hearn lends weight to the part, and stages two realistic battles with the unfortunate heavy.

Eve Southern has some good scenes as Marie, the young lady who wrote the perfumed notes to "Daddy" Faraday and caused all the trouble. Frederick Cole, as Roger, the hero's pal, is quite adequate, as is Dick Sutherland in his few scenes as the perplexed policeman. And then there is Mrs. Faraday's would-be lover, the pitiful Henry. Why pitiful? Well, in the first place he wants to elope with the lady who wears the trousers in the Faraday household; secondly, the poor wretch tries to hide his femininity behind a mustache.

Altogether, "The Dangerous Blonde" is a pleasant improvement over the first of Miss La Plante's productions. And if Mr. Hill will take cognizance of the first three paragraphs of this review, the betterment should prove continuous.

Barrymore is a strange complexity. He is famed for his romantic charm, yet he himself avers that he does not care in the least to appear as one of those "noble birds." He liked Brummel because the Beau had a big side of deviltry and the sophistication of his viewpoint is amply shown in the portrayal. There is nothing more intriguingly delightful than the manner in which he plays those scenes where he hoodwinks the Prince of Wales.

There are many sides to Barrymore, and he has remained a somewhat inscrutable figure in pictures. He disdains, indeed loathes, the conventional sort of interview, but he loves to talk at random, and his conversation is as dynamic at times as a lightning flash and the thunderclap that follows.

You cannot classify him, because he brings too much of the artistic spirit to the screen. Predominantly, he is a character portrayer, and as such has made his greatest strides professionally. Indeed, there is no role that he plays that has not at least a touch of character, and he really sets the fashion for such accomplishments.

DANIEL in the den of hungry lions was, as the sequel showed, in no particular danger. Not so the case of the modern young man—who, according to the theme of "Second Youth," is continually beset by biped lionesses not only hungry, but carnivorous as well. It seems that every Samson has his Delilah, and the more unfortunate ones several of them; wherefore, it is useless for him to put his trust in the faith of his fathers. For the fourth from the right has her eye on father, too.

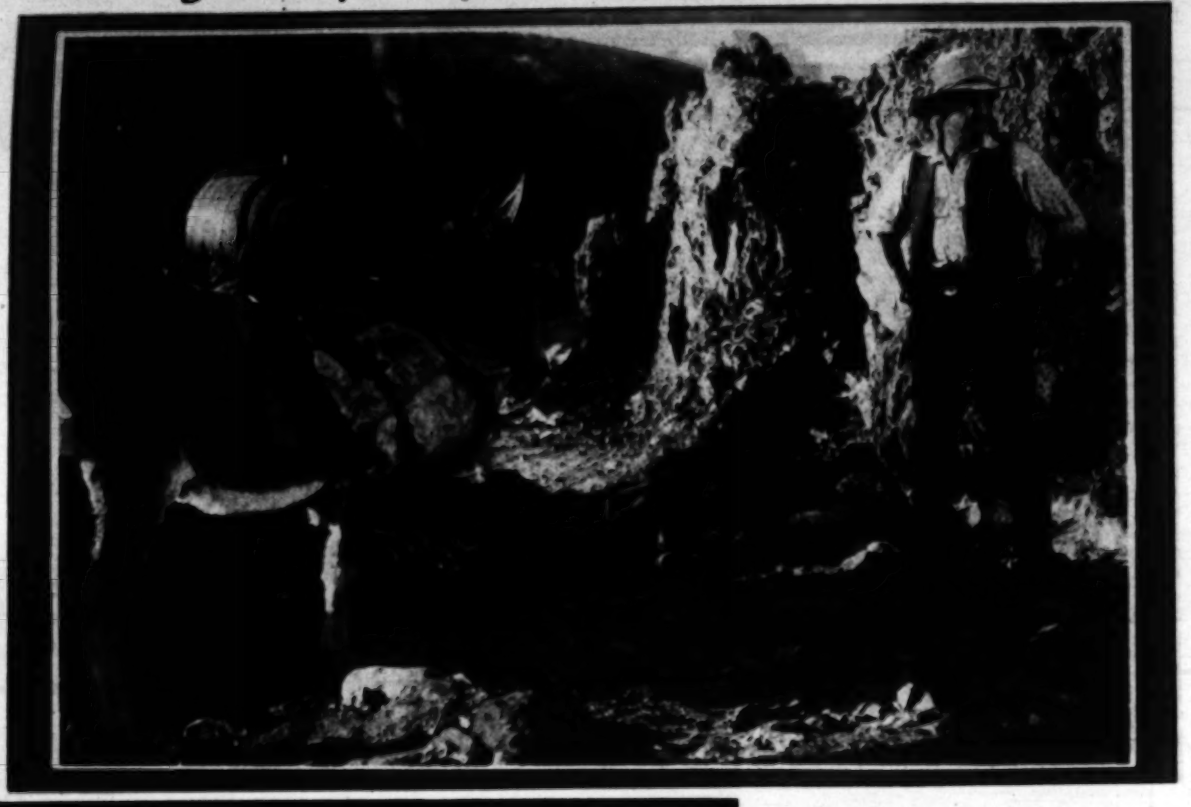
Gorgeous Colorings of Open Spaces Brought to Screen

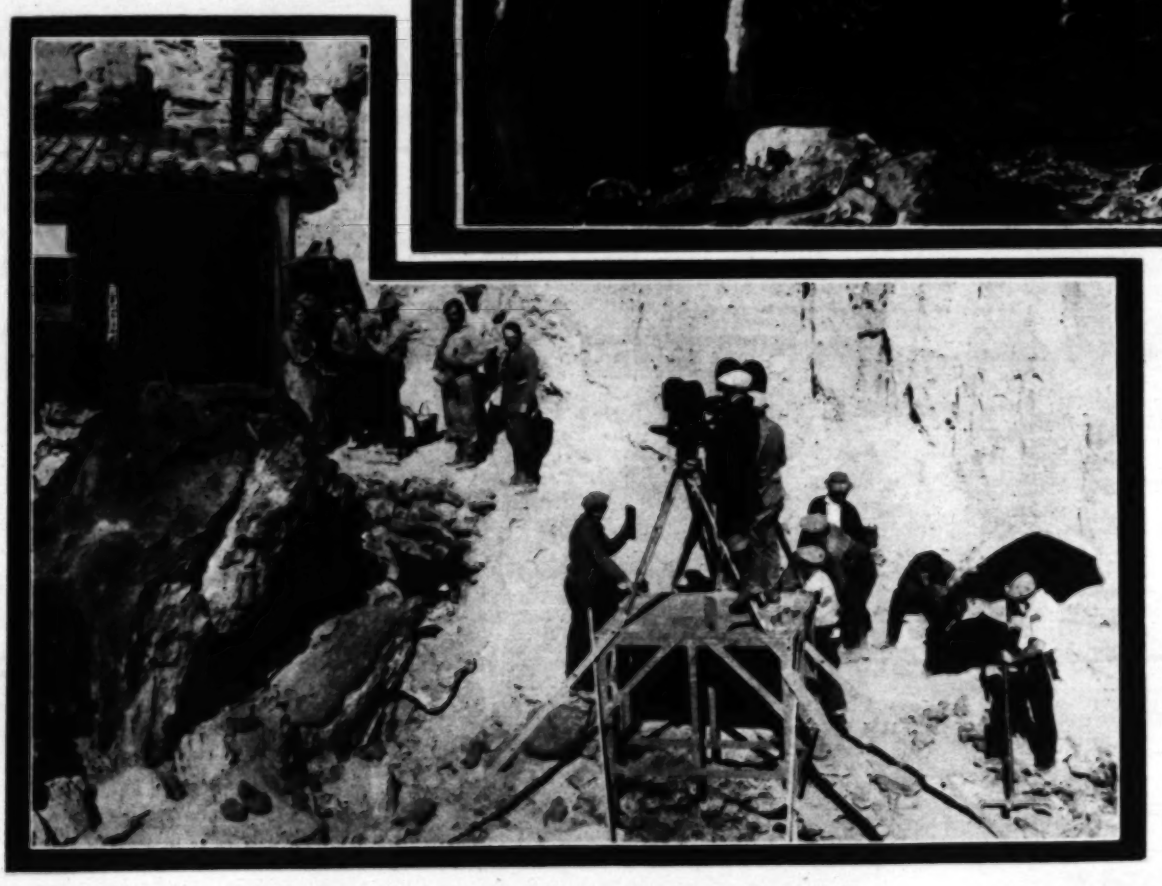
NATURAL TINTS ARE REGISTERED ON FILM

BY MYRTLE GEBHART

When I was informed that Paramount had started production of a big "special" in color photography, I raised the eyebrows which three years of these publicity boys' naive billet-doux have trained into permanent question marks. My show-me attitude was induced by the skepticism with which I, in company with a few million other people, had regarded color photography. While willing to greet with respectful consideration any innovation which might mark the screen's progress, past efforts in color recording had about won me over to the pessimists' contention that there could be little future for the movie along that line.

But, having been "shown," I am convinced that, though there still is room for improvement, they are now on a path which opens up for the motion picture entirely new vistas, whose ultimate possibilities can scarcely as yet be grasped. With a process that photographs in natural color, you can readily see the vast fields waiting for the screen's beautification—the settings that nature has provided in such wealth of colors, the recording of interiors in artistically blended shades.





On Location in the Red Rock Canyon, Mojave

Wearing my eyebrows at their most inquisitive, prepared-to-be-bored slant, I accompanied the Lasky company filming "The Wanderer of the Wasteland" in color out on location in the Mojave Desert. And a few days after my return I saw the color scenes upon the screen and admit that said eyebrows did a rapid and most surprised volplane downward.

Though not yet quite perfect—they still have difficulty with blue and make a point to avoid such vivid colors as red—the Technicolor process being used for this film photographs color with amazing naturalness. The pastel tones add a soft loveliness to the novelty of their appearance upon the screen and yet in no way detract from the drama.

"Only when photographed in natural color, by imprinting that color directly upon the negative, can color filming be successfully done," Irvin Willat, who is directing "The Wanderer of the Wasteland," explained when the big studio car had deposited me in Red Rock Canyon, 'way out in the Mojave. "Hand-tinting is not practical and never realistic, but by the technicolor process, which we have leased for this picture, we record the colors of the scene actually upon the film with the action."

Though Mr. Willat explained the technical process to me, I crossed my heart and promised solemnly that I wouldn't tell. Besides, not having one of those trick technical brains, I'd probably get the cart before the horse. So it is sufficient to say that the process is a considerable improvement over that used in photographing Lady Diana Manners's "The Great Adventure" in color; the negatives have been so carefully prepared that the colors do not waver and run alarmingly, as they did in Lady Diana's picture—I recall how one of her stately matrons appeared to be bibulously inclined, so violent a red was the tip of her nose!

The camera used for color photography is much larger than the ordinary machine, with new improvements. The usual lighting is used, excepting Cooper-Hewitts, which throw too blinding and purplish a glare. One boon it is to the actors—the make-up customarily used is discarded, a light coating of yellow, blended with pink as nearly the shade of their skin as is possible to achieve with pigments, replacing the usual mask of make-up necessary on the black-and-white screen. They strive merely to accentuate the natural color of their skin, a wee dab of a light-toned rouge being added.

For character work, lines may be penciled, but they must be deftly done, as in color recording they photograph not as shadows but actually as they look to the eye. Jack Holt and Noah Beery, who had been on location for a couple of weeks in Death Valley and at Yuma, Ariz., and were already well tanned by the sun, needed no make-up whatever.

This absence of the usual complements of the actor, coupled with the novelty of the entire proceeding and the gay spirit that prevailed, made the location trip something of a lark. They worked — I'll say they worked, toiling up those jagged rocks, standing for hours in the beating sun—but I found a different atmosphere there than I usually encounter among the movie companies. There were only a half-dozen ac-

FUTURISTIC paintings carry titles so that the uninitiated will not raise a hue and cry about the waste of good paint. Motion-picture producers, on the other hand, face the recurrent problem of labeling their photoplays with a consistent name and at the same time inject an appeal into that name which will prove profitable at the box office.

"The Dawn of a Tomorrow" seems to be a compromise between the two. True, it sounds as if it might be a tedious exposition of faith — such as have darkened the screen on several memorable occasions—and it is in this respect that the title is misleading. For Mr. Melford's latest production is an out-and-out crook melodrama, with just enough moral and spiritual regeneration added to make it logical and (for those who like it) uplifting.

It was a pleasant surprise, after speculating darkly on what might lie behind the uninviting title, to find that the scenes were laid in the London slums. Right here, let it be said that Charles G. Clark, the photographer of this picture, secured some very beautiful and, at the same time, realistic effects when shooting the fog scenes of squalid Apple Blossom Square. These shots popped out immediately after the opening subtitle, and thus set a photographic standard for the balance of the film—a standard which Mr. Clark incidentally maintained very nicely.

Jacqueline Logan is an ideal type for the part she portrays, and when to this fact is added her splendid ability, it is not difficult to imagine that her performance here is very vivid and colorful. While she does not repeat the theft which was so prominent in "The Light That Failed," her more recent work must go down as a worthy achievement.

Despite crime waves and painfully monotonous hold-ups, it is doubtful whether anyone, even a policeman, could fail to sympathize with Raymond Griffith in the role of the dandy. His continuous activity on the screen does not, strangely enough, become boresome nor irritating. His agility fascinates, his eel-like capacity for evading the net of the law makes him humorous and the law ludicrous.

David Torrence gives a convincing performance as Sir Oliver Holt. The character's dignity and calm demeanor is sharply contrasted against the personalities of Miss Logan and Mr. Griffith in the play. Underworld characters that they are, the Dandy a skilful crook, and Glad the "sunshine girl" of the slums, they epitomize all that Holt and his enormous wealth are against.

Approaching old age, however, submerges the financier's mind beneath a cloud of despondency. He leaves his mansion — to the world he has gone to Paris — and contemplates suicide on the edge of the oil-coated Thames. Roland Bottomley, in this capacity, has an early entrance into the plot, and remains there quite consistently and with alarming importance.

KNIGHT OF SCISSORS CUTS FAST CLIP AS LOCHINVAR

BY MAURICE STEPHENS

A very winning smile can sometimes cause a lot of trouble and then again, if it be an officious speed-cop on whom it is bestowed, it can sometimes save a lot of trouble. At least, in pictures. This is particularly true when the owner of the smile happens to be little Blanche Mehaffey at the Roach studios.

On the set no one was doing anything in particular and yet everyone seemed busy doing everything in general. It's a habit that movie people seem to have. Again Miss Mehaffey must be excepted, for she was busily reading Oppenheim's "Makers of History." Just why she smiled so nicely may or may not have had something to do with Mr. Oppenheim—anyhow, she has to do quite a bit of optimistic expression later in the film, so probably she was just rehearsing.

The reason for the aforementioned inactivity seemed to be Roy Clements's inability to get a scene just as he wanted it. No, he was not rehearsing—but was sitting back in one of the canvas-backed chairs gazing into space, whence, no doubt, the ultimate solution would evolve. One wonders, of course, why Mr. Clements stopped to figure the scene out at all; why he didn't surreptitiously take a peak at the script and "shoot." But he doesn't work that way. First, there wasn't any script, and, second, none was necessary.

There seem to be several reasons for this, according to one Ted Wilde. Mr. Wilde was formerly attached to the Harold Lloyd organization at the Roach studios and went with Mr. Lloyd when he left to make his own independent pictures. Mr. Wilde, however, has returned to the Roach organization, and is at present one of the important factors in producing gags for "The Upstate Slicker." In other words, Mr. Wilde is a gag man. His system of working up to a gag is most interesting.

"Gags," he said, "are simply the result of any occurrence, whether it be comical or serious. I work on the theory that anything may be either. The little events in everyday life are funny to us only when they are unexpected. If Glenn Tryon walks into this exclusive club and slips on a banana peel that is funny because it is unexpected. However, most funny situations are the result of deliberate development, which we must be careful to keep from appearing deliberate. I'll illustrate when we make the next shot."

After several more rehearsals the actual scene is taken. Mr. Wilde stood by to explain how the elusive gag is developed.

"Now, when Mr. Tryon walks over to the desk and puts his finger into the inkwell, we build up to the following close-up, where, instead of everyone having the laugh on him, he has the laugh on them. You see, he shakes hands with the clerk who, in trying to hide his amusement, wipes the ink all over his face."

The scene is shot a second time, but Mr. Clements is not pleased. True, he has let the scene run its full length, but Mr. Tryon has made one too many dips in trying to fool the bellhop, who tries anxiously to take his grip. It must be retaken. Meanwhile, Mr. Wilde walks over to the director. A few whispered words and the cameras commence to click. I note immediately the change. Instead of just dipping, Mr. Tryon looks out this time toward the entrance of the club. Naturally, the bellhop does likewise.

"That's why we don't use a script," Mr. Wilde explained. "You see, while there is a story, it is just the framework, a sort of skeleton on which we build the actual scenes and incorporate any business of which we happen to think. In this way we have the deliberation needed to keep the story logical and at the same time can take advantage of any spontaneity which occurs to us on the spur of the moment."

During a break in the action I glanced around at the other club set. It is very elaborate. There is a feeling of substantiality about it which represents the main reading and lounge-room of a millionaire's club in New York.

Also there seems to be a splendid opportunity to start a game of "beaver," for there are gathered on the set a number of men among whom are many well-known character actors. That man in the opposite corner of the room—he might be taken for John D. Rockefeller; the stout man with the bald head, sitting on the lounge, he might be William Jennings Bryan. It's just as well, perhaps, that he isn't.

The picture is the second of a series of four to be made with Blanche Mehaffey and Glenn Tryon. The rest of the story seems easy to imagine, but the peculiar part of it is that if Mr. Roach thought you could imagine the finish of "The Upstate Slicker," he wouldn't have written the story in the first place.

But there's going to be a lot of fun in this picture. There's the green upstate slicker, the pet and wise guy of his own home town, who comes to New York in answer to a call from his rich uncle, who has might lie behind the unlovely title, to find that the scenes were laid in the London slums. Right here, let it be said that Charles G. Clark, the photographer of this picture, secured some very beautiful and, at the same time, realistic effects when shooting the fog scenes of 'Piccadilly Apple Blossom Square.' These shots popped out immediately after the opening subtitle, and thus set a photographic standard for the balance of the film—a standard which Mr. Clark indefinitely maintained very nicely.

Jacquelina Logan is an ideal type for the part she portrays, and when to this fact is added her splendid ability, it is not difficult to imagine that her performance here is very vivid and colorful. While she does not repeat the theft which was so prominent in "The Light That Failed," her more recent work must go down as

WHEN this picture began, it bore all the earmarks of "another one of those things." In fact, everything was ready for the customary stunt of having the city-bred heroine find her mate in the vast spaces west of the Mississippi. Even the title added its bit to the suggestion; one expected to see Hoot galloping all over the landscape on his two-score of steeds.

But it developed that the hero's forty horses were merely figurative mounts. To be explicit, they were jobs; whether there were exactly forty of them or not is beyond the point, and anyway, we lost count of them after the eighth.

Universal has a very interesting habit of signing pulchritudinous and unfamiliar young ladies for leading-woman parts opposite its handsome male stars. The latest is Anne Cornwall, who seemingly is possessed of that rare faculty of doing little and doing it entertainingly. As Mary Darling, an actress in a troupe of one-nighters, she gives a pleasant portrayal of a character not difficult to portray, which does not seem much of an accomplishment until it is remembered that several of the more prominent leading ladies have ignominiously stumbled in similar cases.

Edward Sedgwick, who collaborated with Raymond L. Schrock in writing the story, not only followed that effort with directing the picture, but went a bit further and played a small bit in the final sequence. Of all three endeavors he made good work; here, indeed, is true versatility.

The story opens with Rudolph Catalina's troupe about to detrain at a small desert town which is to be given a histrionic treat that night. Rudolph, as one can readily perceive by looking at him, is the villain. Richard Tucker, in this role, renders an entirely adequate and pleasing performance. With him are Mary Darling, Sylvia Dean, and half a dozen others, not named. Sylvia, who supplies the money for the outfit, is impersonated by a favorite of yesteryear, none other than Helen Holmes, of railroad fame. It is fitting that the picture opens on the interior of a Pullman.

Bud Watkins, a delightfully droll individual, played by Hoot Gibson, is waiting, as is his custom, at the station. One of Bud's jobs, it appears, is the operation of the taxi service between the station and the hotel, six miles away. At the hotel, it develops that Bud has other duties. It also becomes apparent that Bud has a hat for each and every duty. All of which is good sport, for everybody in the picture and everybody looking at it.

Then comes some unusually humorous business at the village operahouse. Everything goes along all right; the villain is properly despicable, the heroine outraged, et cetera; all is well, until Rudolph drops his cigarette in the snow which Bud has been industriously sifting from above the stage. Yes, the burning snow literally brings down the house.

Following this, the plot requires that the action take place in the big city, whither Bud journeys in search of the heroine. And, of course, it was just like an actress to change her name and make it impossible for the infatuated swain to find her. But he does, eventually, and profitably, too. And the manner of their meeting, after the previous suspense, has a decidedly vigorous kick attached to it; such a kick, in fact, that it should register with even the most bored of motion-picture spectators.

Bob Hopkins's titles are up to their customary standard, which means that they are in keeping with the movement and theme. Altogether, "Forty-Horse Hawkins" is the best film Hoot Gibson has offered in many moons.

Reginald Barker is cutting the screen version of Meredith Nicholson's novel, "Broken Barriers." Mr. Barker says that, in spite of the many big names in the all-star cast, Miss Norma Schearer, whom Louis B. Mayer selected to play the leading role, will more than hold her own.

must be careful to keep from appearing deliberate. I'll illustrate when we make the next shot."

After several more rehearsals the actual scene is taken. Mr. Wilde stood by to explain how the elusive gas is developed.

"Now, when Mr. Tryon walks over to the desk and puts his finger into the inkwell, we build up to the following close-up, which acted of her own volition, Mr. Storm should have seen to it that she did not overact.

In due time the unhappy Herman is presented with a pair of goldfish. Jenny has flown again, this time to the nest of Herman's employer. Her married life with Mr. Powers is not shown; the next sequence shows her in mourning; ergo, she is a widow, free and gay.

For a while it looks as if the unfortunate Duke of Middlesex—unfortunate, because he demonstrates the theory of life after death—is to be the fourth stone upon which Jenny's feet will tread in her climb to success. But the Duke, and likewise Jenny, is spared; somebody was careless with a banana peel.

Of the supporting players, Jean Hersholt, as Herman, gave the outstanding performance. He contrasts incongruously with Miss Talmadge, almost as much, in fact, as did the furniture and bric-a-brac in the Krauss drawing-room. Edward Connelly as Count Nevski, and Frank Elliott as the Duke of Middlesex, do sincere work in relatively small footage, while William Conklin and Leo White make the most of humorous bits.

Up to this point, the story has builded rapidly. The conclusion of the first sequence, however, is followed by a period of diminishing comedy and story values. This is not to say that humor and interest cease; rather, after what has gone before, the second adventure in matrimony seems a bit tame.

True, there are one or two high spots during this sequence, notably, the scene in the Krauss home when Count Nevski and Casmir, his aide, improvise a theater box and instruct Jenny Krauss in the conduct of a lady at the opera. And then there is the vamping scene, during which Jenny blazes the way for a third venture into the wedded state. This scene, however, lost much of its humor and value through the antics of ZaSu Pitts, who, as Amelia Pugsley, was ineffective as a potential vampire.

Her portrayal at this point was considerably overdone. Prior to this, Miss Pitts had impersonated a somewhat stupid and inconsequential female, and had done it convincingly and without fault. When Amelia is introduced to Jenny's third prospective husband—J. Hamilton Powers—she seems to have become even more stupid during the passage of time, and cavorts about the room as a slapstick comedienne is known to do. While of itself a minor detail, it spoils a laughable scene in a sequence in which such scenes are not too much in evidence. Unquestionably, the fault rests upon the director's shoulders, for, regardless of whether or not th[illegible]

The faith motif evinces itself at this point; Glad reveals the cause for her unusual name, and quite a bit of her simple philosophy. The old man is impressed, and goes with her to the haunts of poverty wherein she and her unfortunate brethren exist.

Now the regenerative theme becomes stronger, but likewise does the plot. And subsequently, the latter effectually overwhelms the former, for the Dandy gets into all sorts of trou-

CERTAIN individuals, who, bowed down beneath the weight of their own greatness in the cinema sphere, long have been in the habit of sunning themselves on Hollywood Boulevard serene in their ascendancy over art—are about to experience a shock. Some evening, after the sun has gone down, these cellubrities are going to wander into a theater and see "Peter the Great." Thenceforward, for them, the sun will never rise again.

It is just as well, perhaps, that the public will have "Peter the Great" to fall back upon.

Manifestly, it is unjust to pick out any one picture and arbitrarily term it the best that ever has been thrown upon a screen. Also, it is foolish; one becomes a target for everybody with or without an opinion to shoot at. Instead, it is far better that they be permitted to shoot at "Peter the Great"—because it is the next best.

This despite the fact that as a photoplay it already is quite passably full of holes. There are all kinds of faults to be found in it. These, however, will be left to such people as are disposed to find them, for there are likewise to be found in "Peter the Great" a marvelous performance by Emil Jannings and a masterly direction by Dimitri Buchowetzki.

There has lately been quite a controversy over the respective merits of European and American-made films. This sort of talk is obviously rot—the comparison utterly useless. The only issue is that of the best possible films, and the way to get them is to get those people who make the best films in Europe and bring them here, where they can make 'em much better.

"Peter the Great" is the last picture which Buchowetzki made before coming to the Perforated Village. Pola Negri, whom he previously directed in "Mad Love," and whom he now is directing here, speaks of him as an "artistic inspiration." Such a phrase, before seeing "Peter the Great," sounds like a theatric affectation; afterward, it seems a tribute merely adequate. Mr. Jannings undoubtedly has spoken those selfsame words.

Together, and notwithstanding superlative work by the rest of the cast, these two are almost entirely the picture. Peter, the laborer who learned to read and write from the misshapen dwarf whom he subsequently made his favorite; Peter, who wrested an empire from Asia that he might make of it a motherland for his people; Peter, who forgave his son an attempt upon his life, only to shoot him with his own hand when he tried to betray Russia—it takes a Jannings to portray such a man.

Of plot, in the accepted sense, the film has little. Only in the last reel or so does it descend to the scenario style. And even then it seems so to do only because history was made by conspiracy and intrigue, and scenario writers followed suit; otherwise, pure drama is furnished throughout by conflict between Peter and those who constituted themselves his enemies, between Peter and Alexis, his caressed, craven son.

The latter part, incidentally, was beautifully done by Walter Janssen, whose role was unsympathetic to the extreme. So capable was his support that nowhere in the film was Jannings more superb than in the scene where he, the warrior supreme in his strength, despising the cowled pacifists who sought to destroy him, kissed on the lips the son who was their slave.

Death Comes Even to Kings

Dagny Servaes, too, who played opposite him as Catherine, the peasant girl whom he made empress, is splendid. Artistically and optically she is a delight. And now we know why Elinor Glyn quite consistently feels impelled to dash off pages and pages of ah's and oh's to the accompaniment of a time clock. At some time or other she must have seen a sequence like that following Peter's marriage feast.

But of the cast, outside of Jannings only, Bernhard Oaetzke, as Menshikov, romps off with first honors. He is the villain, and no villain, on the screen or off, was ever more so. Subtle, not heavy—a villain to be reckoned with. In one shot, posed as a close-up inside Catherine's door, he looked like Satan himself. Except that no devil who ever had been an angel could possibly look so sardonic.

He, also, was inspired by love. It really is surprising what a difference ends make when the means and motive are the same.

Perhaps, in the past, American films have excelled rather noticeably in the matter of photography. This feature, in "Peter the Great," is not uniform. Some of the scenes are not equal to the best made here, but that of Peter and his staff riding home through tall trees in the foreground has seldom been surpassed. As for the art direction, by Hans Dreier—well, the feast would make any Chamber of Commerce banquet appear by comparison like coffee and one sinker at Child's.

At this feast, by the way, occurs about the only comedy in the film. It isn't comedy "relief," either; it is part and parcel of the picture, fully in accord with the characterization of the principal. It is a classic example of the art of extracting real comedy from a situation rather than dragging in a comedian to create it. Direction, again—and it rivals anything in most comedies that have only comedy to recommend them.

The other sets are consistently in accord—cities, palaces, whatnot. Each looks as though it had been built to endure for a thousand years. Nevertheless, these same sets are properly relegated to the background, there to diffuse against the action precisely that quality of atmosphere which so admirably orientates the production. Peter ruled in Russia and it is in Russia that Peter rules, thanks to Mr. Dreier, whom one is devoutly thankful Mr. Buchowetzki brought with him to Hollywood.

European directors are admittedly masters in the matter of handling mobs. In "Peter the Great" Mr. Buchowetzki handled both an army and a mob in such a way that the difference was distinguishable other than by the former's uniforms. Such an innovation is distinctly to be welcomed.

Another innovation in the picture which might well be universally followed wherever at all practicable is contained in the titles. Since the narrative is largely historical, it was deemed advisable to append to some of these explanatory footnotes taken from an authority. Voltaire and Edgar Saltus are thus represented—the only possible improvement would lie in making the footnotes the titles. Even as it is, however, these excerpts add enormously both to the prestige and the enjoyment of the piece.

Sets, photography, titles—all, of course, are vital. But, long after these shall have been forgotten, there still will linger in the memory, not Jannings, but Peter. For Jannings now is Peter, putting for us a glorious chapter of the past into an epic of the present; bringing to life a mighty monarch long dead; conquering our sympathies, our imaginations, our every emotion even as Peter conquered those of the world of his day. We sorrow with him at the ingratitude of his people even as we triumph with him in his victories, and we share his monumental love even as we share his implacable hatreds.

Here, then, is a triumph for the much-maligned screen. For on no other stage could have been encompassed this Peter, doing what this Peter has done; elsewhere he had perhaps been Peter—but just Peter.

PROTECTION OF FORESTS URGED

All Asked to Observe Fire Prevention Week

Celebration Got Start on Pacific Coast

Timber Blazes Total 160,000 in Five Years

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Forest Protection Week will be observed from the 21st to the 27th inst., in accordance with a proclamation by President Coolidge. The governors of several States are expected to issue proclamations supplementing that of the President, and a greater effort than ever before will be made to call attention of the American people to the great unnecessary wastage of the national forests by fire.

At the same time measures will be taken to devise means of curtailing the enormous annual losses due to forest fires. It is said to be too much to hope that these losses can be entirely eliminated, but the public will be impressed with the fact that they are in large part preventable.

ORIGINATED ON COAST

Forest Protection Week originated on the Pacific Coast several years ago and soon became a national affair. In 1921 President Harding issued the first proclamation which placed the Federal government in general and the Forest Service in particular squarely behind the movement. This year it is President Coolidge who will call on citizens, either in associations or as individuals, to make proper observance of the week. In so far as it will not conflict with State laws or customs, governors will be asked to see that Arbor Day is generally celebrated during the week. Arbor Day was first established fifty-two years ago by Gov. Sterling J. Morton of Nebraska.

Government officials emphasize the point that Forest Protection Week is not an exclusive affair for the Forest Service and those directly interested in the nation's timber wealth. All organizations in the out-of-doors, in game animals, wild life, the economic phases of business, in Arbor Day and tree planting, in the preservation of water resources, in recreational facilities, in manufacturing, in transportation, in building—in fact, virtually everybody is or should be concerned in the conservation of forests and should participate in this annual demonstration.

LOSS TREMENDOUS

The acreage of forest swept each year by fire is about twice the area annually cut over in logging operations. Many experts estimate that more trees have fallen before the flames that before the ax. The Forest Service says that within five years ending in 1920 more than 160,000 forest fires were reported in this country. These fires covered an area of 56,000,000 acres and destroyed timber and property valued at $35,000,000, exclusive of indirect and intangible damage to young-growth trees, water resources and recreational facilities.

In 1922 there was a total of 51,891 forest fires, devastating 11,500,000 acres and resulting in damage aggregating $16,678,485. The 1923 fire season was not so severe. This was due primarily to favorable weather conditions and secondarily to the awakening of the public to the fact that forest fires can be prevented.

In 1923 the number of man-caused forest fires ran as high as 90 per cent of the total in certain sections of the country, according to official compilations. Incendiarism, smoking and camp fires were the three principal causes of these conflagrations.

Twenty-six States are making definite efforts to protect their forest lands, aggregating 160,000,000 acres. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, they expended for this purpose $1,826,436. During that year the Federal government assisted those States in their fire-protection work to the amount of $295,200. It has been estimated that an expenditure of approximately $10,000,000 would fairly protect all of the State and privately owned forest lands in the United States.

Alaska, in the shadow of the Arctic Circle, is not immune from forest fires, more than 3000 acres of timberland having been burned over last year in thirty-six man-caused fires.

MILLIONS VISIT FORESTS

During 1923 more than 9,000,000 people visited the national forests for recreational purposes. It is estimated that almost half that number visited in the national-forest regions of California alone, and there were 475 campers' and smokers' fires in that State.

In an effort to drive home the lesson of the needless wastage from forest fires the Forest Service makes some interesting comparisons. For instance, it says that each year forest fires burn an area equivalent to a ten-mile strip from New York City to Denver, and an area more than eight times the acreage of the French forests destroyed or damaged during the World War.

Again, every year forest fires in the United States destroy or damage timber of sufficient amount to build five-room houses for the entire population of a city the size of Denver, Portland, Seattle, San Francisco, Atlanta, Louisville, Kansas City, New Orleans or Washington, D. C.

In fact, the forests of the country are being depleted about four times as fast as new timber is being grown. Twice as many acres are burned over each year as are cut over in lumbering operations.

And the final admonition of the Federal authorities to all those who go into the forests is: "Be as careful with fire while you are in wooded areas as you would be in your own home; be thoughtful and reasonable at all times."

DEVER OPPOSES McADOO

CHICAGO, April 1.—Mayor Dever last night made his first political speech since his own election as Mayor. Speaking before 4000 Democrats, he urged the nomination of unpledged delegates to the Democratic National Convention. They are opposed by candidates pledged to McAdoo, so that the Mayor's speech was indirectly an attack upon the McAdoo candidacy.

BARNES URGES FIGHT ON BONUS

National Chamber President Says Passage Possible

Asserts Bill Objectionable as When First Vetoed

Calls on Members to Give Congressmen Views

Danger that the bonus bill may be forced through the Senate by the same methods which forced it through the House, and become a law even over the President's expected veto, is emphasized in a statement by Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Mr. Barnes calls on members of the organization and other organizations affiliated with the chamber to go on record in communications addressed to Senators and to the President.

BY JULIUS H. BARNES
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The soldiers' bonus bill was passed by the House of Representatives on March 18 under a suspension of the rules which did not permit any amendment or due consideration of the measure, as the debate was limited to only forty minutes. This bill is now before the Senate Finance Committee.

We call two facts to your attention:

(1.) That there is a distinct danger of the bonus bill becoming law.

(2.) That there is an attempt to "railroad" the bonus bill through Congress, without proper consideration or debate, and with the possibility that it will take precedence over the tax-reduction bill.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, acting under authority of a referendum in which the membership voted against any form of cash or deferred-certificate bonus to able-bodied veterans, has made known to Congress its opposition to the pending bill.

BILL OBJECTIONABLE

This bill is objectionable for the same reason that applied to the bill vetoed by President Harding. It is a device for taxing the public for the benefit of one class of its citizens at a time when all efforts should be concentrated on a reduction of taxes.

The proponents of the bill estimate that it will cost $2,119,000,000, which figure does not take into consideration the cost of administering the act, and in this respect the estimate is misleading. Government actuary estimates that the cost will be $4,854,750,087. The program of tax reduction will be nullified or delayed by the amount of yearly appropriations needed to carry out the provisions of this bill.

If the plan of the bonus proponents succeeds this bill will pass the Senate and go to the President for approval. If the President vetoes the bill there is a possibility of its being passed over his veto.

If you or your organization wish to support the national chamber in opposing the bonus bill and also in opposing the method by which it is being forced through Congress, we recommend that your organization members communicate their views directly to their Senators and to the President of the United States.

TERRORIZED BY ERUPTION OF VOLCANO

People of Isle Off Coast of Sicily Flee as Lava Floods Stromboli

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MESSINA (Sicily) April 1.—The volcano of Stromboli on the island of that name, situated in the Lipari group of islands off the north coast of Sicily today broke into violent eruption terrorizing the small population. No lives are reported lost, but many houses have been destroyed.

Heavy rumblings in the earth preceding activity served as a warning to the inhabitants who fled to points of safety. The outbreak of the ancient volcano, which has been more or less active for 2000 years, came with a tremendous explosion which hurled white hot boulders for miles. This was followed by volumes of smoke, ashes, and a huge stream of molten lava which is running down the fiery mountain into the sea.

Italian relief expeditions are under way from Monteleone and other towns.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 1.—William (Bill B.) Van, vaudeville comedian, has been sued for $50,000 for alleged breach of promise by Miss Ray Myers of the Hotel Bristol, Manhattan.

Supreme Court Justice Calaghan in Brooklyn today complied with the request of counsel for Van, George Z. Medaille, and ordered Miss Myers to submit a bill of particulars, giving the date and place of the alleged promise.

Mr. Medaille said neither he nor Mr. Van knew anything whatever of Miss Myers.

BATON ROUGE (La.) The negro population of about 500 disappeared when a report was received that all of the settlement would be burned last night.

JAPANESE LIQUOR SEIZED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MERCED, April 1.—R. Sassa, a Japanese, was held up by Clarence Brown, a foot-and-mouth-control guard, on a bridge near Livingston early this morning. Investigation revealed 1344 bottles of sake, a Japanese liquor, in the truck driven by Sassa. He is now in jail in Livingston.

No Intervendrá Inglaterra en el Asunto de Bailey

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Abril 1.—Hoy indicó H. A. Cunnard Cummins, Encargado de Negocios Británico, que Inglaterra no intervendría formalmente en el asunto de Eugene T. Bailey, rico inglés detenido aquí y acusado de haber facilitado la venta de armas y municiones a los insurgentes.

El caso debe dejarse en manos de las autoridades mejicanas, manifestó el citado diplomático. No quiso entrar en detalles, pero aprovecha la oportunidad para explicar la actitud de la Gran Bretaña para con Méjico en la última revuelta. Dijo que en principio se había gobernado Inglaterra por la actitud asumida por los Estados Unidos, particularmente en lo que mira a la cuestión de armas y pertrechos. El gobierno inglés no ha permitido, dijo, el envío de material de guerra a los revolucionarios. Poco después de que estalló la revolución, el gobierno británico tomó providencias para impedir que de territorios británicos se mandaran avíos de ningun género a los grupos que había en armas contra el gobierno mejicano.

La declaración del señor Cummins es la primera que se hace respecto a la actitud británica para con Méjico, desde que empezó la revuelta, y ha servido para desmentir misteriosas noticias de que Inglaterra se inclinaba a adoptar una actitud neutral durante la revolución.

Mr. Cummins se negó a comprometerse haciendo declaraciones sobre la posibilidad del reconocimiento de Inglaterra, y manifestó que era éste un asunto que dependía exclusivamente del Ministerio de Relaciones Extranjeras en Londres.

Pláticas Diarias en Español por el Prof. R. Guerrero, del Departamento Español de "The Times"

Comienza el artículo de Alvaro Alcalá Galiano que vamos a comentar, con la voz "clausuradas", participio pasivo del verbo "clausurar", que no consta en el Diccionario de la Academia; pero que, a pesar de declararlo Cuervo algo pedantesco, se usa mucho en el lenguaje moderno con la significación de "terminar o suspender las deliberaciones de un congreso, de un tribunal, o los trabajos de un cuerpo o establecimiento".

La frase, "clausuradas las Cortes y mudos los políticos, etc.", es un período elíptico que, en su forma integra, lleva en la prótasis pretéritos de gerundio que han perdido el auxiliar o han desaparecido totalmente. Sin elipsis, la frase sería: "Habiéndose clausurado (habiendo sido clausuradas) las Cortes, y habiendo quedado mudos los políticos, etc."

La prensa española ha dado en denominar "régimen antiguo" el recientísimo sistema parlamentario que, tras de incruenta revolución, reemplazó el Directorio militar que hoy rige los destinos de España.

Algunas líneas más adelante nos encontramos con esta interrogación: "¿A quién le tocará ahora el ser asesinado?", en la que, si se quiere, puede suprimirse el artículo "el" antes de "ser". Esta frase se traduciría al inglés por "I wonder whose turn it is to be murdered today?". El verbo "tocarle a uno" significa "ser alguna cosa de la obligación o cargo de uno", o "caerle en cuerte una cosa": "A mí me toca dar" (cartas), "It is my turn to deal" (cards); "Le tocó a usted el premio mayor", "You drew the first prize", "The first prize went to you".

Note el estudiante el sentido conjetural o dubitativo que comunica a la oración el futuro cuando se usa en lugar del presente. No atendiendo sino a la idea de tiempo, la frase anterior debería ser: "¿A quién le toca ahora el ser asesinado?"; pero la sustitución del futuro "tocará" al presente "toca" presta a la oración ese matiz, mezcla de ignorancia y curiosidad, que tan bien cuadra a ciertas interrogaciones, y que con tanta exactitud traduce la expresión inglesa "I wonder".

Cuando no queremos o no podemos afirmar algo con entera seguridad, nos valemos del futuro para expresar la conjetura o la probabilidad, aunque se trate de hechos presentes o pasados. Así, "cantaré" sustituye a "canto", "cantaría" a "cantaba" o "cante", "habré cantado" a "he cantado", y "habría cantado" a "había cantado".

Si alguien nos pregunta "qué hora es", dice Bello, podemos responder "son las cuatro" o "serán las cuatro", expresando "son" y "serán" un mismo tiempo, que es el momento en que proferimos la respuesta; pero "son" denotará certidumbre, y "serán", cálculo, raciocinio, conjetura.

"Habrá cincuenta alumnos en esta clase" quiere decir "sospecho que hay", "es probable que haya". "Tendría el prelado unos sesenta y nueve años (Isla), donde "tendría", usado por "tenía", da un tono de conjetura a la proposición.

"Cara más hipócrita no la habrás visto en tu vida" (Isla), donde "habrás" por "has" da a la aserción el carácter de mera probabilidad que le conviene. "Todavía se descubriría en sus facciones que en su mocedad habría hecho puntear a sus rejas bastantes guitarras" (Isla). "Habría hecho" por "había hecho" da el punteo de las guitarras como una presunción verosímil.

Ask Your Doctor About Intestinal Poisons

"Regular as Clockwork"

Any doctor will tell you that the first results of constipation—headache, sleepless nights, biliousness, backaches, etc.—warn poisons. In time, these poisons may cause the breakdown of health and lead to serious disease. In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Hence, doctors urge internal cleanliness—regular and thorough removal of food waste from the body.

Through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-Ray observation, they have found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

OUST DIRECTOR OF IRRIGATION

Imperial Members Vote Out Aten as Chairman

Climax Comes After Hectic Year of Friction

Charges Against Director to be Put in Writing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, April 1.—After a hectic year as head of the Imperial Irrigation District board of directors, Chairman Ira Aten was ousted today through action of his fellow directors. The resolution, proposed by Director Mark Rose declaring the office of chairman of the board vacant, was put to a vote by Chairman Aten as presiding officer. It was seconded by Director C. W. Brockman. Directors Rose Brockman, Earl C. Pound and Mack Trentham voted "aye." Chairman Aten answered, "Not voting."

The direct cause of the board's action was not stated at the meeting and the directors, including Aten, declined to discuss it later.

After the resolution ousting him had been passed and Director Pound placed in the chair as temporary head of the board, Aten demanded that any charges against him be placed in writing. Rose started to tell Aten the reason behind the board's action when he was interrupted by Director Brockman who reminded Rose that the ex-chairman wanted the charges in writing. Brockman also intimated that there would be no written charges against Aten.

For several months Aten has openly opposed his fellow board members, charging them with failure to co-operate with him for the efficient administration of irrigation district affairs. The other directors have openly resented these charges and persons keeping close watch on irrigation district politics asserted tonight that the ousting of the chairman was a direct result of the friction.

His elimination as chairman of the board does not affect Aten's position as director from the El Centro district.

SAN FERNANDO, April 1.—The City Trustees have given final approval to the estimates, plans and specifications for the proposed trunk-line sewer system and septic plant and will call a special $90,000 bond election for the earliest possible date.

The disposal plant will be located in Pacoima Wash, where the city, in anticipation of sewer needs, several months ago closed an option on the purchase of a fifteen-acre tract. This will be utilized until Los Angeles city installs a main for the relief of the San Fernando Valley annex, when connection with it will be made and the septic tank abandoned.

Los Angeles has consented to the use by San Fernando, Burbank and Glendale of the city's projected outfall sewer, which it is expected will be completed within the next three years. Terms upon which this connection is to be effected have been tentatively agreed upon, it is stated, by the communities interested.

Redondo Beach Election is Set for 21st Inst.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDONDO BEACH, April 1.—An elementary school bond election has been set for the 21st inst., when a bond issue of $275,000 for the three elementary districts of the Redondo Beach schools will be voted upon. The bond issue would enable the School Board to purchase a new site on the north side, remodelling the present North School for overflow use. It is also planned to put in a new departmental school at Central School to relieve the pressure on the grade classes.

The additional building would allow a redistricting which would in turn relieve the heavy enrollment at the South School. The Parent-Teacher Association and other civic organizations are strenuously supporting the issue.

AUTO CAMP CLOSED

San Diego Site Is Taken Over by Zoological Society

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, April 1.—The municipal auto camp grounds passed out of existence today, the site formerly occupied in Balboa Park being taken over by the San Diego Zoological Society.

While the auto camp grounds, located in a picturesque part of the park, was very popular with auto campers, it was just the reverse with residents living in the district adjoining the camp. Several months ago the Zoological Society served notice that it needed more ground for expansion and the City Council decided to remove the camp. A bitter fight followed between factions favoring and opposing the municipality owned camping site. It was decided to close the camp on the 1st inst., and the City Manager was instructed to find a new site. To date this has not been done.

A solution of the problem probably will be that private interests will establish an auto camping grounds.

Santa Ana School Head Sees No Reason Against Cut Tresses

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

In commenting today upon the action of eastern educators in dismissing teachers with short hair J. A. Cranston, superintendent of public schools declared:

"I see no reason for condemning every woman who bobs her hair because the acts and appearance of a few with bobbed hair may be abominable. That would be as unreasonable as criticizing every woman with long hair if one of their number acts or looks unladylike."

The Railroad Commission recently brought an end to proceedings by refusal to allow a grade-crossing over the airline tracks of the Pacific Electric Railroad at this point.

ARREST SOLVES MAN'S "SUICIDE"

Asserted Bank Swindler Reported Caught

Disappeared After Leaving Drowning Note

Career Brought Trouble to Young Associate

ONTARIO, April 1.—Mystery of the disappearance of Donald L. Forbes, 50-year-old Beau Brummel, gentleman-printer and asserted bank-swindler and embezzler who dropped from sight last September after sending a note to friends here telling of his intention of committing suicide by drowning himself in the ocean at Paso Robles was believed solved today with the receipt of word of the arrest of the man under the name of D. L. Flint at Ukiah.

Forbes, or Flint, is said to have admitted swindling the Ontario Bank of Italy out of $1000, as well as a number of other banks, from which he obtained much larger sums, including $7000 from the First National Bank of Willets, which resulted in his arrest, and $15,000 from three banks in New Haven, Conn.

SOUGHT BY STORE

In writing his suicide note, Forbes gave the address of a garage at Paso Robles where he would leave a high-priced motor car, which he was buying on contract and this was later recovered by C. C. Minton, the Ontario dealer from whom he made the purchase. At the time of his disappearance, Forbes was also sought by the A. R. Volk department store, which had extended him credit in a considerable amount.

Forbes's sudden dropping from sight brought near tragedy to the lives of at least two persons. Shortly after coming to Ontario, where he was generally regarded as a man of wealth and position, he met Fred P. Smith, a young Englishman in straitened financial circumstances, whom he promised an equal partnership in and the superintendency of a large foothill orange grove, with whose owner he was negotiating a purchase.

WEDDING IS OFF

On the strength of this promise, Smith wrote his fiancee in England, urging her and her mother to sell their belongings in England and come to America. He was to meet them in New York, financed by Forbes, and escort them to Ontario. It was not until the young woman, Miss Alice Stephens, her mother, Mrs. A. E. Stephens, and her brother, Alexander, were on the high seas that Forbes disappeared and when they landed on American soil, young Smith found himself helpless to carry out his end of the bargain. Finally, after great difficulty the Stephens family was able to reach Ontario, but the wedding which was to have been celebrated last fall, was of necessity postponed.

It was declared unlikely today that Forbes would be brought back to Ontario for trial, since the case against him at Willets is considered conclusive.

Of the 1923 sales, 774,617 were passenger cars, 23,791 commercial; and 147 miscellaneous, which includes tractors.

The corporation's share in the undistributed earnings of these two subsidiaries was $9,941,429, which if added to the net income would represent a total of $72,008,955. After paying regular quarterly dividends on the debenture and preferred stocks requiring $6,837,-271 for the year, there remained for the common stock $55,130,155 or $3.67 per share.

The report shows that manufacturing output was 75 per cent greater than the previous year, and when certain unfinished construction projects are completed, a manufacturing capacity of approximately 1,100,000 cars per year will be available. The volume of business through the accessory and parts groups was the largest in the corporation's history. The volume of export operations, excluding Canadian business, was $39,193,869, or about 6 per cent of the total business of the motor car divisions, and an increase of 92 per cent over the previous year.

Net after Federal taxes totaled $62,067,526, compared to $9,114,488 for 1909, and the balance available for the common stock of $55,180,155 contrasts with $8,696,817 in the first year. In the sixteen years of operations, the corporation reports total sales of $3,690,240,502 and net after taxes of $311,948,656. Cash dividends paid on the common stock have totaled $122,327,219 in the same period, or 45.14 per cent of the amount available for dividends. The corporation has reinvested out of earnings in the sixteen years the sum of $148,662,573, of which $36,408,129 was "ploughed in" during 1923.

Stockholders at the end of 1923, according to the report, numbered 68,062. Of the 46,587 common stockholders, 31,812 owned 100 shares or less and 13,896 owned ten shares or less. Of the common stockholders, 10,017 were women.

During 1923, the pay rolls of the General Motors Corporation, not including affiliated companies, such as Fisher Body, totaled $128,-290,734, compared with $95,128,-435 in 1922 and $66,020,451 in 1921. The average number of employees in 1923 was 91,245, while at the end of the year the number was 97,747. If the employees of the Fisher Body and other affiliated companies were added, the total would exceed 135,000 at the end of the year.

WEALTH OF THE NATION

Preliminary estimates released by the Department of Commerce place of the value of the principal forms of wealth on December 31, 1922, at $320,803,662,000, as compared with $156,299,644,000 in 1912, an increase of 72.2 per cent. Per capita values increased from 1950 to $2918, or 49.6 per cent.

All classes of property increased in value from 1912 to 1922, except live stock, which decreased from $6,238,289,000 to $5,807,104,000, or 6.9 per cent. The estimated value of taxed real property and improvements increased from $96,-922,406,000 to $155,908,625,000, or 60.9 per cent; exempt real property (exclusive of national parks and monuments) from $12,313,520,000 to $20,505,819,000, or 66.5 per cent; farm implements and machinery from $1,368,225,000 to $2,604,628,-000, or 90.4 per cent; manufacturing machinery, tools, and implements from $4,021,451,000 to $15,-782,260,000 or 159.1 per cent, and railroads and their equipment from $16,148,532,000 to $19,950,300,000, or 23.5 per cent.

DUN'S DIAGNOSIS

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Trade Review, in this week's issue, will say regarding trade conditions in Los Angeles:

"While business conditions appear to be fundamentally sound, buyers as a rule have been restricting their purchases to immediate requirements, particularly in view of the fact that the lack of rainfall caused some doubt as to the future course of trade in general. A better feeling exists at present, however, owing to recent liberal showers, and an increasing volume of sales is looked for from now on.

"In some seasonable lines, where orders have to be placed well ahead to insure delivery, sellers have been obliged to guarantee quotations against decline in order to strengthen their customers' confidence in present prices. The results of last year's walnut crop have been gratifying, with sales amounting to nearly $10,000,000 reported. Money is in ample supply for all legitimate needs, but operations of a speculative nature are discouraged. Collections are reported rather slow, as is usually the case at this period of the year."

AUTOMOTIVE SALES

Sales of passenger automobiles in Southern California for the month of February totaled 8550, a decrease of 2 per cent for the same month of last year. The statistics as compiled by the Automobile Publishing Company show that the distribution of motor trucks in the same month totaled 855, a gain of 2 per cent over February of 1922.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Developing Home Industries; Los Angeles as a Meat Distributing Center; Window Shopping

BY CHAPIN HALL

Rumors of business curtailment can be picked up almost at random, but when they are balanced against bank clearings, building permits, manufacturing output and other trade indicia the rumors lose much of their effectiveness.

It remains just as true at this time when business is swinging into the second quarter of the year, however, as it was three or six months ago that a city, as well as an army, goes forward on its belly. Not an elegant way of putting an obvious truth, but it's a truth, just the same. In other words, a community or an individual or a corporation finds difficulty in lifting itself by its own bootstraps.

Many millions of dollars have gone into subdivision and other nonproducing real estate ventures during the past few months. All right. Real estate investment is desirable, necessary and in Southern California usually remunerative, but investors should not lose sight of the fact that there are local industries to be supported and expanded; industries through which thousands of men are given employment; industries whose pay rolls support the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker; industries which pay dividends and which are absolutely necessary to make for a self-supporting self-reliant, developing metropolis. These should not be neglected, and enough liquidity should be preserved to meet the legitimate requirements of this type of high-grade investments.

The development of the packing industry is just now being given considerable attention, and it is admitted that opportunities for expansion along this line are highly encouraging. The temporary flurry being caused by the discovery of a few cases of foot-and-mouth disease and the quarantine resulting therefrom is without effect upon the packers, such losses as may result therefrom falling upon the shippers and growers.

It is a far cry, but also an interesting history of the unfolding of one of the world's greatest industries from the day, back in 1857 when Gustavus Swift, a lad of 18, cleared $10 by killing, cutting and selling his first calf at Barnstable, Mass., to the present vast enterprises such as Armour, Cudahy, Swift, Morris and the others with their tens of thousands of stockholders and their millions of annual turnover.

A United States Federal Trade Commission report is given as authority for the statement that $15000 invested in Armour & Co. five years ago would have a present stock worth of $32,000 and a similar sum invested fifteen years ago in Pacific States Packing Company would have turned into a stock representation of $71,000.

The industry in Los Angeles is in its infancy, but the Southern California Meat Company, is among the forward-looking packing-houses planning to take advantage of a home market which is by no means supplied at the present time by home industry.

This concern proposes to spend $500,000 in plant enlargement and to make its Vernon-avenue plant one of the models of the country. Its fiscal agents, the Royal Finance Corporation, are offering a preferred and common stock in issue on a unit basis of $12.50, a unit consisting of one share of preferred 8 per cent stock, par value $10 and one share of common stock of no par value.

The plans include a new building to be erected in the industrial district on a thirteen-acre plot of ground, the installation of the latest machinery designed to utilise "everything but the squeal," and, according to officers of the company, the rapid development of an already going business. The low-power cost; an available market of more than 2,000,000 persons, and an assurance of an unlimited supply of raw material are pointed out as reasons for the probability of this city becoming the great packing center of the Far West.

WINDOW SHOPPING

A tired business man, blowing his wife to a supper in town and a visit to the theater afterward was inveigled into spending the interim between the two events in an orgy of window-shopping, a pastime, by the way, which is Los Angeles' most popular out-door sport. The "t.b.m." grew tireder every moment, and finally rebelled on the ground that he had gazed into the seductive depths of 1,000,-000 windows and was "through."

The tired business man was mistaken, however, in his statistics. The million windows he thought he had frisked were not actually so many. In fact, there are not that many retail store windows in the United States, if A. T. Fischer, an authority on window advertising, is to be believed.

He says there are 800,000 retail display windows in the entire country divided this way:

147,980 in general stores.
46,398 in drug stores.
42,217 in candy stores.
37,116 in cigar stores.
29,445 in shoe stores.
23,009 in jewelry stores.
32,472 in department stores.
37,563 in furniture stores.
29,030 in hardware stores.
18,770 in haberdasheries.
40,531 in garages and auto supply stores.

While on this subject of shopping it is interesting to learn that taking the country over 70 per cent of the daily sales in department stores are made between noon and 4 p.m. Ten per cent of the total are made between 8:30 and 11 in the morning; 10 per cent between 11 and 12, and another 10 per cent between 4 and 5. During the busy period in the afternoon each hour after 12 o'clock shows an average increase of approximately 7 per cent.

These figures are not entirely accurate when applied to a Los Angeles segregation, for in this favored clime where the mornings are considered to be worth spending out of bed about 30 per cent of the total is rolled up before the noon whistles.

FEW BUYERS COMPETE IN COTTON EXCHANGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 1.—Cotton futures moved rather narrowly in quiet trading on the New York Cotton Exchange with the greater volume of business representing the activities of local interests. Brokers who usually act for trade interests, however, were good buyers on periods of easiness. This served to steady the list. The higher cables caused scattered early buying by locals with values going 10 to 15 points higher. Better weather reports, however, encouraged moderate selling which canceled the early gain. Under previous finals trade buying appeared and brought another moderate upturn.

In the afternoon selling by wire houses and New Orleans caused a sharp break of about 1-3 cent a pound net. There was little in late news to account for the sharp reaction. At the day's low levels with May under 28 cents and July under 27, demand from trade sources increased and the list recovered partially, closing off 10 to 16 points net, except July, which was unchanged.

Spot cotton closed at 28.50, up 30 points.

L.A.I. Leases 1000 Acres to Standard Oil

Stockholders of the Los Angeles Investment Company yesterday afternoon unanimously approved the proposition submitted by the Standard Oil Company to lease 1000 acres of the company's lands north of Inglewood. The terms of the agreement provide that the Standard Oil Company will pay a cash bonus of $500,000, 20 per cent of the oil produced, and 50 per cent of the net profits after the deduction of all operating expenses.

A large number of the company's stockholders were present at the meeting held in Trinity Auditorium, and the general sentiment was enthusiastic over the Standard Oil proposal. This company already has 455 acres of Los Angeles Investment land in the same district under lease, and struck oil in a test well a few days ago at 1027 feet, according to W. H. Harrison, general manager of the Los Angeles Investment Company.

The conservative policy of this Company is well known, and the Mortgages we offer are First Liens on improved property which as we know are worth surplus funds invested in.

They are in amounts of $2000 to $5000 each and represent approximately 40% of the property value.

We sell them at par and guarantee their payment when due and attend to the collections without expense to the mortgage holder.

WE ARE NOT BROKERS.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Uncertain Trend

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, April 1.—Failing to develop a definite trend in today's dull trading, bond prices displayed a strong undertone in most sections of the list. At the close the market was enlivened by active selling of the Peoria and Eastern income 4's which dropped 3¼ points to a price more than 5 points below last week's high level.

Opportunity for profit-taking supplied the motive for unloading these bonds and also brought fractional declines in other speculative issues. Liquidation of the American Agricultural Chemical 7's continued.

The principal constructive movement was in the obligation of the St. Paul railroad which met good buying support at levels slightly below the high figure for the year. Average gains of about a point also were recorded by the French municipal issues on the strength in the foreign exchanges.

Offering of the $30,000,000 Swiss government loan met with good response, books on the issue closing within two hours. "Switching" operations from the United Kingdom's 5½'s selling around par, into Swiss 5½'s, offered at 97½ were reported in progress, investors being attracted by the higher yield.

Following are closing quotations on bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange, furnished by Logan & Bryan, 626 South Spring street:

BY ROBERT J. PRITCHARD

Drilling operations to test the productive possibilities of the Bell district are to be started within a week by the Shell Company, it is reported by officials of the company. Location has already been made for the well, which will be known as the Loomis Community No. 1, and will be located about one and one-half miles southeast of the town of Bell, and about one-half mile north of Vinedale.

Preliminary development work in the way of "postholing" to determine the structure in this area was done by the Shell Company about three years ago, just prior to the bringing in of the Long Beach field. Developments in Signal Hill caused a suspension of operations in the Bell district, but the presence of a structure with possible production is said to have been definitely determined. According to reports, the Shell company delayed xfurther operations in this district pending the result of development work in the Bandini district, a little further to the north, the opinion among geologists being that the two districts are too close together for production in both, and that the presence of petroleum in commercial quantities in either locality would indicate its absence in the other.

The failure of operators in Bandini to get production, combined with the fact that leasing requirements make it necessary to begin drilling in the Bell district by early summer, are taken as reasons for the Shell's action in starting its test well at the present time.

The Shell company is the largest leaseholder in the Bell area, owning more than 400 acres, much of which is in community leases of one acre and more. The Standard Oil Company is said to hold thirty acres, George F. Getty holds thirty acres, the General Petroleum Corporation and a number of smaller companies are interested, it is said.

Oil Exports Jump

Exports of petroleum from Los Angeles Harbor during March increased by 2,000,000 barrels over the total exports for the month of February, according to official reports. Shipments to ports on the eastern coast more than doubled shipments to domestic ports on the Pacific Coast. Total exports for the month were 8,647,176 barrels, against 6,334,131 barrels for February. Cargoes to the Atlantic Coast totaled 4,156,651 barrels, against 2,076,319 barrels for the Pacific Coast. Foreign shipments amounted to 2,334,156 barrels.

These figures include 6,039,335 barrels of crude, 1,663,797 barrels of fuel, 523,808 barrels of gasoline, 140,855 barrels of kerosene, 157,103 barrels of distillate, 31,320 barrels of Diesel and 75,000 barrels of lubricating oil.

Hellman I Off

The Union Oil Company's Hellman No. 1 in the Dominguez field, went off production yesterday, according to official reports. The well came in last Saturday, flowing 300 barrels per day. Although this production increased slightly, the gas pressure was said to be very poor, as if the well had not stopped flowing, company officials said it probably would have been killed and an effort made to increase the flow.

To Try Again

The Mahala Oil Company is to make a second attempt to get profitable production from its No. 1 well in San Bernardino county, five miles east of Richfield, according to officials of the company.

The Mahala No. 1 is down 3745 feet, according to official reports, and after several attempts to make it flow had failed, was placed on the pump last February, and produced about 100 barrels per day on the beam, officials report. After producing several hundred barrels, it is said, the well sanded up, and it was decided to deepen, but a string of six-inch casing was dropped in the hole, and after unsuccessfully fishing for it for several weeks, it was decided to abandon the plan to deepen and to try for production at the original depth again.

Mahala No. 2 was drilled to 3200 feet, but is idle at present, it is said. It is understood that negotiations are under way to lease this project. The Mahala Oil Company owns 1120 acres in this district.

To Run Oil String

The National Securities Oil Company will start running perforated casing for an oil string in its well near Orange County Park today, according to company officials. The bottom of the hole is at 5144 feet, it is said, and oil bearing formation is said to extend below 5000 feet. A perfect water shutoff was made, officials report.

In Sandy Shale

The Calwin Oil Company is drilling ahead at 4315 feet in its wildcat project at Eagle Rock, officials report. Considerable mechanical trouble delayed operations when a reamer was lost in the hole, and it was necessary to pull the casing in order to extract it, it is said. The drill is in sandy brown shale, officials report.

Receipts Increase

Receipts of the California Oil at Atlantic and Gulf coast ports for the week ending March 22, totaled 1,002,000 barrels, an increase of nearly 200,000 barrels over the preceding week which registered 811,000 barrels, according to figures of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average was 133,143 barrels against a daily average of 115,857 barrels for the week ending March 15.

Figures of the American Petroleum Institute indicate that California oil formed nearly one half the total receipts of Gulf and Atlantic ports, the total from all points of origin being 2,019,000 barrels.

Production Drops

With a decrease in daily production of 8500 barrels for the week ending March 2, California produced more than one-third of the total production of oil in the United States, according to the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute. The next largest producing State was Oklahoma with 406,850 barrels.

EXILE FALLS INTO CLUTCH OF DRY LAW

Former Political Power and Surgeon of Mexico Before Court

Dr. Ramon Puente, at one time one of the outstanding political leaders of Mexico and a noted surgeon, yesterday appeared before Police Judge Sheldon to answer to a charge of violating the Wright Act. The surgeon, who has been exiled from Mexico because of his affiliation with the Carranza regime before its downfall, pleaded not guilty. He was released on $500 bail and his trial set for the 29th inst.

Dr. Puente was arrested early yesterday morning in a raid on his home at 1232 West Thirty-Seventh Drive. The arresting officers, Patrolman Revis and Ledbetter, stated they found seventeen gallons of green Mexican alcohol and twenty-five gallons of wine in the house. With Dr. Puente here are his wife and their children.

At one time Dr. Puente is said to have held a high government position in Mexico. For many years, it was stated, he was recognized as one of Mexico's leading physicians and surgeons, his prominence bringing him into contact with the leaders of that country, many of whom he served as personal physician. He is said to have been one of Carranza's principal supporters but when the latter was killed he was forced to flee to the United States for safety.

Here's Way to End Eczema

No matter where your eczema is located—on the hands, face, scalp or body—it is now possible to obtain lasting relief without the use of greasy salves or ill-smelling lotions. Ki-La-Ga, a highly mineralized solution from the depths of the earth, has produced the most astounding results in chronic cases of eczema that would never yield to ordinary methods of treatment.

Ki-La-Ga's seemingly magic power over eczema and skin eruptions comes from the blending of eleven different minerals into a harmless, odorless liquid by a process known only to the Master Chemist—Nature. Being wonderfully soothing and healing, it can be used on the tenderest skin. Apply freely to affected parts with a soft sponge. Itching and burning usually stop right away, and within a few days' time the raw, scaly or inflamed patches should begin to heal. Ki-La-Ga can be obtained for $1 at all Owl and Sun Drug Stores and other leading druggists. The Ki-La-Ga Company, Sacramento, Cal.—[Advertisement.

QUIZ IN OIL RING CHARGE UNDER WAY

Witnesses in Asserted Fraud Involving Lease Men Are Heard

A number of witnesses were taken before Dep. Dist.-Atty. Overholser yesterday by Chief of Detectives Raymond of the District Attorney's office and his assistants who are investigating the charge that a ring of Long Beach and Los Angeles business men have received oil stock investors of more than $1,000,000 during the past year.

The suit of the Marine Trust & Savings Bank of Long Beach against Elizabeth B. Green for the recovery of $14,970 on a promissory note, in which the defense of fraud is set up by Mrs. Green, was yesterday continued by Judge Luttrell, sitting in extra session of the Superior Court, until today, to allow an amendment to the pleadings. Mrs. Green asserts that while she owes the bank $4970, the $10,000 represents a note she signed in return for two notes of the Pacific Corporation which were termed "worthless." Mrs. Green is being represented by Attorneys Richardson and Sherrer of Riverside, and the Marine Bank by Attorney Louis N. Whedlton.

Greatest Safeguard to City Against Disaster

Immediately after passing the resolution approving the report of County Engineer Reagan, upon which the proposed bond issue is based, the Supervisors ordered the printing of 10,000 copies of Reagan's report for distribution among voters upon request. Instructions were given that the type be held for publication of additional copies if required.

ONE VOTE OPPOSED

The ordinance ordering printing of the question on the primary election ballots and designing voting places will be voted tomorrow morning so that the first advertisement of the election may be published Friday.

The vote on the resolution was four "ayes" and one "no," Supervisor Bean holding out against submission of the issue in its present form. An hour's discussion preceded the vote.

"I wish to point out that the city of Los Angeles will derive the principal benefit from the flood control feature of this proposed work," Supervisor Cogswell remarked. "Seventy-five per cent of the $1,000,000 damage caused by the floods of 1914 and 1915 was borne by city interests, through destruction of streets and bridges, demolition of buildings and public service facilities, and particularly through the loss of business caused by suspension of communications. The guaranty furnished by the people of proposed construction against a repetition of such losses is worth many times over the proportionate share of cost the city will bear. The great growth of the city in the past ten years has so extended it and increased values that a similar flood now

METAL FENCE AT BORDER

Barrier From Coast to Yuma Forecast in Letter to Customs Collector from Washington

Erection of a high metal fence along the Mexican border from the Coast to Yuma is forecast in a letter from McKenzie Moss, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, to L. H. Schwaebe, collector of customs, requesting an estimate of the cost of such a fence.

The Imperial Valley border line is one in which additional means of protection may be erected in addition to the 100 miles long. Collector Schwaebe will begin a survey immediately to obtain data on which bids for construction of the fence may be based.

Secretary Moss also authorized Collector Schwaebe to receive proposals for the erection of gates at the official crossings in Calexico and Tia Juana. The collector expects to have two thirty-foot gates at each crossing, opening at the center of the crossing and folding back so as to take up the minimum of space on the side lines. He reports the gates and the fence as being necessary in enforcement of the recent 9 o'clock closing order and also as a means of preventing smuggling.

Following issuance of the closing order, Collector Schwaebe obtained data as to the mechanical means of protecting the border against illegal crossing. He submitted this data to Washington with a request that immediate action of gates and a fence be authorized. He explained to the Treasury department that the fence immediately is needed to prevent smuggling of narcotics and liquor into the United States and to prevent the theft of property.

The information as to existing protection along the border shows a fence in many places while in other parts of the line there is only a two-strand wire fence at Calexico and where a three-strand barbed-wire fence with galvanized posts protects portions of the line between the ocean and the Laguna mountains.

The recommendation of Collector Schwaebe probably will be for the erection of an eight-foot fence constructed with heavy wire netting on metal posts set in concrete. Such a fence, he thinks, could be erected at a cost of not more than $500,000.

LARGE FILM MERGER IS RUMORED

Reports State Metro and Goldwyn Plan $100,000,000 Combination

Reports circulated in authoritative circles here yesterday indicate the contemplated combination of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation and the Metro Pictures Corporation, said to involve approximately $100,000,000. The reports state that it is expected the company will release pictures under the Metro banner. This would rival in size the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Credence is given the reports on account of the fact that the resources of the two concerns dove-tail in such a manner as to make a strong union. It is pointed out that Metro, controlled by Marcus Loew, largest individual theater owner in the country, would then be able to obtain an assured stream of picture releases; that the Metro Studio has valuable land that may be disposed of and that the Goldwyn is the largest in the West. The New York offices of Loew are said to have admitted such a combination is contemplated.

At the Goldwyn offices in the East it was denied. All that is contemplated, reports from the Goldwyn offices stated, is a joint distributing corporation to handle releases of the two concerns in the leading cities.

It is understood that a merger of Goldwyn with Metro would involve the Cosmopolitan Productions and Distinctive Pictures Corporation which now have a distributing alliance with Goldwyn.

The recent visit here of Marcus Loew and a reported conference with David Warfield, actor and partner of the magnate, is said to have been in connection with the reported merger.

TERRY TAX LARGE

An inheritance tax of $14,495 will be collected from the heirs of Mrs. Louise Terry, who died here October 8, 1923, according to the local offices of State Controller Riley. Mrs. Terry left property appraised at $257,334, which will be divided among twelve relatives of Mrs. Terry's husband.

NEW DISTRICT FOR ORATORS

Roosevelt and Part-Time to Meet on Constitution

Schools Placed in Their Own Division in Contest

Many Pupils to Compete for Prizes as Speakers

With 1200 pupils engaged in writing orations for the National Oratorical Contest and more than 5000 other studying the Constitution, the interest displayed by Roosevelt High School and by the Part-Time High School of Los Angeles is so great that it has been decided to set them apart in a district by themselves, it was announced yesterday by Prof. A. E. Blanks, contest director for Southern California.

"Every pupil in the two schools has taken a live interest in the contest from the very first and in view of the large number of contestants it was thought advisable to conduct a district meet for these two institutions in which no other schools will take part," said Prof. Blanks. "The contest in which the champions of these schools will meet to decide on representatives to the group semi-final will take place at Roosevelt High and will be made a civic event in which the citizens of the sections where the institutions are located will participate. Both schools present unusual oratorical material and it is expected that the meet will prove one of the most interesting of the entire series of thirty-six district meetings."

STRONG CONTENDERS

Roosevelt High, which was opened only last September and is known as "the infant" product of the Los Angeles school system," has an enrollment of 1700 pupils and among its entrants in the oratorical contest are several outstanding personalities. Part-Time High, with an enrollment of 4600, won the honor of having one of its entrants represent its district in last year's oration contest.

Not a little interest in the contest at Roosevelt High is due to the efficient work of Miss Ruby Lewis, editor of the Rough Rider, the school's newspaper, who has devoted a large amount of space to the contest in its columns. She has carried a number of news articles and several editorials which have served to keep up the enthusiasm of her fellow-pupils.

One of the Roosevelt entrants of whom his school expects great things in the contest is Thomas Myles, colored, the son of Thomas Myles, former assistant secretary of the Interior under President Roosevelt. Young Myles, who is 17 years of age and a brilliant student, has had a remarkable career and has already distinguished himself as an orator. He first attracted attention during the war when he appeared as a speaker at Liberty Loan drives. He was a member of a party of speakers who toured the West in a special train to create interest in the third Liberty loan.

In 1923 he was sent as a delegate from California to the Boys' International League convention in Chicago, where 400,000 boys in every part of the world were represented. As a result of an address made at this meeting, Myles was chosen president of the league, in which position he presided at a world conference of boys in Geneva last year. This year he will preside at a similar gathering in Paris.

GIRL CANDIDATE

In addition to his other distinctions, Myles has won high honors as an athlete, for two years holding the city high school championship for the 220-yard dash, which he made in 22 3-10s. His oration at the coming contest will be on "The Constitution," a subject to which he has given much study.

Another interesting personality among the Roosevelt champions is Miss Regina Karasick, 15, of Russian-Jewish parentage. Miss Karasick is known as "the girl Edward Everett Hale" at Roosevelt owing to her marked ability as a speaker

FORE! MAYOR IS ON LINKS

Lack of Left-Handed Clubs and Knickerbockers No Bar to Cryer's Game, Scotch Pro Says

Mayor Cryer and his private secretary, H. H. Kinney, sallied forth to the Griffith Park municipal golf links yesterday afternoon and shot a few rounds of golf. At the close of the day's sport, the Mayor's golfing coach, Braw Bonnie (Sandy) Simpson, declared that the Mayor was a good pupil and would soon be in the class of the McGregors, McPhersons and other Scotch link celebrities.

The Mayor, it was admitted by the Boswellian Mr. Kinney, could have done much better yesterday had the Mayor been equipped with left-handed golf clubs. But the Mayor's left-handed clubs had not arrived from the factory, so he did the best he could with plain, every-day right-handed clubs.

Then, too, the Mayor had spurned the offer of President Workman of the Council to lend the Mayor the famous Workman beautiful gray flannel golf knickerbockers, and played in his business suit, and the Scotch professional agreed that had the Mayor been sartorially equipped for the game, his score would have been much lower than it was.

A few more lessons, Mr. Kinney said, and the Mayor would then be ready to challenge Boyle Workman, Councilman Allan, Assistant City Attorney Whitehead or any of the other City Hall golfers.

GLENDALE JOINS RANKS IN GREATER CITY CAMPAIGN

Enthusiasm Marks Enlistment in Industry Plan to "Keep White Spot White"

Glendale organized yesterday in the movement to "Keep the White Spot White" and every mail is bringing in membership checks to the Greater Los Angeles Association headquarters in the Hillstreet Building.

The movement is to found a manufacturing investment corporation to foment industrial activity in Southern California as the best means of stabilizing values and business and has the backing of the Chamber of Commerce and all leading business men and bankers.

WHISKERED GAGS AS GOOD AS EVER

Yesterday, as you were informed sooner or later perhaps, was April 1. All the domestic jokesters were out in full force. Gags which wore whiskers when Noah was busy with the land idea were brought out of cold storage and—worked. The "tee-hee" brothers and sisters worked overtime. Following are some of the details:

The old adage that "boys will be boys" is not necessarily limited to youngsters. Witness a trio of young men who paused on Broadway between Fifth and Sixth streets where repairs are being made to a building.

On the street directly in front of the building are a number of steel girders weighing hundreds of pounds. In the center of the girders the generous young men placed a small sign. It read: "Take One."

Ross Frank, gypsy, went in a store at 903 West Second street and offered to sell John Naccarito his fortune, say the police. He gave her $35 to "bless." She walked out. He walked after her, a little faster. She was booked at the City Jail for violation of the city ordinance against fortune telling. This is no joke.

"Man hanging in a room at 6302 Sixth avenue," said a call to the police flying squadron, at the University Station.

Rushing to the address they found a house under construction. They found a man hanging—not by his neck—but hanging paper on the wall.

Chief Telephone Operator Gardner at Central Station was reported near collapse late yesterday as a result of April Fool asserted to be Finality. The grave good-natured and decided to jot down the most popular ones. These were found to be the following:

"Is Gus there?" evidently referring to a little-used title of Chief August Vollmer.

"I am trying to get justice." These were reminded that they had the police station. Some asked for "right." Same reply.

A score said the police station number had been left for them to call. They were told they were not wanted so far.

Several hundred persons gathered at Seventh street and Broadway yesterday afternoon. No apparent reason for the crowd existed until one bystander slyly winked and pointed to a pocketbook attached to a string that lay in the middle of the street. Although everyone avoided the trap the crowd got a good deal of kick out of it and kept on waiting for someone to bite.

At Glendale yesterday, Charles B. Guthrie, vice-president of the California State Realty Federation, gave a luncheon to twenty prominent business men of that community who met at the Oakmont Country Club. Andrew Warmington, assistant to the president of the Greater Los Angeles Association, explained the idea of the movement.

This, the first meeting in the outlying districts which will make up Greater Los Angeles, was one of the most enthusiastic demonstrations conceivable. Every individual present at the luncheon filled in the application for membership in the Greater Los Angeles Association and a Glendale committee, comprised of all the guests at the luncheon, was formed under the chairmanship of Charles B. Guthrie. This committee has pledged itself to obtain 1000 members to the Greater Los Angeles Association in Glendale and has heartily indorsed the movement to create an Industrial background which will insure the unlimited growth of Greater Los Angeles.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Those comprising the Glendale committee of the Greater Los Angeles Association are: George Carr, president of the Baldwin Shirt Company; D. H. Smith, vice-president and manager of the Boulevard Branch of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank; A. R. Eastman, president of the Glendale State Bank; C. C. JULIAN OIL MAN HELD IN KILLING

Santa Ana Coroner's Jury Recommends Manslaughter Prosecution

A. A. A. Alton, a director of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, was held by a coroner's jury yesterday at Santa Ana to be responsible for the death of Mrs. Mildred Agnes Ware, 20 years of age, of Corona, which occurred in an automobile crash Saturday night near El Toro.

The verdict stated that reports of the collision between the car Alton was driving and the one in which Mrs. Ware was riding showed that Alton was driving his machine at "an excessive rate of speed" and was on the left side of the highway at the time of the crash. The jury recommended that Alton be prosecuted on a manslaughter charge.

No mention was made in the verdict of testimony of Dr. R. A. Cushman, Santa Ana physician, to the effect that examination of Alton and his three companions shortly after the accident showed they had been drinking.

Alton is in the Santa Ana Hospital recovering from injuries. He is held under $10,000 bail on a manslaughter charge. His companions, who were slightly injured, are C. N. Granger, 711 North Berendo street; J. F. Boyer, 1056 Normandie avenue; I. M. Munford, 34 Windward avenue.

The husband of the dead woman, Louis Ware, was also slightly hurt in the accident.

Reports from Santa Ana yesterday stated arrangements for the release of Alton on bail are being made and that he will probably be released as soon as he is able to leave the hospital.

Dr. Timme Arrested Under State Poison Act

Physician Denies Charge of Illegal Prescription

District Attorney Opens War on Narcotic Venders

Charges that widespread traffic in narcotics is carried on in Los Angeles under protection of the law was made yesterday by State narcotic inspectors following the arrest here of Dr. Arthur R. Timme, well-known Los Angeles physician, on the charge of violating the State Poison Act.

A grand jury investigation of the evidence uncovered by the inspectors for the State Board of Pharmacy and the narcotics detail of the police department was promised by Dist.-Atty. Keyes when the astounding charges that thousands of grains of deadly narcotics are being dispensed monthly to known addicts and suspected peddlers were laid before him.

PROMISES ACTION

"The drug traffic for profit is one of the most damnable crimes and I am going to do everything in my power to go to the very bottom of this situation," Mr. Keyes announced during the day.

Information that disabled veterans are being victimized by professional men who supply them with narcotics and liquor will be made part of the general investigation, the authorities promised.

Dr. Timme was taken into custody after a search of several hours by Inspectors Erale, Hanson and Roberts of the State Board of Pharmacy and Acting Lieutenant Littlejohn of the police narcotic detail. A warrant for his arrest was issue dby Police Judge Chambers.

CHARGES DENIED

The arrest took place in Dr. Timme's office in the Brockman Building. Scores of prescription books were seized by the officers for evidence.

Immediately after being informed of the charges against him Dr. Timme denied that he was guilt yof violating the Poison Act. He said he dispensed narcotics in good faith and that he was under the impression he was within his legal and professional rights in prescribing the drugs.

He also denied that excessive amounts of narcotics were prescribed by him and said that the case of the patient in which he was said to have prescribed forty-seven grains of morphine a day was a bona-fide case and that the address written by him on the patient's prescription was to the best of his knowledge correct.

The officers declared that large amounts of narcotics were prescribed by Dr. Timme for individuals whose addresses, written by him on the prescriptions, proved to be vacant lots.

"PARTY" REPORTED

In another instance, the officers say, they broke into a drug addict's room and discovered four addicts in the midst of a "dope party." The narcotic used carried a label, and showed it was issued under a prescription given by Dr. Timme. Under the law, the officers say, they were unable to make arrests.

"Red" Parker, said by the authorities to be a notorious peddler of narcotics, and at that time out on bail of $5000 for violation of the Harrison anti-Narcotic Act, and another well-known addict and peddler, were members of the "dope party" using the drugs obtained on a prescription, the officers say.

The other charges against Dr. Timme are that he was prescribing ninety grains a week to one man, and that another man, known to the officers only as Charles Gordon, 1545 East Chickasaw, Eagle Rock, was receiving forty-seven

The Eastman Hotel Company has purchased the Parkway Hotel at 632 South Coronado street for $200,000. The property, with a frontage of seventy feet on Coronado street, is improved with a four-story building containing ninety rooms.

At an aggregate rental of $200,000 for a fifteen-year period, Sydney W. Smith has taken over the management of the structure. E. J. Hardebeck represented all parties in the deal.

City Hall Boss Asks Chance to Tell Story

McKee, Subpoenaed, But Is Not Found

Construction Company Head Tells of Contracts

Kent K. Parrot, known about the City Hall as the political boss of the city, and Edgar McKee, former president of the harbor board, who was discharged by Mayor Cryer during the early part of the harbor investigation, will be called before the grand jury next Thursday morning. This announcement was made late yesterday afternoon by Dist.-Atty. Keyes.

A subpoena for McKee was issued yesterday afternoon, but up to a late hour last night he had not been found. Parrot, according to Mr. Keyes, is going to appear before the grand jury without subpoena. He telephoned to Mr. Keyes, according to the District Attorney, and asked to be allowed to appear before the grand jury.

INTEREST DENIED

Parrot, according to statements made by him early in the harbor expose, wants to tell the grand jury that he doesn't know anything of interest about the harbor. If he repeats his former statements he will declare that he has no interests at the harbor and has not been dealing in harbor leases. The only thing admitted by Parrot in the past was to the effect that at some time somewhere he has discussed the harbor controversy with somebody.

McKee will be asked by Mr. Keyes and Dept. Dist.-Atty. Shelley, who is assisting the District Attorney, to explain the two suits of clothes received by him from persons dealing with the Harbor Commission, his private advertising fund collected from contractors and shippers at the harbor and a number of large leases granted to private companies operating on the harbor. He also will be asked about his trip to Honolulu on the Doheny private yacht just before the Doheny interests were granted a lease at pier 1.

CYKLER QUIZZED

Yesterday morning Emil Cykler, president of the Pan-Pacific Construction Company, occupied the witness chair in the grand jury room until noon and then returned for two hours more. He is believed to have told the grand jury the story of many contracts for dredging, piling and construction work that he obtained from the Harbor Board while Mosby was president of the commission. He also is supposed to have gone into detail about the purchase of a railroad compartment for the former president of the board when he took a trip to New Orleans. From what could be learned, Cykler also was asked to explain the incorporation of his company and was asked about its asserted connection with other construction companies here.

New and definite evidence which may disclose inner workings of the asserted harbor ring is thought to be in the hands of the grand jury which has now been investigating the harbor controversy for more than a month. The impression that the grand jury had discovered something important was reached yesterday noon when Dist.-Atty. Keyes announced that instead of

RAINFALL TO CONTINUE

Showers Yesterday Added .10 Inch to Total Here; Rainmaker Hatfield Wins $8000

Unexpected showers which began falling about 8:30 p.m. yesterday added .18 of an inch of rain to the season's total in Los Angeles and dampened the earth throughout the San Joaquin Valley and in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties. At a late hour no rain had been reported from San Bernardino, Riverside or San Diego counties, but in Orange county light showers fell during the late afternoon and evening in some sections.

More rain for Southern California in general was forecast last night by Col. H. B. Hersey of the United States Weather Bureau here for the remainder of the night and today and forecasts for the San Joaquin Valley called for showers.

Yesterday's showers started out with a vengeance in Los Angeles after a day of fair weather with but a hint of rain in lowering clouds to the southwest. Close to .10 of an inch of rain fell in the first fifteen minutes of the storm but showers which descended intermittently on the city later in the evening were much lighter.

HATFIELD COLLECTS

Col. Hersey said last night that he did not expect the storm to be particularly heavy.

"Indications are that Southern California will be visited by showers during the night and today," he said, "but it is doubtful that much precipitation will be recorded. The storm in any event will be far lighter than that of last week."

Rainmaker Charles Hatfield will collect the full $8000 placed in escrow in a Lemoore bank by ranchers of Kings and Fresno counties as guarantee payment for two inches of rain to be produced by the moisture-wooer by the 15th

JOCKEY COP QUEERS IT ALL

But He Gets Horselaugh for His Pains as He Falls Into Ancient Trap and Can't Get Out

Morris Beller, adult newsboy at Eighth and Broadway, and Max Phelps, ditto, at Seventh and Spring, celebrated April 1 with the assistance of several hundred full-grown men who stood on the respective corners and yelled every time a pedestrian picked up the neatly wrapped, empty boxes that Messrs. Beller and Phelps deposited in the middle of the street.

About noon Mr. Beller desisted from his hilarity because his package was the cause of blocking the traffic and Mr. Phelps soon after came to grief by getting embroiled with the law.

The newsboys have newspaper frames on the corner and they spend the day going from one to the other and collecting the coins deposited in tin boxes according to the newspaper vending honor system.

The Seventh and Spring trap was catching a victim of the day every three or four minutes, to the great hilarity of the crowds. The box had no strings attached, but when anybody stopped to pick it up 300 voices would yell, "Boo-hay-ahhh!" and the box would be dropped as if it had been charged with 100 volts of electricity.

MEN ARE GULLIBLE

Most of the innocent ones were men, which may mean that women are wiser or perhaps less observant. But one woman finally picked up the box. The crosstown traffic was then moving which cut off the view of the boosers on the sidewalks. She walked directly to a mounted tan-uniformed policeman, who had

COUNTY DANCE LID TIGHTENED

Arrest Made in Altadena in Drive on Violations

Marcell Club Owner Said to Break Sunday Rule

Strict Enforcement of Law Promised by Keyes

In accordance with instructions of Dist.-Atty Keyes that dancing in places outside of incorporated municipalities must stop at midnight, as specified in the county ordinance, a complaint was issued yesterday charging Joe Marcell Annechini, owner of Marcell's Country Club, Altadena, with violation of the ordinance.

Annechini was arrested later by Chief Investigator Contreras and taken before a Pasadena justice, who released him on his own recognizance to appear for trial the 10th inst. The maximum penalty for the offense is $500 fine and 180 days in jail.

It was charged that on Saturday George Contreras, head of the county dry forces, and others of his squad visited the cafe and that dancing continued until after 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

It was stated that the arrest is only the beginning of a strict enforcement of the county ordinance, which prohibits dancing after midnight or on Sunday in cafes or dance halls outside the incorporated cities in the county, the jurisdiction of the District Attorney extending only to unincorporated sections of the county.

The dry squad also continued its round-up of asserted bootleggers. Mabel Merino was arrested at San Fernando, charged with possession of 800 gallons of whisky, which was destroyed. Andrew Jajick was arrested at 3203 Winter street, Belvedere, for the sale of wine. The investigators stated that they destroyed 1700 gallons of wine found on the premises. John Zilich was arrested at 3300 East Third street, Belvedere, for the sale of wine.

FLOOD CONTROL ISSUE APPROVED

would cause damages in comparison with which the losses in 1914 and 1915 would be almost insignificant."

NO EXTRA EXPENSE

"Surplus water saved by this proposed construction will be available for distribution to Los Angeles, Pasadena and in fact any other communities upon an equitable basis, application to the State water authorities," Supervisor Woodley declared. I am informed that by recent legislation, also, a charge for surplus water can be made sufficient to carry the service of bonds sold to provide conservation facilities."

"A tax of five cents per hundred dollars' valuation is now being levied for temporary flood-control work," Supervisor Cogswell added. "This is a continuous charge and will have to be kept up indefinitely, unless some permanent provision for restraining flood waters, such as this proposed construction program, is made. A levy of five cents on the hundred dollars will return sufficient revenue to carry the cost of the bonds, and thus the permanent flood-control plant will not entail any extra expense to the district, over the present total.

NOT POLITICAL MOVE

"I feel that all things considered more is to be gained than lost by submitting the issue at the present time," Supervisor Wright declared.

Supervisor Bean explained that his opposition to the proposal was based upon what he felt to be an inequitable distribution of costs and benefits as between the city and rural districts.

"I do not for a minute take any stock in irresponsible assertions that this board is putting the flood-control issue up at the May 6 primaries with any political object in view, such as endangering the success of the city water and power bond issues," he declared. "I am certain that every member of the board is voting on this matter in good faith and upon its own merits. However, I regret that the flood-control issue seems likely to cause failure of the city's power and water proposals."

NO MORE ROBBERS FOR HER

Woman Once Victim of Burglars Refuses to Let Officers and Suspect Come In

Burglars wishing to ransack the home of Mrs. Frank R. Lee, 529 North Wilson street, please do not apply at the front door. If they do they won't get in. Absolutely not!

Detective Lieutenants Barr and Hoy found that out Monday in the following manner:

With C. R. Moore, admitted thief, in charge they were touring Alhambra where Moore is asserted to have been active during his pre-jail days. While he was reported to be familiar with the inside of Alhambra's exclusive residences, his memory of exterior views, gained at night, was a trifle vague. But he was doing his best to pick them out.

"Now, that looks like one there that I visited," he told the officers again and again as they toured on. "If I could just look on the inside, I'd be sure."

With that information in hand, the usual formula was for Hoy to go to the door, introduce himself, ask if the home had been burglarized recently and finally gain admittance for Moore to clinch the argument. About fifteen homes had been visited when the prisoner thought he recognized something familiar about the general proportions of Mrs. Lee's house.

Hoy presented his six feet some odd inches at the entrance. Mrs. Lee appeared and opened the screen door about three inches. To say that she viewed the officer and his charge with suspicion and alarm was to state it mildly, the officers declared.

Hoy produced his badge and followed the usual formula. Had the place been robbed? Mrs. Lee advised him tartly that it certainly had. The door closed further. Hoy talked faster. The door closed altogether and was securely hooked. Then—

"Nora! Nora! Here's those burglars back again," Mrs. Lee shouted to someone in the rear.

Hoy, during many active years on the police department, has been called many things, but that was a new one on him. In vain did he try to explain. He and Barr held a conference. They called on Captain of Detectives Shaw of the Alhambra police department in full uniform and took him back with them. Nora, a younger woman, put in an appearance and the three officers were admitted.

The officers say, were issued them once a week or oftener and in many cases the patients did not even see the doctor.

The officers have been working on the case for more than seven weeks. The police narcotic squad co-operated with the State officials in obtaining the evidence necessary.

"We want an opportunity of taking our witnesses before the grand jury and having them tell their stories," Inspector Earle declared in discussing the situation. "We want the opportunity of telling the grand jury how the law is being violated with apparent immunity and how thousands of dollars are made monthly out of the hell-suffering of unfortunates."

Every facility of the State will be placed at the hands of the officers, Mr. Keyes said when apprised of the situation yesterday.

The grand jury, Mr. Keyes said, will be placed at the disposal of the pharmacy inspectors and the policemen, and if any conspiracy exists to evade the law, or if any illegal methods are being used and can be brought under the jurisdiction of the State laws, no efforts will be spared to convict those who are making thousands out of the misery and ruin of human beings, he declared.

grains a day. The pharmacy board inspectors say they found the address given in the Gordon prescription to be a vacant lot.

OTHER COMPLAINTS

Another cause of complaint, the officers say, is that the drugs were prescribed by Dr. Timme in cases especially prohibited by law and on insufficient and inaccurate diagnosis.

The victims of the narcotic habit and others obtaining prescriptions were charged from $2.50 to $3 for each prescription. These.

TIRE MAN IS HELD GUILTY OF FRAUDS

PARKER CONVICTED BY JURY OF GIVING IMPROPER GUARANTEES

A jury in Federal Judge McCormick's court yesterday returned a verdict of guilty against Thomas J. Parker, charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Parker will be sentenced next Saturday, it was announced.

The indictment against Parker was based on evidence from tire purchasers, who said the defendant, operating as the Los Angeles Tire and Tube Manufacturing Company on Slauson avenue made fraudulent guarantees on his products. The government's evidence at the trial went to show he had repaired second-hand tires and sold them as new tires at from $3 to $18 each on a 5000-mile guarantee.

Numerous witnesses for the defense testified they had received full satisfaction on their purchases from Parker.

Mather and John Moody on Chamber of Commerce Luncheon Program

When Stephen Tyng Mather, director of the national park service under Secretary of the Interior Work, arrives at the Biltmore today to speak at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon, his name will be longer by three letters than it was on his previous visit to this city in the interest of national parks.

The three letters were added March 22, last, by his alma mater, the University of California, in recognition of his services to the nation. The degree, which was conferred on the regular charter day of that institution, was that of LL.D. doctor of law.

Mather received his bachelor of literature degree from the University of California in 1887. He worked for five years on the New York Sun as a reporter and then became interested in the borax business on the Pacific Coast.

He was Chicago manager of the Pacific Coast Borax Company; vice-president of the Thorkilden-Mather Company and the Sterling Borax Company; president of the Brighton Chemical Company of Pennsylvania and assistant to the Secretary of the Interior from January 22, 1915 to March 22, 1917. He has been director of the national park service since May 16, 1917.

John Moody, who also will speak at today's luncheon, is head of the Moody Investment Service and is nationally known as an authority on finance and economics. His experience in financial circles extends over a period of thirty years, and his opinions and advice on investment matters are received by thousands of banks, investors and financial institutions throughout the country.

The average of the five gauges in the district from which the figure was to be determined was one and three-quarter inches at 2 p.m. yesterday. Another quarter of an inch was recorded during yesterday's storm which entitles Hatfield to the entire amount posted. Hatfield is to continue, under his contract, to flirt with the clouds until April 15, but he is to receive no additional compensation for rain over the two-inch mark.

Hatfield predicted the heaviest rain of the season would visit his district beginning yesterday. It was reported late last night that rain was falling throughout the seventy-five mile area with prospects for its continuance all night.

RAIN IN TORRENTS

Telephone messages to Hanford from Jacob Swang of Coalinga, chairman of the Hatfield committee, were to the effect that the heaviest rain of the season was falling there. This district has received the least rain of any section of the seventy-five mile area. Hatfield has been working upon, but .84 of an inch having been recorded there prior to yesterday, since Hatfield began to work. Swang said that rain was pouring down in torrents in the hills back of Coalinga where Hatfield has his plant.

NORTH IS VISITED

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Central California, from Sonoma county south to the Tehachapi, was visited by general rains today. Starting early in the morning near Santa Rosa, the precipitation extended down through the San Joaquin Valley to the organe belt of the Southland. While the interior valley got the most of the moisture, San Francisco itself received a quarter of an inch. There may be further showers tomorrow, according to Forecaster E. A. Beals.

The total rainfall in San Francisco this season is 11.57 inches compared with a normal of 19.54. During March the rainfall totaled slightly less than two inches, when normally it is 3.14 inches. As an offset to the lack of rain, last month was as pleasant a March as San Francisco has experienced in some years, there being 75 per cent sunshine, compared with a normal of 57 per cent. The temperature last month ranged from 72 deg., March 12, to 43 deg. March 24. The greatest daily range during the month was 21 deg., March 5.

Broadway Store Basement Event Has Sale Record

Sales for Monday, the first basement day, at the Broadway Department Store were greater by 20 per cent than any previous day in the basement, an announcement yesterday stated.

It is planned to conduct four basement days during 1924, officials of the store stated. These days will be special events in respect to values, it is announced.

LIFE TOO UNCERTAIN

Never Knew When Mate Would Come Home, Wife Says

Life with Tom R. Brasher was very uncertain, Mrs. Myrtle Brasher testified yesterday in Judge Summerfield's department of the Superior Court in her divorce hearing. Sometimes he would come home and sometimes he wouldn't, she said, but she never knew one day what the next would bring. Judge Summerfield continued the case for one week.

SUN DRUG SUSPECT CAUGHT

Elmer Dowdy, Bail Jumper Indicted in Connection With Cashier Hold-up, Again in Toils

Elmer Dowdy, hunted for months by the police for asserted implication in the robbery of $47,500 from a Sun Drug cashier in May, 1923, was arrested at Jacksonville, Fla., according to news dispatches from the eastern city last night.

Dowdy was arrested under the name of E. B. Donahue on a charge of violating the Harrison Narcotic Act. According to S. S. Hahn, Dowdy's attorney, Donahue is one of the aliases used by his client.

According to the Jacksonville police, Dowdy admitted to them that he was indicted for the Sun Drug robbery in Los Angeles and that he had jumped his bail of $10,000, and did not appear when his trial on the robbery charge came up last November. Dowdy is said also to have admitted to the Jackson police that he was wanted in Philadelphia at one time for aggrevated assault and battery and theft of $32,000 in jewelry.

The Sun Drug robbery was one of the most sensational crimes in the history of local police. David Anfik, cashier for the firm, was robbed of a satchel full of money which he was carrying at Eleventh and Los Angeles streets. Four bandits took the money from him at the point of guns and then fled in a car, Anfik opening fire on them, wounding one of the gan

Later Granville Blair was found in an apartment on West Twenty-seventh street with a bullet wound in the neck. He was identified as one of the bandits who held him up.

Dowdy's wife, Mrs. Blanche Dowdy, was later arrested, as was Mrs. Blair. Charges of robbery against Mrs. Dowdy were later dismissed for lack of evidence. Charges of receiving stolen goods were also dismissed in Mrs. Blair's case.

Dowdy himself was captured in a Hollywood apartment and held for trial, being released on $20,000 bail. The circumstances under which the bail was subsequently reduced to $10,000 were investigated by the grand jury when Dowdy failed to appear for trial last October. Mr. Hahn declared last night that when Mrs. Dowdy saw that her husband's bondsmen stood to lose their money she put up $10,000 in cash to save them.

Mrs. Dowdy later filed a suit for divorce from her husband, charging that he falsely accused her of association with other men and called her a "cop," a term she resented. Hearing of the divorce complaint comes up next Monday.

meeting only two days a week the jury would continue in session until Thursday night. Several hours after the first announcement was made, however, the foreman of the grand jury, who was absent when that body agreed to carry on with the investigation through the week, returned, and later a second announcement was made in which it was declared that the entire matter would go over until Thursday morning. No explanation was offered.

QUIZ NEARING END

New witnesses to be called and other evidence to be given could all be heard, according to Dist.-Atty. Keyes, in three or four days if the grand jury would continue in session. No announcement of any kind was made by the District Attorney's office regarding the asserted important evidence in the hands of the jury. Mr. Keyes stated, however, that he was well pleased with the evidence and that the jury was much "interested."

After Cykler left the grand jury room yesterday, Miss E. C. Stephan, a stenographer, was called and was asked, it is said, to explain her part as an incorporator and director in the West Basin Wharf Company, a company which attempted to obtain 3000 feet frontage in the West Basin. She testified, according to information, that she acted only as a "dummy" for some one else.

Following Miss Stephan, Col. E. H. Wilcox, engineer for the Pan-American Petroleum Company and the man who engineered the Doheny leading station and the wharf at Pier 1, told his part in the Pan-American Petroleum Company activities in the harbor district. He was followed by J. W. Bachman of the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank, who was called to explain documents which passed through his bank.

COLDEN TO TESTIFY

Thursday morning as well as Parrot and McKee, President Colden, and Commissioner Kibele of the Harbor Commission will be subpoenaed with others connected with the harbor department. The present head of the Harbor Commission and Commissioner Kibele will be asked to testify before Parrot and McKee are heard.

"It will take three to four days of testifying to complete the harbor investigation," stated Dist.-Atty. Keyes. "I believe that we have placed a large amount of important testimony before the grand jury so far. I am well pleased with the case so far and believe that we already have done much to clear up the trouble at the harbor. At this time I can say nothing regarding possible indictments."

DIVORCEE IS IN TROUBLE ONCE MORE

Mrs. Paddleford Asked About in Telegram Sent from New York

Mrs. Genevieve N. Paddleford, divorced wife of Dr. George E. Paddleford, formerly a business associate of E. L. Doheny, and by reason of her international escapades a frequent figure of newspaper notoriety, is in trouble again, local police believe.

This belief was aroused last night by a telekgraphic amfwyp night by a telegraphic request from New York police for information of any warrants for her arrest outstanding here.

The New York authorities were told she is wanted for jumping bail on a grand larceny charge and for subornation of perjury, both charges dated in May of last year.

Her present whereabouts are unknown. A dispatch on March 24, last, from Paris said she is wanted there for obtaining articles worth 60,000 lire in Venice on pretended credit on a Paris bank. At that time it was thought she was in Vienna. Some time before an unconfirmed report was received here that she had married W. H. Howels, millionaire railroad builder, in Egypt. He was said to have made her a pre-nuptial gift of $12,000,000.

For several years Mrs. Paddleford bobbed up occasionally in European courts charged with obtaining articles of clothing and money by the asserted practice of fraud. She was in jail here at one time.

FIREMEN HONOR NURSE

MOUNTED COP QUEERS IT ALL

just arrived, and handed him the box.

Now, a mounted policeman and a large package under his arm is not a dignified combination. So he started across the street to where the blue-uniformed traffic policeman was standing. The latter was familiar with the prank, which he had given his official sanction every time the trap was sprung.

Traffic was going in the wrong direction but the mounted man ploughed through, eager to get rid of his parcel. His life or at least the hide of his mount was imperiled several times. And then when he tried to get rid of the package, his colleague in blue became equestrian to the extent of giving him the horselaugh, in which the 300 gallery gods joined uproariously.

To make matters worse at that moment a motor vehicle of lowly grade sideswiped the police horse and the representative of the mounted constabularly came near resembling His Majesty the Prince of Wales in a certain particular.

All this so ruffled the police horseman that he demanded to know who had put the box in the street, which in turn so alarmed Mr. Phelps that he vanished from the scene, and while he was gone (a subsequent check disclosed) somebody took all of 32 cents out of the southeast box.

When located at Fifth and Main streets, Mr. Phelps said:

"Aw I didn't want to get in Dutch with the cops. The harness bull was wise. I never seen that jockey cop come up. The boys at the ringside queered me by givin' him the laugh. Ain't their ma's never learned 'em it's bad manners to laugh at a bull?"

WIFE ASKS ALIMONY IN LARGE SUM

Mrs. Charlotte Hayward Seeks $1000 per Month in Divorce Action

Alimony of $1000 per month is asked by Mrs. Charlotte E. Hayward in a suit filed yesterday for divorce from Frank G. Hayward.

Mrs. Hayward asserts that community property includes $370,000 worth of stocks and bonds and real estate in Hollywood, Venice and Toronto, Ont. According to the complaint, Hayward induced this agreement be set aside.

Mrs. Hayward's action for divorce is based upon a charge of cruelty. She asserts that her husband associated with a woman named as "Jane Doe Winslow," and names several dates when he is said to have met this woman at a Yucca-street address in 1922. She charged further that her husband called her names.

The Haywards were married in Toronto in 1910 and separated in June, 1923.

NOTE OF SLAIN BANDIT FOUND

Letter to Wife Avers Fear Inspired Robbery

Says Rogers Threatened to "Squeal" on Him

Dead Man Declared to Have Been in Old Hold-up

The motive which prompted Gordon D. Whicker, bandit, now dead, to take part in the robbery of the Security Trust and Savings Bank branch at Slauson and Central avenues, came to light yesterday in Whicker's own words, and inferred, the police say, his companion, Jack Rogers. Rogers was wounded in the fusillade that followed the hold-up.

In an unsealed envelope on the top tray of Whicker's wife's trunk at 1451 East Ninth street, Assistant Captain of Detectives Cahill found a note which read: "To my wife: Well Honey, if they get me you will read this. If they don't, you won't. I am broke and Jack has threatened to squeal on me if I don't help him. Sweetheart, I hope they don't get me. If they do, forget me and get yourself a good man. Your loving husband, Gordon."

OWN INDICTMENT

While in these few brief lines Whicker sought to soften the blow which might fall upon his wife, he indirectly, according to Asst. Capt. Cahill wrote out his own indictment as a bank bandit. From the words "Jack has threatened to squeal on me if I don't help him," Capt. Cahill was able to draw two conclusions; that Rogers had facts in possession which might connect Whicker up with some previous crime, and that Whicker was outlining his decision to aid Rogers in another.

With this information, Capt. Cahill went to Rogers in the prison ward of the General Hospital. After a few minutes of questioning Rogers said, "Well, he's dead now, so I guess the dope won't hurt him any." And then, according to Capt. Cahill, Rogers stated that Whicker was the lone bandit, who, on January 24, last, held up the California Bank at Fifty-seventh and Central avenue and obtained $1100. On the day previous, according to Rogers's asserted statement to the detective, Whicker had obtained the auto he used in the robbery from A. J. Sundregren of 331 Ruby avenue, Huntington Park in a hold-up in Maywood.

WIFE STILL DAZED

Unable yet to believe her husband was carrying on, unknown to her, a life of crime, Mrs. Opal Whicker, 25 years of age, widow of the bank bandit, yesterday defended the man whom she married but three weeks ago.

"I find this a terrible thing," Mrs Whicker declared yesterday at the home of J. E. Crawford, her father, 834 East Fifty-fifth street. "My husband still loved me, I knew. How he came to do such a thing, if he did, I can hardly believe it, I don't know."

The young widow last saw Whicker, she said, about 8:30 o'clock Monday morning when he took her to work at the Vernon-avenue school, where she is employed as office clerk. She has worked there since her marriage, while her husband operated a dry cleaning establishment at 1026 North Western avenue.

"My husband was worried about something, I knew," Mrs. Whicker explained. "He was not losing money but he only broke even and we were poor. Both of us worked and we lived in a small house rented only a short time ago.

"It was in this house, 1451 East Forty-ninth street, in the tray of Mrs. Whicker's trunk that detectives said yesterday they found the note addressed by Whicker to his wife.

REPUDIATES ROGERS

Mrs. Whicker repudiates the statement of Rogers that her husband had committed other robberies.

"Why that man Rogers is telling things wildly," she said. "You can easily see he's not telling the truth when he has said he is only 17 years of age. He is only a few months younger than my husband. He is 21."

Rogers came to see the Whickers once or twice a week since their marriage, the widow said Saturday. She first saw him, she declares, on the night of her wedding. Her husband and he had seemed to be friends but it never occurred to her that they were planning anything criminal, she said.

J. E. Crawford, motorman for the Los Angeles Railway Company, is the father of Mrs. Whicker. He has taken his daughter home, where she will live in the future, he said.

The body of the asserted bank bandit is at the Huntington Park Undertaking Parlors, pending funeral arrangements by Mrs. Whicker and Mrs. Fred Robinson, of 121 North Home avenue, Maywood, his mother.

STILL IN DOUBT

The question as to who fired the shot which brought death to Whicker in the three-mile chase between citizens and the two bandits was still undecided yesterday by the police. For several reasons, Captain of Detectives Homes said he believed that Whicker, after being shot in the leg by E. Woodward, a mechanic in a garage across the street from the bank, shot himself rather than be taken into custody and sent to jail. A motive for suicide, according to Capt. Homes, indirectly was expressed in the note which Whicker left to his wife.

Little light was thrown on the mystery in the result of the autopsy performed yesterday at the Huntington Park undertaking establishment by County Autopsy Surgeon Webb. Dr. Webb stated that he was not in a position to state positively the size of the bullet that caused Whicker's death. The bullet, it was stated, entered the left side of the bandit's head. Whicker's body was found in the rear seat of the abandoned auto. Rogers after forcing Snell out of the car took the wheel and was said to have fired repeatedly at his pursuers from his position in the front seat.

ASSERTED FENCE FREED

A jury in Judge Reeve's department of the Superior Court found Harry Dolfs not guilty yesterday on a charge of receiving stolen property. Dolfs had been charged with receiving the proceeds of some 100 burglaries in the Bay district.

MONTHLY STATEMENT

Less April foolishness and more August attention is what we would like from our alleged statesmen. May we get it.

FORCES OF EVIL

It is estimated that the California bootleggers are paying some $250,000 a year to the law in the shape of fines, but, as they are getting $20 for $1 worth of moonshine, they figure that they are still ahead of the game.

PATHOLOGICAL NOTE

The head of a great detective service says that there is no such disease as kleptomania. It is merely ingrowing larceny and is a habit rather than a malady. If it is a contagious disease the detectives should be able to catch it.

SOME PATRIARCH

Texas has a centenarian who has had twenty-three children. The oldest is now 83 and the youngest 14 years old. Here, indeed, is a husky and hearty old soul who has done a double portion in the matter of keeping the star of his State lustrous.

CHANGE AND AIR

The man who robbed a cash register explained to the judge that his doctor had told him the change would do him good. The judge said that might be a good joke, but, as the thief had taken his booty to Tijuana, he was carrying it too far. Hence the sixty-day restraint.

KEEPING THE PEACE

There were 537,000 votes in favor of the Bok peace-prize award and less than 76,000 against. The author may get the full $100,000 offered, but there is still no assurance of sustained peace. If we could get away from the muzzles of the rifles and muzzle the orators instead it would contribute mightily to the desired end.

DOCTORS DISAGREE

If a man were starving to death, would a couple of philanthropists quarrel whether they should give him seven bread crumbs or four and end by giving him none? The people ask and have been promised a reduction in taxes—made possible by administration economies, but may not get any cut at all because the shrunken statesmen of House and Senate cannot agree what the percentage of reduction shall be.

A MAN OF PARTS

The movement which would place Gen. Charles Gates Dawes on the Republican ticket as the running mate of Calvin Coolidge sets rather well on the American bosom. Gen. Dawes is by way of being a world figure and has risen to every occasion. The nation rather needs a statesman who can either swear or play the piano—as the situation may require. While the politicians were quarreling over their country's laws Gen. Dawes could be writing its songs, and we venture the hazard that the songs would be more worth while and endure the longer.

AMERICAN EDUCATION

The United States has one-seventeenth of the population of this blooming old world and is spending as much on education as all other countries combined. Are we getting the worth of our money? There are still a lot of children who are unable to play a coherent game of mah jongg and some of our old men are unable to master the saxophone, but, as a general proposition, we are a trained and educated nation. Nevertheless, it is now and then evident that a few of our education dollars are wasted. What is the use of spending money on some one who cannot even be taught to play an intelligent game of bridge?

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY

The Frenchmen are not disposed to make terms or extend thanks to Morgan and the American bankers for anything they have done or may do to stabilize the franc. They say that the Americans hold many millions in French securities that would be made worthless if the franc went the way of the German mark. It is simply a matter of Americans defending their own interests. This is not a very courteous way of presenting the situation. Some Frenchmen indicate a willingness to let their credit slide and meet their obligations in debased money, but there are not enough of these financial slackers to wreck the situation.

THOUGHT TRANSFERENCE

Thought transmission over the waters from Cambridge, Mass., to Cambridge, Eng., is to become a regular game. The professors are playing it and Harvard is said to have made the first goal. The Harvard scientists are said to have broadcast some of their concentrated thought to professors at Paris and an interpretation has been achieved that would seem to warrant serious consideration of the possibilities of telepathy. If there are waves to thought these waves may be mingled with ethereal waves and ultimately girdle the globe. The problem is to direct the thought to the right spot and be assured that the line is not busy.

FACTS VERSUS DREAMERS

The best that can be said in favor of the dreamers who are sending heated messages to the Cabinet officers in Washington relative to the Swing-Johnson Colorado River bill is that they do not know what they are talking about.

It would be well for them to inform themselves as to the facts before they attempt to fling out wholesale charges about "betraying the public interests, etc., etc."

Were Congress to yield to the excited and melodramatic demands made in a telegram yesterday from the Public Power League it would involve this government in a colossal public-ownership enterprise.

It would simply mean that the government would be plunged headlong into the power business and it would not stop at the Colorado River; it would inevitably result in dragging the government into the electric power business all over the United States.

No sober-minded person, possessed of even a reasonable supply of common sense, can fail to see into what mazes this would lead.

The United States government is just extricating itself from one power project. At an expense of hundreds of millions of dollars the Muscle Shoals power plant was built during the war. It has just been sold to Henry Ford at about 10 cents on the dollar.

There was some excuse for the Muscle Shoals project. It was a war measure. As such, it cannot be measured by the ordinary standards and criterions of business or government policy.

Like many other war measures, it turned out not to have been necessary; but there was no way to anticipate this fact. It can now be put down to profit and loss and canceled with other losses attendant upon the business of defeating imperial Germany.

But, when the ink is scarcely dry on the papers attending the clean-up of this terrific loss, it is amazing and incredible that any sane person could seriously recommend to the government that Congress abruptly reverse its policy and enter into another power-development scheme — a power scheme whose eventual ramifications would be an infinite multiplication of the Muscle Shoals loss.

The dreamers of the Public Power League in their impassioned messages to Congress do not seem to realize that they are trying to start the government out on a long lane filled with intricate responsibilities and proven, although hidden, dangers. It sounds very simple and, to the ears of the excited authors, it no doubt has a pleasant and impressive sound to call down the wrath of the people against the Cabinet officers who have passed upon the merits of the Swing-Johnson bill. "Betrayal of the public interests," "preference of public agencies against private agencies" has the fine, full, rolling sound of good melodrama; but shows a complete blindness to the facts.

Los Angeles needs this water and this power. It can never be a much larger city than at present without. To do anything to block its fulfillment is to throw down a blockade in the path of further progress of this city.

To make the future water and power supply of this city dependent upon a public-ownership theory that has been discarded by Congress as a terrible failure is to commit unmeasured folly.

It is time to stop, look and listen in the matter of the Colorado River project.

It is time for the infuriated telegram-writers to find out what they are talking about before they go any further.

It is also well to note, as stated in the letter of the Federal Power Commission, that Congress, in the Federal Water-Power Act, created a single executive agency for the administration of all water powers under Federal ownership or control, viz.: the Federal Power Commission, and that this body is the one now being attacked by dreamers and extreme public-ownership advocates.

SACRIFICING PUBLIC WELFARE

The City Council has ordered to be placed on the ballot for the coming election the entire $31,000,000 bond proposal asked for by the political Bureau of Power and Light. At the same time it has cut Chief Scott's fire-bond figure from $3,000,000 to $400,000 and the City Engineer's bridge-bond issue from $1,930,000 to $1,000,000.

Millions for the politicians to play with, but only a meager sum to insure the safety and protection of the people! This concession to politics at the expense of public safety was not made by the Council without protest from among its members, but it was made by a majority vote.

The Los Angeles fire department, an organization with an enviable record, must grow in proportion to the growth of the city if it is to continue adequately to protect the property of the citizens. Chief Scott's request had the merit of being a wise and practical move to protect property from fire. It was turned down or so reduced that the allotted amount will be inadequate.

The crashing of an obsolete bridge with loss of life is still fresh in the memory of the people of Los Angeles. Its fall was followed by an indignant demand for an investigation and for adequate measures to insure safety by replacing other decadent and unsafe bridges. The City Engineer has conducted a survey of the situation and says it will take $1,930,000 to rebuild old bridges. The City Council has decided that half that sum will be enough. It has failed to support the full program of bridge safety.

The proposed $21,000,000 power-bond issue is a scheme of the political Bureau of Power and Light. It is a political measure, not a safety measure to protect the people and their property. But politics is in the saddle. Safety is given second place so far as a majority of the City Council is concerned.

The will of all the people who favor fire and bridge bonds has been thwarted. They are prevented from voting on the proposition as advanced by the fire chief and City Engineer of Los Angeles. But they will have an opportunity to voice their protests on May 6 by voting against the $21,000,000 power-bond proposal placed on the ballot at the behest of politicians.

California Socialists have named most of their delegates to the national convention of their party. They are to vote for their seasoned spokesman, Eugene Debs, who has been a Presidential candidate four or five times, but has never been able to make anything more impressive than a Federal prison. Eugene aspires only to hold the world's record as the leader of a lost cause.

TAKING THE BUS

The motor bus could not substitute for the street car at Akron. It had a practical monopoly of the highways of the rubber city for a full month and was given every chance. But it could not meet the situation. The people experienced a change of heart and called for a return of their street cars. The busses caused more congestion of traffic, more tangles and embarrassments and more accidents than was ever the experience with the regular street cars. The motor bus and the street car are not competitors, but allies and associates. The motor should be a feeder for the cars. On thin outside lines or for connections the busses have a definite value, but for major service in the transportation of a city's teeming thousands of industrial or other workers the busses can hardly be made competent or adequate.

HEAD-HUNTERS REBUKED

Government by terrorism received its first rebuff in the Senate on Monday when the McKeller resolution, intended to hound Secretary Mellon out of office, was laid on the table. The political head-hunters started with their usual hue and cry after the Secretary of the Treasury. But, instead of turning to flee, the quarry stood fast. The defense made by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania was so savage a counter-thrust that the baying hounds of the coalition began to whine. They deserted McKeller cold, sitting mute at their desks while the administration forces voted to place the resolution "on the calendar."

That vote is tantamount to total rejection; for it can be called from the calendar again only by unanimous consent of the Senate. At the same session a resolution demanding the resignation of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt was denounced by Senator Wadsworth of New York and was held for "further consideration."

The leaders of the coalition had expected to find the administration forces demoralised by the removal of the Attorney-General. They found, to their dismay, that the Republicans had only cleared the decks for action.

Perhaps the most encouraging part of the whole proceedings for the country at large was the appearance of a division in the coalition forces. A group of Democrats who have been but lukewarm in the mud-slinging attack to date held a caucus and agreed that they would take no part in the attack on Secretary Mellon, unless unimpeachable evidence could be produced that he had in some way violated his oath of office.

Senator Reed's speech was a complete vindication of the Secretary of the Treasury. It was a triumph for the administration, proving the extreme care that former President Harding exercised in selecting a head for the Treasury Department and the personal sacrifices that Mr. Mellon made in order to serve his country in a time of crisis.

Here are some of the things that, according to Senator Reed, Mr. Mellon did before he accepted the appointment:

He was one of the largest holders in the Union Trust Company of Pittsburg, in the Fidelity and Trust and the National Bank of Commerce. He sold out every share. He was president and director of the Mellon National Bank, one of the largest in Pittsburg. He surrendered and sold every share. He was a director of many corporations. He resigned every directorship and every office. He even asked whether he might retain membership in hospital and university boards.

Few men have made such sacrifices in order to serve their country; and they were not made with brass bands. The country would never have known of them if the McKellar resolution had not been introduced.

And the country will not be unappreciative. The coalition of head-hunters in the Senate are thirsting for political victory. They seek to discredit by any means the Republican administration. But the people of the United States are thirsting for justice. They will not sit supinely by while the methods of the French Reign of Terror are applied to the American Congress.

One incident during the discussion disclosed the mental caliber of at least one of those leading the man hunt. Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor member from Minnesota, interrupted Senator Reed to ask, "Has Mr. Mellon resigned as stockholder in all corporations?"

And the Senator from Pennsylvania replied patiently, "You cannot resign as a stockholder."

THE SAGE OF CALABASAS

It takes all kinds of people to make a world, including those who criticise business men for joining luncheon clubs.

If the critics get enjoyment out of it, let 'em criticise. If business men get a kick out of luncheon clubs, let 'em go to it.

Some of the luncheon clubs have pretty high-down aims and probably do not accomplish much, but who does?

The worst skinning the writer ever got in a business deal was from a prominent member of a luncheon club which has a very fancy code of ethics. But it's better to have a code of ethics and not live up to it than not to have one, and maybe some of the members do live up to it.

It is rather amusing to see on the program of one such club, "Music furnished by So-and-So, certified public accountants." It was still more amusing to note that the music was the kind of music one would expect a firm of certified public accountants to furnish. But the club members appeared to enjoy it, which, after all, was the main thing.

And the "Joe" and "Jack" and "Harry" stuff doesn't do any actual harm. Nor do the "uplift" activities do any more harm than anybody else's "uplift" activities.

It's probably true that philanthropy does more good to the philanthropist than to any of those he seeks to aid, in the majority of cases. But, then, nobody can tell in advance how any human experiment is going to turn out.

Trial and error remain the only method by which progress has ever been made.

RIPPLING RHYMES

WANTING TO SELL

I owned a little vacant lot, whereon bull-thistles grew; upon some future day, I thought, I'd build a shack or two, and there my trusty lyre I'd swat until the air was blue. And every day or two some guy would come to me and say, "Ods bodikins, I'd like to buy your little stretch of clay, for I would build a warehouse high, in which to store my hay." And keen contractors came around and begged to buy that land; they wished to build a village pound, a church or peanut stand; I never saw a plot of ground that was in such demand. And men who dealt in real estate were ever on my trail; they wanted it, they couldn't wait, that plot of ground to nail; they chased me to my garden gate and brandished rolls of kale. At last I suffered a reverse that left me busted flat; there were no kopecks in my purse that once was large and fat; the building schemes I used to nurse were gone and that was that. I said, "I'll sell that vacant lot and get some needed kale; the bidding surely will be hot when it's announced for sale, and to the auction there will trot all dwellers in this vale." But when at last I wished to sell no voter wished to buy; the auctioneer, he rang his bell and not a soul came nigh; oh, what philosopher can tell the world the reason why? WALT MASON.

HIGH BROWS---AND DRAMA

BY CHARLES WHITAKER

[Those who have hope for the American drama have their attention centered upon the Writers' Club of Hollywood. The little one-act plays given each month at this interesting clubhouse offer the best chance for original genius or unrecognized genius of any avenue now open to writers anywhere in the world. Here the deadly incubus of the box office has no strangle hold. Charles Whitaker, the author of this article, is a journalist and dramatist of distinction and is a leader in this Writers' Club movement.—Ed. Times.]

Nobody likes reading plays; everybody likes seeing plays. There, in a nutshell, is the heaviest labor of any set of people who, like the Dramatic Committee of the Writers' Club, are attempting to interest a community in what is usually known as the Little Theater Movement; and also one of the reasons for the striking success of the Dramatic Nights which the club gives each month.

As a member of that committee I hope I shall not be accused of unrighteous vainglory if I say that there is more hope for the little-theater movement in our playroom in Hollywood than anywhere else in the world.

With a bow to the editor of The Times to thank him for his invitation to tell his readers something of our aims and objects, let me quote a sentence from the printed program of the plays given by us last Friday and Saturday:

"It would be commercially impossible for any theater to put on a program with the array of talent represented by the cast of players appearing in the Writers' Playroom tonight."

There were five plays, in which twenty-nine people took part and of whom only two were amateurs. The twenty-seven others were stars; featured players known throughout the world by reason of their extraordinary popularity on stage and screen.

Nowhere else but in Hollywood would it be possible to get Enid Bennett, Niles Welch, Harold Howard, Crawford Kent and William Norris in a frothy little twenty-minute costume comedy.

In no theater in the world could an audience see William Farnum opening a bill with the amazingly gripping and superbly acted "Ten Minutes," a perfect gem that made everybody cry. On no other stage is it likely that in the thriller I adapted with which the bill closed would there be, in a cast of eight artists, a Dane, an Englishman, a Frenchman and two Italians, all artists of ripe experience.

In the last two or three weeks in which the committee has worked so strenuously to prepare for the dramatic nights of last week there has been no time to stand back and get a complete perspective on the integral worth of the plays, players and directors.

But now that the curtain has rung down I personally feel like a man awakening the morning after receiving an enormous legacy, when I think of our great fortune in having had the services of directors; of Fred Butler, with his wide knowledge of the American public, of my old friend Emil Chanbard, probably the most distinguished figure in theatrical circles in America today (he created the part of Napoleon in Sardou's "Madame Sans-Gene" and was Madame Rejane's leading man for fifteen years;) of Fred Niblo, whose direction of his charming wife, Enid Bennett, it was a joy to watch, and of Wallace Worsley, the director of that great picture, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

I feel I can never be sufficiently thankful for the pleasure and privilege of being associated with these great directors in the production of the plays last week. To have men of this caliber staging five plays on one bill could occur nowhere else but in Hollywood.

We have, therefore, so far as acting and directing are concerned, the talent of the world in our little parish. The artists who place themselves so frequently at our disposal, giving their services gratuitously, are obviously impelled by no mercenary motives. Nor are they climbers, anxious to show themselves off. Nor are they actuated by any sense of loyalty to the Writers' Club in consenting to appear in any playroom. They are animated by the love of their art and the most propulsive force in the world.

I feel confident that, with this talent and this enthusiasm at our disposal, there is no question of the continued and increasing success of our dramatic nights.

That fascinating outlook makes the responsibilities of the Dramatic Committee still heavier; for it is now by the selection of the material for future dramatic nights that we shall stand or fall. Of one thing our patrons can be absolutely certain: that neither sentimental nor political motives are involved when it comes to selecting a program and casting the plays. Nor is the committee anxious to do any personal strutting or displaying of its wares.

In a committee of twelve, of whom three are playwrights and two are directors—and of whom two belong to the gentler sex—there is a judicial detachment in the selection of material so austere that up to now the committee has rejected everything written by its own members. I call that a triumph in impartiality if there ever was one. I personally deplored their lack of appreciation when they turned down an excellent one-act play of mine(!) and I have no doubt that Thompson Buchanan felt a similar emotion when one of his works was rejected. But in a world of drama that begins with the wagon of Thespis in B.C. 535 and places its hardly-dried manuscripts in our hands today there is an abundant choice of material outside the work of the members of the Dramatic Committee of the Writers' Club.

There are quite a number of difficulties which continually confront us. What we endeavor to select is a robust and varied bill of one-act plays. Let me say that there is an enormous difference, which is not always appreciated by writers, between a one-act play and a vaudeville sketch, and that we are confining ourselves to the former category, in which there are as many varieties as those enumerated by Polonius to Hamlet.

Emphatically the job of stimulating the little-theater movement is no sinecure. Nor is it a job for the amateur to tackle. I hope to see more work produced written by our own Hollywood authors. It delighted me to find that the little fantasy written by Miss Frances Marion, "Say It with Flowers," was such a success.

We may even discover some new American dramatist who, in his later and more prosperous years may be able to thank the Writers' Club for giving him his first public presentation—at least I hope so.

Generally, we shall endeavor to stimulate the little-theater movement in the only way that the movement can be stimulated—to the production of modern plays with a modern outlook on life, a relief and a contest, and if we obtain the requisite popular support, we may even revive many very old plays that have never been produced on this side of the Rocky Mountains. Nor is it senseless where music plays an essential part excluded from an auditorium always keeping in mind the limitations of our tiny platform. There are good vocalists in great numbers in Hollywood, who have entered into motion pictures from the realms of opera and musical comedy. There isn't a man, woman or child who wouldn't walk miles to see Ernest Torrence at his old profession as a comedian in musical comedy.

All this can be done in Hollywood, nowhere but in Hollywood. It is a task that I, as one of the committee, approach with a certain amount of pious awe. We can pick the finest little play in the world, we may cast it ideally—and then, two days before production the leading man may have to desert us because he has to go on location in a picture to some impossible place. Then comes the scramble for somebody else to play the part and the reshaping of rehearsals and the general clash of nerves and chaos on the last day without which no curtain has ever been known to ring up on any production.

I repeat: There is a wealth of theatrical talent in our little parish of Hollywood that exists nowhere else in the world.

Wouldn't it be wonderful to see a play staged by Ernest Lubitsch or Victor Seastrom or Maurice Tourneur—all of them well-known European directors living in our midst—or see a little drama, with a modern, very intense, in which Pola Negri or Alla Nazimova played the leading part? And in revivals, how about "A Night in an English Music Hall," with Charlie Chaplin in his original part? Or Syd Chaplin in "The Sanatorium"?

I don't say that our patrons will ever see any of these existing subjects or persons on our little platform in the club; but they are all here, living next door, and perhaps one or the other of these dreams will come true.

The wiseacres and the tepid pundits may sneer at my belief that Hollywood as a center for a new impetus in the art of the theater is denouncing it as so much hot Babbitry. But let me remind them of a curious historical fact: the theater has invariably been the favorite expression of art for rapidly growing, restless communities. It was so in vigorous old Greece; it derived a new impulse in old Rome at a time when that noble city was bedevilled with real-estate developers, skyscrapers and the high cost of living (need I say I refer to the age of the Caesars?) and after 1000 years of suppression by the reformers it burst into a splendid renaissance in the mad, restless, springing England of Tudor times. The arts of painting, sculpture, poetry and music are the expressions of countries which have arrived to a condition of stability that begets the contemplative outlook so necessary for the pursuit and practice of these arts; but the theater, let us be thankful, has always flourished in places where fortunes were made overnight and where expansion was at fever pitch. It seems to me that in these special particulars Hollywood approximates to the countries I have mentioned as being the forcing beds of the theater, and so long as any part of the world refuses to be contemplative, so long will there be hope for an institution such as the Writers' Club to play as worthy a part in the encouragement of the art of all arts as did the Globe and the Black friars theaters when they gave their eternal testimonial to the world 430 years ago.

Mirth and Song Mingle in KHJ Entertainment

CADMAN WORKS THRILL HEARERS

Trio, Soprano and Fairy People Heard

The ears of Radioland, which had been burning with excitement for days in anticipation of hearing a composer of international repute, left their head sets last night when KHJ signed off pleased beyond measure but regretting the unusual brevity of the program. California's own and America's famous composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman, through the courtesy of the Fitzgerald Music Company, came, saw and conquered Radioland. Displaying the marvelous understanding that has made him one of the foremost figures in the musical world Mr. Cadman rendered a program that ranged from his old Indian favorites through Persian melodies to the songs of Hollywood.

Another illustration of his artistic taste was afforded by the fine musicians supporting him. In his first number, "Andante from the Trio in D Major," the delightful Sol Cohen accompanied Cadman with his sweet-toned violin and deeper mellow tones of the 'cello were excellently furnished by Robert Alter. By special request, Cadman next presented several of his works which included "Memories" with violin obbligato by Sol Cohen.

NEW NUMBERS

This precipitated a deluge of telephone suggestions for encores, home of which were given, but as Cadman has two suites of new numbers to surprise his hearers with, the greater portion of these requests gave way to the next group of songs dedicated to Margaret Messer Morris. Feeling the honor bestowed upon her, Miss Morris sent her soprano voice to delectable heights. The realism of interpretation by composer and singer in "Whispers of the Night" and "The Caravan" cast a spell of the mystic, Far-Eastern moonlight nights in the shadows of towering pyramids, while the sparkling sands lazily shifted to the urge of gentle desert breezes.

An unexpected but delicious touch was given to the concert by his following trio numbers, with Sol Cohen producing the violin additions and Robert Alter drawing exquisite notes from his 'cello. This trio was named the "Hollywood Suite" and was dedicated to three well known personages of that city. The first selection, "Easter Dawn in Hollywood Bowl," was inspired by the devotion to the project Mrs. Carter had displayed. "June of the Boulevard" was inspired by and deicated to Mary Pickford. The third and last number of this group, "To a Comedian," was inspired by Charlie Chaplin and dedicated to him.

THREE ASSIST

Margaret Messer Morris concluded this program by singing Cadman's "Robin Woman" and "Amy's Song" in a manner that pointed to appreciation of the composer's spirit. Sol Cohen and Robert Alter uphgld the standards of Mr. Cadman with their violin and 'cello, respectively.

Through the courtesy of H. L. Crockett of Highland Park, another entertaining trio was presented, consisting of Lute Crockett, whose baritone voice is always greeted with acclaim by KHJ listeners, N. W. Devereux, pianist, who has earned the warm regard of Radioland for his artistic arrangement and presentation of the matinee musicales held at KHJ throughout the entire month of March, and M. Paul Jones, whose banjo picked a rose-strewn path for him through Radioland. Accompanied by Mr. Devereux, Lute Crockett rendered several baritone solos, which were followed by a piano selection by N. W. Devereux.

BANJOIST PLEASES

With the touch that made him one of the leading mandolin and banjo artists of Chicago for twenty-five years, Salvatore Tomaso, accompanied by his daughter, Elaine Tomaso, offered four numbers, three of which were his own compositions.

Completing one of the most interesting programs sent into the air from KHJ, Tom Deering emitted a number of musical moans and sobs from his well trained saxophone. Tom has been here before and his playing was greeted with the usual hearty response.

The matinee program ushered in a series of afternoon musicales which will be presented throughout the entire month of April by Barker Brothers under the able direction of Claire Forbes Crane, the well-known composer-pianist. The enviable reputation of this progressive organization assures the inhabitants of Radioland of refined offerings and, if yesterday's program is to be accepted as a criterion, many innovations.

Selecting four of the foremost feminine characters made famous in opera, Claire Forbes briefly outlined their lives and pointed to the fact their emotions were of the every-day variety. Following each thumb-nail review, Melba French Barr with a soprano voice that was crystalline clear sang the aria of the character. The richness and flexibility of her voice enabled Miss Barr to enter each role with ease and perform with a realism that brought the character to life.

Many of the secrets of Fairyland were disclosed last evening during the children's hour, when Uncle John conducted by Queen Titania and the Sandman, took Radioland through the amusement park of the Fairies. After viewing with awe many of the park's beautiful sights such as the Fairy-go-round, Butterfly Coaster, the Fairy Art Gallery, the House of Reflection and the Fairy Wheel, they left on the Thistledown Express and arrived at the "Rainbow Bridge."

SANDMAN TALKS

The Sandman told the history of the "Rainbow Bridge," which is in reality a rainbow of gladness and its steps constructed of good deeds. As they reached the top of the bridge they discovered the Moonbeam on which the Queen and the Sandman slid into the studio recently. Uncle John, wishing to return the same way, they all climbed aboard and speedily arrived at KHJ, passing the Dog Star and the North Wind on the way.

A special musical setting for the trip to fairyland was arranged by Claire Forbes Crane, concert pianist and composer. And it made a wonderful background of fairy music.

Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog, who had undoubtedly been missed during his absence of two days, returned with another interesting chapter of American history. H. G. Noble with harmonica and Mrs. L. Noble with her ukulele filled the studio with sweeter harmonies than are usually heard from the midgets of the instrumental family.

DANCE ORCHESTRA

Quick lunch from a musical range was served at noon by the White's Californians. This dance orchestra, composed of Steve White, leader and cornet; Nicholas Ochoa, piano; Lloyd Crews, saxophone; I. A. Bunce, trombone; Van Rep Stevenson, banjo; Frank Veva, drums, and Bert Colima, banjo, hurried all the folks at home through their midday duties in rhythm to their jazz melodies and then compelled them to roll up the rugs and release the energy that this orchestra generates in its hearers. Everybody must have enjoyed it, for the telephone continued its merry tingle for encores until the boys had to call a halt.

H. D. Pottenger, president of the Long Beach Boulevard Association, Lynwood, extended an invitation to the public to be present in Lynwood at the formal dedication of the first unit of the new highway between Los Angeles and Long Beach.

Easter Finery

"THE Imponderables" is the name the French give to the many little "weightless things" that mean so much to the tailored suit of the season. There is a fascinating variety of cut, color and fabric in the waistcoats of moire, alpaca and pique, the collarless overblouses of dimity or satin, the scarves of crepe or knitted silk, tied stock fashion under the chin. Several sets of Accessories give as many different costume effects to a single suit. Under-arm bags, cuffed gauntlets, monogrammed ties, gay printed handkerchiefs to float from the pocket, will help to carry out many color schemes.

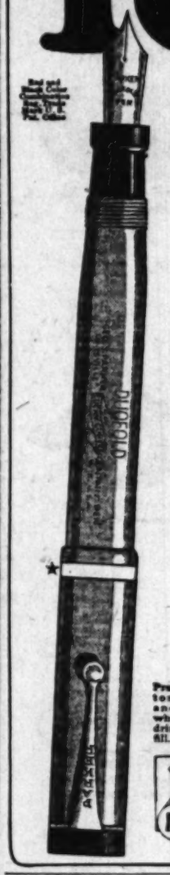
Sales Exceeding 100,000 Pens a Month

Permit Us to Give This $10 Value for $7

25-Year Point—Over-size Ink Barrel

Gold Pocket-clip or Gold Ring-end
Included: $1 Gold ★Girdle Now Free, Too



YES, the world has demanded the Parker classics at more than 100,000 pens a month since 1922. And our rise to leadership has inspired the whole Parker organization to supreme endeavor. Several Parker craftsmen have received cash awards for creating important improvements.

For one thing: the New Gold ★Girdle is sunk in the Duofold cap by an operation which makes a smooth, snug fit and saves much work. For another: thousands of dollars in gold dust are reclaimed from factory sweepings, and from washings from employes' clothes.

Were it not for these, and even greater economies made through large output, Over-size Duofold would have to sell for $10 instead of $7, and Duofold Jr. and Lady Duofold for nearly $7 instead of $5. For we pay $2340 a pound for the Duofold's Iridium tip, when we could buy ordinary point tips for a third of this.

This Iridium-tipped gold point is guaranteed 25 years for mechanical perfection and wear. It's as smooth as a polished jewel—it suits all hands—it needs no "breaking in"—no style of writing can distort it—hence a pen you can lend with an air of noblesse oblige—not fear.

Parker Duofold's black-tipped lacquer-red color makes this pen handsome to own and hard to mislay. See it and try it at the first pen counter—get a taste of the new inspiration Geo. S. Parker has put into every-day writing. It will gear up your work to your full capacity.

CONVENTION HAS LOVELY SETTING

Charm and Interest Found in Glendale Club

Healthy Condition Shown in Election Contest

Miss Schwed Urges Fight on Radicals in State

BY MYRA NYE

Charm out of the beaten path of a club editor was found yesterday—yes, and interest—to more than the usual degree, in the beautiful clubhouse of the Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale.

This, the setting for the district convention next week, the conference that always rivals even that of the State in importance and local interest, is a fit one for the event and the club members are making careful and elaborate preparations for the guests coming to their hearthstone for three days.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, the president of the club, presided at all the sessions of the day and it was noteworthy how much pleasure a retiring president may give. She has no ax to grind. She is at ease and she is at home—all of which contributes to delight.

SURPRISE SPRUNG

To the surprise and pleasure of the club of nearly 1000 member she announced that last week $5000 was paid on the principal of the note for building of the clubhouse which was completed at a cost of $120,000, a little more than a year ago, the greatest achievement of Mrs. Campbell's regime.

A truly delightful contest for officers was announced by the chairman of the election board. There were five friendly contestants for the office of president, and many for all other offices. The ticket of those nominees who have accepted is as follows, with election to take place the 22nd inst.:

President: Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and Mrs. W. E. Evans; first vice-president, Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., Mrs. Warren Roberts and Mrs. C. W. Putnam; second vice-president, Mrs. Homer Lockwood and Mrs. E. S. McKee; recording secretary, Mrs. Chester Kling; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. C. Wilcox and Mrs. Harry Lockwood; treasurer, Mrs. A. A. Chappell and Mrs. H. C. Vanderwater; directors, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocher, Mrs. K. W. Gilliland, Mrs. Stephen C. Packer, Mrs. Roy Ballagh and Mrs. C. A. Brandstater.

If the contest in election is an index of healthy condition of a club, as experts in club circles say then the Tuesday Afternoon Club is 100 per cent fit.

ATTACKS RADICALS

Speaking for the last time in Southern California before her departure for Washington, Miss Hermione Schwed, field secretary for the National Association for Constitutional Government, took for her subject, "Playing With Fire."

She made a straight-from-the-shoulder defense of the Better America Federation, which she represents here. Before she knew anything about it personally, she said, she saw in a Boston newspaper where she lived an attack upon this association by certain dangerous radical elements. From that time on she was sure she could trust this organization, and facts, she said, have borne out this belief in spite of subsequent attacks upon it and upon her for defending it. It is the only one working against the repeal of the criminal-syndicalism law and is one of the strong bulwarks against the onslaughts of the dangerous "Reds." She quoted from the organ of the the Workers' Council, which urged the readers of the paper to "organize in a body to overthrow the present autocratic rule in the United States, to pledge themselves to aid in the establishment here of a Socialistic soviet," and declared the necessity for a "dictatorship of the proletariat," almost in the same paragraph. Miss Schwed mentioned as enemies here in California of protectors of the Constitution Miss Anne Godfrey, Upton Sinclair, Mrs. Sailor, Assemblywoman, and Prof. Batten, all of whom, she said, had made attacks upon her in public and upon the Better America Federation.

TELLS OF WORK

"The only power in this State that will save California from the fate of North Dakota is the Better America Federation. Let me tell you, there is a terrible fire ablaze around the world. It is a fire that will tear down our government. Help us to build a back fire of intelligent patriotism to fight it," she said in conclusion.

Miss Schwed said that of all the clubs she had visited the Glendale one was the only one which had a department to study the Constitution.

Mrs. H. W. Wellington told of the work of disabled veterans at the California Hut on Figueroa street, which she directs. She announced the exhibit of veterans' work at the convention next Wednesday, and Mrs. Campbell told of the purchase of a painting of great beauty by John R. Cotton, who lives in Glendale and whose wife is an active member of the club. The picture is a view of San Jacinto from the desert near Palm Springs. Mrs. Roy Ballagh is curator of the art section.

Ethel Elliot Swan appeared on the afternoon program, giving a recital, "Mistress Phonio."

Woman's Club of Hollywood

"Education" as the subject for the luncheon talks of the Woman's Club of Hollywood Friday of this week includes interesting local phases. Miss Bertha Green, vice-principal of girls at Hollywood High School, and chairman of education for the club, will preside. Helen S. Watson, assistant superintendent of the city schools, will speak on "Progressive Movements in Education," and Dr. William H. Snyder, principal of the Hollywood High School, will take for his subject "The High School and the Community." Music will be given.

In addition to this civic program on education, beginning at 9:15 a.m., during the successive hours, excluding luncheon, the following sections will conduct meetings: Spanish, choral, Shakespeare, reading "Coriolanus," with Mrs. Lucy Blake Conklin and Mrs. Robert Fargo. At 2 p.m. the English section will receive class criticisms of stories developed from character sketches previously submitted. Miss Pearl Whitmore will read and lead in the discussion of "An Unfinished Story," by O. Henry.

"To judge current events, rapidly moving events that won't stand to be analyzed—we need more than the ability to see—we need a philosophical and historic point of view. We need the vision of the American frontiersman—that vision which penetrates the present and sees through it to the enormous possibilities of the future," said Dr. Samuel McChord Crothers in his address before the club on "The Advancing Frontier of Morals."

Dr. Crothers declined to say whether he thought the world was getting better or worse. He felt encouraged, he said, when he spoke with his neighbors or his fellow-travelers, when he attended religious meetings, or when he read serious books. He felt infinitely discouraged, however, when he read so-called "light literature."

"The people in these books," he said, "are irredeemably commonplace. The American small town is pictured as a disease, and the large city as a complication of diseases."

Dr. Crothers said these writers are imitating a type of literary expression that is not characteristic of the present time. They do not know that the same kind of people are always at the frontier—pushing forward to new power and to new possibilities of achievement. They are the Jonahs, never to be admired or followed, who see the confusion without seeing the order that emerges from it. They are those from whom Thomas Fuller prayed to be delivered when he said, "Lord save us from the sedentary seers."

The following women have been elected to serve as delegates from the Woman's Club of Hollywood to the district convention in Glendale on April 8, 9 and 10: Mmes. E. C. Oates, George Eckart, Charles Connard, Eglantine R. Baier, Caroline Owen, Lorin B. Curtis, E. L. Brigham, Ralph Buckman, R. L. Cowper, Maud Davis Baker, Richard Russell, E. F. Bodle and Miss Edith Andrews.

Working for Biennial

"Know your own city" is the slogan of Mrs. Irwin R. Hall and the club women who are serving with her in the work of preparing for the biennial convention in June. Mrs. Hall is chairman of the local directory, which will have two of the busiest headquarters during the ten red-letter days of the biennial.

In the lobby of the auditorium and in a conspicuous location in the Biltmore Mrs. Hall will establish members of her committee who are now undergoing intensive clerical training which will enable them to register names, home addresses, convention addresses and club affiliations with rapidity.

Mrs. Hall has demonstrated her executive ability in various club offices. She has served as secretary-treasurer, financial secretary and parliamentarian of the Ebell Club of Long Beach, and was president of the Long Beach Women's City Club during the year in which the United States was in the World War. As a charter member of the Red Cross she rendered remarkable aid, for she took charge of the garment section, in which she did all the cutting for a long period. She was also vice-chairman of the Woman's Council of Defense. Mrs. Hall is a vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce and is identified with many civic activities.

Program Sponsored

A special program sponsored by the membership of the Young Women's Christian Association will be given at the Ebell Club Wednesday evening. There will be a whistling chorus of thirty under the direction of Miss Woodward. They will give the "Song of the Robin," "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," and others. The "Sunflower Dance" will be given by a whistling trio, consisting of Miss Livonia Somes, Miss Dorothy Edonart and Miss Helen Snelling. Miss Elza Matthews will sing "Pale Moon," "Goin' Home," and other songs. A one-act play, "Fleurette and Company," will be given by

BAD LUCK TRIPS STILL OWNER

Dry Agents are Favored by Fortune in Arrest of Two Men

"Lady Luck" played on the side of Federal dry agents yesterday with the result that Charles Goldstein and Joseph Friedman, 113 North Breed street, are in the County Jail on a charge of violating the Volstead Act. The Federal officers reported they seized a fifty-gallon still when they arrested the two defendants.

According to the agents, they were walking down an alley while watching another place where they expected to make an arrest, heard suspicious sounds, when from a garage. They peered through a partly open door, they said, and discovered Goldstein and Friedman just setting up the still, evidently in preparation for bootlegging operations.

FINDS CHILD LABOR TALE UNFOUNDED

State Official Back from Investigation in Imperial Valley

Reports that a serious child labor situation exists in the beet fields of Imperial Valley are entirely unfounded, according to a statement made by State Labor Commissioner Walter G. Matheson yesterday, following his return from an inspection tour of the valley.

Mr. Matthewson said that at the present time there are no children working in the fields, and that provision has been established in the [illegible] so that the laws will be strictly adhered to in the future.

Word has come to him, the commissioner said, that large numbers of families are migrating about the State and allowing their children to work in the fields without attending school. No indications of this are present in the valley, he said, but authorities there have been advised of the reports and are ready to cope with the situation should it arise.

Commissioner Matheson was accompanied on his tour by [illegible] Louis Bloch, statistician and investigator for the department. Within the next two weeks he plan to visit the asparagus fields.

In regard to employment conditions throughout the State the commissioner declared that, while approximately 10,000 fewer placements have been made by the labor agencies so far this year, it is his belief that the situation will be bettered soon. He said that the situation has been somewhat relieved already on account of the recent rains.

Give Your Pores Their Early Childhood Fineness

What a beautiful skin a child has. How soft. How smooth. How clear. How fine. Ah! If one could but stay young! What new pages would be written in world history. For beauty actuates the world.

In the charming skin of a child lies the real secret of a beautiful complexion. And the reason is so self-evident that it is a wonder it has been a secret so long.

All In the Size of the Pores

As the years pass the pores increase in size. In place of the once smooth satin-finish comes a coarsened, roughened skin texture. Dirt and other foreign matter work into the pores, distending them still further, choking them so that the skin becomes sallow and muddy because the pores have ceased to perform their natural functions.

Discovered at Last

The way to natural beauty, therefore, is by way of the pores. Keep them young, and beauty will then take care of itself.

This simple truth, but a most important one, has been sought for ages by beauty specialists the world over. Now the truth stands revealed, and with it a marvelous cream, the discovery of Vivaudou of Paris, which gives to pores their early childhood fineness, soothing and smoothing the skin, making it firm and vigorous, while gently stimulating the circulation so essential to natural beauty.

Solves a Problem

Vivaudou's new Astringent Cream comes as a happy answer to a vexing question. It beautifies by bringing Nature to its aid. It acts by gently contracting the pores without interfering with their functions, thus obviating unsightly blackheads while imparting to the skin the radiant smoothness of the skin of a child.

Free for You

You must try this cream. And you can do so without any cost to you. At this moment a free sample awaits you at any of the stores mentioned in this announcement. Be sure to ask for it. With it also comes a free book on creams and their uses, a book which no woman who wants a beautiful skin should be without.

After a few gentle applications you will see the original fine texture of your skin restored. Any tendency to flabbiness will disappear. Tiny crow's-feet will vanish. Your face will be soothed and smoothed, and keeping the skin clean will be easy because foreign matter cannot work into the pores to choke and distend them.

Another Advantage

Vivaudou's Astringent Cream makes a remarkable powder base because it so reduces the pores that the powder cannot sink in, nor tiny particles of oil ooze from the skin to make the powder pasty or flaky. In this way the powder stays on, retaining its original softness and lustre without the need for too-frequent application.

Be sure to ask for your sample of Vivaudou's Astringent Cream without delay at any of the stores mentioned below. The results will be most gratifying.

Dry Agents are Favored by Fortune in Arrest of Two Men

"Lady Luck" played on the side of Federal dry agents yesterday with the result that Charles Goldstein and Joseph Friedman, 712 North Breed street, are in the County Jail on a charge of violating the Volstead Act. The Federal officers reported they seized a fifty-gallon still when they arrested the two defendants.

According to the agents, they were walking down an alley while watching another place where they expected to make an arrest heard suspicious sounds, when from a garage. They peered through a partly open door, they said, and discovered Goldstein and Friedman just setting up the still, evidently in preparation for bootlegging operations.

FINDS CHILD LABOR TALE UNFOUNDED

State Official Back from Investigation in Imperial Valley

Reports that a serious child-labor situation exists in the harvest fields of Imperial Valley are entirely unfounded, according to a statement made by State Labor Commissioner Walter G. Matheson yesterday, following his return from an inspection tour of the valley.

Mr. Matthewson said that at the present time there are no children working in the fields, and that provision has been established in the area so that the laws will be strictly adhered to in the future.

Word has come to him, the commissioner said, that large bands of families are migrating about the State and allowing their children to work in the fields without attending school. No indications of this are present in the valley, he said, but authorities there have been advised of the reports and are ready to cope with the situation should it arise.

Commissioner Mathewson was accompanied on his tour by Dr. Louis Bloch, statistician and investigator for the department. Within the next two weeks the pair plan to visit the asparagus fields.

In regard to employment conditions throughout the State the commissioner declared that, while approximately 10,000 fewer placements have been made by the State agencies so far this year, it is his belief that the situation will be bettered soon. He said that the situation has been somewhat relieved already on account of the recent rains.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the week was the tea with which Mrs. H. L. Musser of Westmoreland avenue and her daughter Miss Mary Musser, entertained yesterday afternoon, the invitations reading "In honor of Miss Dorothy Techintin." The real reason for the entertainment was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Techintin to Walter C. Blunk of this city. The house was exquisitely decorated with a profusion of spring flowers and foliage, vases of bloems and great clusters of peach broom predominating. The tea table was a mass of the same fragrant blossoms. Presiding at the urns were Mrs. O. B. Hardison, Mrs. Helen Mae Widaman, Mrs. W. C. Hocking and Mrs. Georgie Baldeman. The news was told the guests by an immense basket, whose glorious spreading fronds held in its "eyes" tiny cards with the name of the young couple. No date has been set for the wedding which will, however, be one of the events of this spring. Assisting Mrs. Musser and Miss Musser were Mrs. Eugene Ramsey, Mrs. Burt Johnson, Mrs. Ralph Lowe, Miss Betty Thompson, Miss Elizabeth Ward, Miss Ruth Bolton and Miss Frances Amaden.

A telegram received from Cherbourg, France, announces the safe arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Eaton of Genesee street, who sailed on the Olympic on March 23. Mr. and Mrs. Eaton will motor for three months through Italy, France and England.

Fraternity Dance

One of the much looked-for events of the month will be the formal dinner-dance at the Vista del Arroyo, Friday evening, the hosts to be members of the Phi Alpha fraternity of the University of Southern California. A bar pin mounted with the fraternity's crest and a corsage of rosebuds and lilies of the valley will mark the place of each guest. Covers will be arranged for eighty. POISONING FROM MAH JONGG BOXES

Are you subject to poison ivy and poison oak, and do you like to play mah jongg? If so, better let somebody else take the set from the box, if you have one of those expensive imported sets from Japan or China. Why? Because the Japanese and Chinese employ as a varnish in their lacquer work an extract from a plant of the poison ivy family.

Several cases of poisoning have been reported recently. This Japanese and Chinese lacquer dermatitis (inflammation of the skin) is well known in the Orient, and cases have been reported among the pineapple workers in Hawaii, where the cans are put through a hot solution of gasoline and lacquer.

In the American Medical Journal of February 9, 1924, Drs. Levin and Zeisler report several cases of skin poisoning similar to poison ivy, which were distinctly traced to the lacquer on the boxes of imported mah jongg sets. I will give a resume of the first case:

J. B., a man of 26, a silk salesman, came to the doctor with both eyelids swollen bright red and covered with little blisters. The skin of the nose and cheeks was also similarly affected, as were the fingers of both hands. The patient complained of burning and intense itching. Other skin disorders were ruled out, and under wet dressings with alkaline lotion the skin healed.

After about one week there was a recurrence. When the doctor entered the patient's home after the fresh outbreak, his attention was attracted to a beautiful mah jongg set in a lacquered box. This set had been purchased three days prior to the first attack, and the game had not been played again until the evening before the second attack. There was no recurrence of the trouble when J. B. stopped handling the lacquer box.

The case reported by Dr. Zeisler was of a man who had this dermatitis two days after he had purchased a mah jongg set. His symptoms were similar to J. B.'s. The doctor, suspecting that the inflammation was due to the lacquer on the box, scraped off a small amount and applied it to the unbroken skin of the patient's leg. Within twenty-four hours there was an inflammation at the place of application. After discontinuing the game, the patient made a rapid recovery.

Now, this does not mean that you must cease playing mah jongg if you like it. But if you are subject to poison ivy, you had better be careful about handling the imported boxes in which the dragon, north winds, etc., are confined.

TREATMENT

The local treatment for this mah jongg dermatitis would be the same as that for poison ivy. There seem to be many remedies in the literature on that subject, remedies that cause contrary chemical reactions. For instance, acids such as vinegar, lemon juice and boric acid have been effective in some cases, and alkalines, such as bicarbonate of soda and lime water in others. Painting with iodin relieves in some cases. The application of compresses dipped in hot permanganate solutions (two per cent strength) have also been found effective. A thorough cleansing of the parts with hot water and strong soap is advisable first.

One of the 1280 tests. Before washing, the nainsook used in this test stood a "pull" of 2950 points.

After washing with FAB, this sample of the same goods stood a "pull" of 2950 points also—as strong as the original.

After washing with another kind of soap flakes, this sample of the same goods broke at 2800 points. It had lost 150 points of strength.

After washing with a third kind of soap flakes, this sample of the same goods broke at 2350 points. 400 points of strength lost.

Use FAB for baby's garments, which must be clean and soft. After washing, boil diapers to prevent rash.

Pretty frocks of silk or printed goods are freshened and beautified by washing with FAB. The fine finish is preserved safely.

Dainty things washed with FAB last longer—this machine proves it!

This Cloth Testing Machine is used in the Domestic Science Department of one of the leading Universities.* With it, experts recently tested what soap flakes do to the strength of fabrics. That test means a lot to you—and to your clothes.

The test is a simple one—but scientific and very accurate.

The experts cut a piece of nainsook into strips. They left one unwashed. The other strips they washed with different brands of soap flakes, according to the makers' directions, under the same conditions of temperature, rinsing, etc.

Then, one by one, all these samples were tested in the Cloth Testing Machine. The instrument, with an accurate and even pull on every thread, strained each square of cloth until it broke. The dial of the machine automatically registered the exact point of breaking.

After testing nainsook, they tested also silk and wool, 1280 tests in all.

These careful and impartial tests prove that the FAB way is the better way to wash. They show by actual figures that materials washed with FAB wear better.

FAB, you see, is the safe soap flakes for all your washing. FAB is made with cocoanut-oil, that is so gentle, and yet so sudsy and cleansing. FAB flakes dissolve at once and completely in water. They make a rich, plentiful suds that flow freely back and forth through the fabric. It's these free-flowing FAB suds that take out the dirt and restore dainty cleanness. And FAB will not "run" colors that are fast in plain warm water, under the same conditions.

Why not start now to enjoy the advantages of FAB? It is so easy and safe to use for your washing. Ask for it today, at your grocer's.

PAINTER STRIKE PROVES FEEBLE

Many Union Men Called Out, But Few Respond

Only Seven of Eighty-two Employers Affected

These Join Open-Shop Rank When Orders Fail

As foretold in The Times of last Sunday, union painters walked out yesterday, obedient to a strike call for $9 a day and the closed shop. Seventy-five shops reported that they are unaffected. Seven are affected in varying degrees.

In one, 125 men walked out. Their employer gave them until tonight to return at the wages they were receiving, and on the same terms, or consider themselves discharged. In another, forty men quit; in a third, twenty men; and in the remainder of the seven lesser numbers.

NOW OPEN SHOPS

All seven shops affected have employed union men heretofore, but when they refused to meet the union demands and a strike followed, they went over to the open-shop camp. The places of those who walked out were being rapidly filled yesterday, and at the offices of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association it was said that in two days' time not a sign of the strike will be visible.

Latest estimates place the number of house painters in Los Angeles at 4000, of whom 900 are said to be union members, and the number of closed shops at between fifteen and twenty. Apparently not even in the closed shops did more than a fraction of the men obey the call.

"Originally," said F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, yesterday, "it was planned to call the strike for May 1, but the union decided to advance the date to April 1 and make it an All Fools' Day joke. It also was planned to demand a five-day working week, but that was too strong, even for the Labor Council, and that clause was withdrawn. From our standpoint the most significant phase of developments is that all the shops affected have come over into our camp, and hereafter will be open shops."

MOVE FORESTALLED

Publication in The Times of the union threat made at San Francisco to stop work on the new Standard Oil Building here, now rising at the corner of Tenth and Hope streets, unless all carpenters were paid $9.50 a day, appears to have forestalled that move in what was said to be a general offensive by building trades unions along the Pacific Coast. All the men have remained at work. It also brought to the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association this letter from a building firm:

"I see by today's Times that you may have a fight on your hands to maintain the open shop in the building trades. We are builders ourselves and should regret very much seeing the unions get control and ruin this city, as they have done with San Francisco and Chicago, for free and independent workmen to sell their labor without first paying tribute to the unions.

"We are inclosing our check to help in your expenses and will help further, if necessary, to maintain open-shop conditions. On our own work we ask no questions as to what religion, what society, or whether or not a man belongs to a union, but we also insist that no argument or pressure be used on either side by any workman.

"More power to your elbow."

ANALYSIS IN BOY'S DEATH IS PLANNED

Authorities Seeking to Fix Fatality Cause in Asserted Poison Case

The services of County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner yesterday were called into the investigation of the death of William Rivera, 14 years of age, who died in convulsions Monday at Covina after drinking home-made wine which the Sheriff's Office believes may have been poisoned. The stomach and contents of Rivera were turned over to Arthur Maas, chemist, for examination, as were the kidneys and liver.

Dr. Wagner conducted an autopsy to the Schanel mortuary in El Monte but did not make public his findings.

Mack Guillen, clerk in a department store at Baldwin Park, brother-in-law of Rivera, is in custody at the County Hospital, while Deputy Sheriffs Sweesy and Allen are attempting to connect him with an asserted plot to poison his wife, Maria, and her two brothers. Maria Guillen and her young brother, Alvin Rivera tasted some of the wine but did not swallow it because of its bitter taste. They were taken sick but were reported out of danger yesterday. William Rivera died in the Baldwin Park grammar School two hours after drinking a glass of the wine. Mack Guillen was removed to the County Hospital when he claimed he was sick from a drink of the same liquor.

A statement was made by Guillen to the deputies in which he admitted he was suspicious that his wife was in love with another man, but that he had no grounds for his belief. Mrs. Guillen, her mother and brother Alvin, told deputies that Guillen was extremely jealous of his wife and that this had been the basis of quarrels. Statements will be taken from the entire family today at the Sheriff's office.

The wine, according to Guillen, was made from grape juice in which a cake of yeast had been placed. Half of the contents had been consumed Sunday without ill effects to Mr. and Mrs. Guillen. On Monday the remainder was consumed with the ensuing death of William Rivera and sickness of the others. Guillen yesterday was reported out of bed.

The grateful eye

Black letters are seen best on white paper.

White reflects light—and too much reflected light tires the eye.

For printing that consists mainly of text and line drawings, the ideal paper is Warren's Olde Style—beautifully white, to contrast the type—yet non-reflecting, to rest the eye.

Just as a soft, pleasantly modulated voice invites your ear to listen, so the soft, even surface of Warren's Olde Style says to your eye, "Rest here."

Warren's Olde Style is also made in India, a pleasing light tint.

Because of its uniform quality and color, your printer likes to use Warren's Olde Style on the kind of work for which it is suited.

better paper — better printing

S. D. Warren Company has published a book which shows how better paper insures better printing. This book is printed on Warren's Olde Style and contains examples showing how effective display may be secured with the simple materials found in every print shop. It will prove helpful to any man who has occasion to buy printing. This book is called "Making it Easy to Plan Printing on Warren's Olde Style." You can secure it free, from any distributer of Warren's Standard Printing Papers.

Maintenance and National Service

NATURE is both the ally and the enemy of the telephone. One of her forces, electricity, carries the voice of man afar. Others, as flood, tornado or sleet storm, can cripple communications in a large area through their devastating might.

Each pair of telephone wires in the Bell System is a pathway for reciprocal speech. When beaten down by the uncontrollable forces of nature, that pathway to fifteen million telephones is blocked, and none of the nation's voices can pass that way.

Reserve materials must be on hand, that storm damage may be repaired without delay. Adequate funds must be made available so that the cost of restoration may be met.

National telephone service is only possible through an organization capable of handling, on a nation-wide basis, the problem of maintenance as well as of operation.

COMMITTEE FOR OLYMPIC NAMED

Men Take Action on May 24 Tryouts

Praised as Ideal Setting for Event

Predicts State as First on Team

The Coliseum without doubt is the world's finest athletic field," said Robert S. Weaver of the California Olympic Committee in speaking before the regular weekly meeting of the Los Angeles Realty Board yesterday at the Elite Cafe. He paid high tribute to the stadium, its value to the community's civic spirit, and its usefulness in staging athletic contests such as will be given for the Olympic team tryouts to take place May 24.

Will May Garland, a member of the International Olympic committee and "dean" of the real estate men, having been a charter member of the Los Angeles Realty Board, told of the plans being made for the holding of the great athletic event in Los Angeles in 1932 and he urged added interest in the 1924 Olympiad, which is to be held in Paris this summer as necessary to prepare properly for the contests eight years hence.

"It is probable at the Olympiad to be held here there will be 15,000 visitors in our city," said Mr. Garland, "and real estate men we must look forward and realize the opportunities that are ahead of us in this matter."

F. L. Brunt, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, asked Mr. Weaver to introduce Charles Hubbard. "Your next speaker is the greatest athlete of all time," said the former president of the Amateur Athletic Union. "He is the finest human that ever lived and with his athletic greatness he was a gentleman through and through."

The speaker called the attention of the real estate men to the fact that California placed second in the points for the 1920 team and that he believed with proper support a representative enough delegation of California athletes could be sent to the tryouts so that this State could be first in the nation.

Albert J. Donohue, a member of the Los Angeles Realty Board, was appointed as the chairman of the committee's committee organized to support the tryouts to be held at the Coliseum May 24. In the 1912 Olympic games Donohue was associated only to "Jim" Thorpe, the great Indian athlete, in the decathlon championships at Stockholm.

W. Dondee appointed the following committee to help him: Frank S. Ayers, B. A. Burton, M. C. Kinsman, Joseph Davey, Henry De Roode, O. A. Wildey, L. J. Daniels, Charles B. Felts, W. J. Gage, Harry Grossman, Charles S. Hopper, Harry M. Joy, H. H. Kelly, Fred Latimer, Egbert C. Olin, J. C. Ream, Fred G. Pearce, Bernard Rosenthal, Forest Stanley, Ed C. Seeley, Harry L. Suydam, R. H. Thrift, Clarence Urban, O. A. Vickrey, R. V. Yeant, H. Lee Zuckerman, J. J. Stephenson, F. E. Burns and a committee from the southern division of the board to be announced later.

Fred Healey of Los Angeles, famous boxing fan, was another representative of the Olympic tryouts management present at the meeting of the real estate men.

Among the guests from the East present at the luncheon was Walter W. Pugh, director of Henry W. Savage, Inc., a real estate firm in Boston.

CITY LAND AT PORT TO BE VALUED

New Appraisal Ordered in Move for Revision of Rental Charges

A new valuation of city-owned land at the harbor was ordered yesterday by the Los Angeles Harbor Commission with the object of revising rental charges. Secretary Starr of the board was directed to consult the figures of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the County Auditor and the County Assessor in making up the valuation, which he will present to the board for action.

The order followed a discussion started by President Colden, who declared the present flat rates were inequitable, the same rate being charged on Terminal Island as for busier sections of the harbor, and that they varied from 1½ cents a square foot to 3 cents a square foot, discriminating against the small leaser. He also said he believed the rates were as a whole too high.

The city has 3100 acres of land, which the board values at $125,000,000, or a trifle more than $40,000 an acre.

TESTIMONY BEGINS IN OIL FRAUD TRIAL

NEGOTIATIONS IN LEASING OF LAND TO DEFENDANTS TOLD BY WOMAN

Mrs. Dora Leah Josleyn of Santa Fe Springs was the first witness called by the government in the trial of the case against Joe H. Turman and F. N. Moore of the Joe H. Turman Oil Syndicate No. 2, which began yesterday before Federal Judge James. Mrs. Josleyn testified as to negotiations incident to her leasing of land in the Santa Fe Springs oil field to the defendants.

Turman and Moore are charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with their sale of 5000 oil units during the summer of 1923.

Practically the entire first day of the trial was taken up in the selection of a jury. Trial of the case will continue two weeks, it is thought.

The prosecution is being conducted by David V. Cahill and Charles L. Nichols, special assistants to the Attorney-General. The defendants are represented by J. Robert O'Connor, A. T. Folsom and Thomas P. White.

EX-OFFICER'S SLAYING TRIAL IS NEARING END

FATE OF CHARLES FLORER EXPECTED TO BE GIVEN TO JURY TODAY

The case of Charles Florer, former patrolman on trial on a manslaughter charge in Judge Hahn's department of Superior Court, is expected to go to the jury today. The trial was virtually completed yesterday with the testimony of Patrolman Ledbetter.

Patrolman Ledbetter was with Florer when the latter shot and killed L. S. Rogers, a boy who was shooting craps with other boys in an alley. Ledbetter testified that he saw one of the fleeing boys draw what appeared to be a gun from his pocket and that Florer thereupon drew his own revolver.

Florer shot at the boy who had what appeared to be a gun in his hand, the officer said, but the bullet struck Rogers.

DAUGHTER OF CHICAGO POLICEWOMAN IN JAIL

GIRL BEING HELD HERE ON FORGERY CHARGE WAS SOUGHT FOR WEEKS

Police at University Station discovered yesterday, they announced, that Ruth Norman, 18 years of age, held in the County Jail on a forgery charge, is really Ruth Kunaz, daughter of a Chicago policewoman, whom the mother has been seeking for several weeks.

The girl is a runaway, the University police say, and declare her story of having to make her own way in the world is untrue. She was formerly a model for hosiery, the police declare. The charge against her is pending in the Federal courts and is of forging a signature on a Liberty Bond.

NEW HIGHWAY URGED

Exposition Boulevard Delegation Visits City Council

Representatives of the Exposition Boulevard and Western Avenue Improvement Association yesterday urged the City Council's Public Works Committee to start proceedings for the opening of a new thirty-eight-foot highway on the north side of the Pacific Electric tracks on Exposition Boulevard between Vermont avenue and Western avenue.

The committee agreed to recommend that the City Engineer consult property owners to ascertain the proposed size of the improvement district which will be assessed to pay for the opening of the new street.

MAIL FRAUD HEARING SET FOR TOMORROW

R. F. Thornton will be given a hearing tomorrow before United States Commissioner Long on a charge of using the mails to defraud. Postoffice inspectors arrested Thornton yesterday on information that he had fraudulently obtained money from carpenters and painters under the pretext that he would obtain work for them. He was placed in jail under $1000 bond. According to the inspectors, Thornton advertised for carpenters and painters at $5 a day and then collected $3 each from most of his correspondents on the explanation that the money would be used in sending them to their positions. Thornton's home formerly was in Terre Haute, Ind.

CHARMS OF MEXICO TOLD

Visitor Here Says Trade Field and Scenic Beauties Should be Lure to American Travelers

Though Mexico is their next-door neighbor, Americans don't realize the possibilities of that country as a market for their products and a place for sight-seeing, according to Mrs. M. E. Creed, of Mexico City, who is in charge of the information connected with the American Chamber of Commerce in the Mexican capital.

Mrs. Creed, now at the Alexandria, is in Los Angeles especially for the purpose of interesting business men here in Mexico as an export field. She states that up to this time most of the Mexican imports have come from European countries, but that the southern republic offers an excellent market for American products, which can be shipped in there at much less cost than is involved in trans-Atlantic shipments.

"Aside from the commercial possibilities offered by Mexico, however, the country presents to the traveler a territory that abounds in interesting features and charms of a bewildering variety," said Mrs. Creed. "People travel in Europe and other distant places when right here at their doors lies a land which they would find as interesting as any in the world."

CAVES AND RUINS

Among other attractions of which little has been heard, Mrs. Creed spoke of the caves that are situated within forty or fifty miles of Mexico City, which she said rival in size and beauty of formation the famous Mammoth Cave of Kentucky.

"Another thing that interests the average tourist is the ruins found scattered throughout various parts of Mexico," said Mrs. Creed. "The ancient pyramids near the capital equal those of Egypt in antiquity and interest, while in Yucatan in the region known as Chichen-Itza there is a tract of ten square miles covered with ruins of stupendous buildings and wonderfully carved monuments left there by a forgotten race."

RESEARCH WORK

She said she had visited Chichen-Itza a short time ago, traveling over a railroad that recently has been completed, and which runs to within a short distance of the ruins.

"The Smithsonian Institution is now conducting research work there on an extensive scale," she observed. "It is considered one of the richest archeological fields on the American continent, and it is expected that the researches will add a vast amount of information to the present store of knowledge regarding the ancient Mexicans."

Mrs. Creed states that travel in Mexico can be accomplished with little more inconvenience than prevails in the United States.

"Railroad and hotel accommodations are good all over the country, and the traveler is shown every courtesy," she said. "I have traveled alone in every part of the republic, and have never had an adventure. The Mexicans, contrary to a belief held in some quarters, are friendly to Americans, and they are pleased to entertain the visitors that come to their country."

WOMAN, BLINDED BY RAIN, IS HIT BY CAR

MRS GEORGIA HOFFMAN INJURED IN ACCIDENT AT SOUTH PASADENA

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SOUTH PASADENA, April 1.—Mrs. Georgia Hoffman, 60 years of age, 1429 Lyndon street, was probably fatally injured tonight when she stepped off a Pacific Electric Short Line car into the path of Pacific Electric Shorb car.

It was raining at the time and she is believed to have walked directly into the oncoming car. She was taken to the Alhambra Hospital where it was stated she is suffering from a possible skull fracture and other injuries. The accident occurred at Bank street and Fair Oak avenue.

The Shorb car was operated by Motorman C. M. Turner and was in charge of Conductor S. Fiekler.

WOMAN MAY DIE OF INJURIES IN CRASH

DRIVER OF CAR HELD AFTER TRAFFIC ACCIDENT ON SEVENTH STREET

Injuries which may prove fatal were received yesterday by Mrs. Annie Barz, 45 years of age, 718 South Alvarado street, in a traffic accident at the intersection of Seventh and Alvarado streets. The woman was struck down by an automobile driven by Arthur Bogart. She was taken to the Receiving Hospital where physicians declared her condition to be critical. Detective Lieutenants Lansing and Williams after an investigation arrested Bogart and placed him in the City Jail on a charge of criminal carelessness.

OLD INDIAN GRAVE YARD DISCOVERED

Skulls Unearthed Near Coalinga Said to be of Earliest Tribes

A burying-ground of one of the earliest Indian tribes in California, containing skeletons whose skulls indicate that the tribe belonged to grass and herb eaters, has been discovered near Coalinga, it was announced yesterday by S. Maus Purple, 1840 Middleton Place, scientific explorer and discoverer of the prehistoric fossil beds of the Palos Verde Hills.

Robert Northcross, ranger and guide of Santa Ana, first brought the bones to the attention of the scientist, the latter declared yesterday. More than a dozen of the skeletons have been exhumed from the side of a hill from a cave-like hole by persons who did not realize their scientific value and many were destroyed.

Further digging will reveal material of great value, Purple says. Immediately after visiting the burying-ground, the exact location of which is at present kept secret that amateurs and souvenir hunters will not disturb it, the scientist notified Dr. David Starr-Jordan, president of Stanford University, and asked that a committee of scientists from the university be sent at once to begin excavations.

Parts of a skull which Purple brought back from Coalinga convince him that the Indian was a primitive type. The lower jaw projected beyond the upper and both gave an appearance of exceptional strength. The teeth, however, were regarded by Purple as the most important indication that the tribe was of the very earliest in California. Almost like those of an animal, the front teeth were thick, almost round and worn down. The molars were flat on top and tapered conically down to the jaw bone, indicating, the scientist declared, that the Indian lived on grass and herbs. The side of the skull was five-sixteenths of an inch thick.

DANCING INSTRUCTOR MAY FIGHT DIVORCE

MRS. EDWINA M. WECKLER IS EXPECTED TO COME HERE TO FIGHT ACTION

Probability that Mrs. Edwina M. Weckler, widely known Chicago dancing instructor, will come to Los Angeles to oppose the divorce suit of James S. Weckler is indicated by the filing yesterday of an answer to his complaint.

Weckler, in his suit, charges she deserted him in Chicago in 1922, after they had been married eight years. In her answer Mrs. Weckler declares he deserted her and that he has failed to support her and a minor child. She also accuses him of striking her.

J. H. CRAGIN IS MADE CITY ATTORNEY AIDE

Announcement was made yesterday of the appointment of John H. Cragin to the staff of the City Attorney's office as deputy City Attorney. The appointment was made by City Attorney Stephens. Mr. Cragin for the last several weeks has been acting as deputy clerk of the Second District Court of Appeal, having been temporarily appointed by the justices of the Appellate Court. For more than a year before his court clerkship Mr. Cragin was in the law offices of Congressman Fredericks. He is a graduate of the University of Southern California law school and was admitted to practice before the California bar in 1922. He has been a resident of the city for fifteen years.

CARD PARTY STOCK DEAL RECOUNTED

Woman Says Shares She Got Are Worth $50,000 Less Than Ones She Gave

A story of how card parties and social affairs were intermixed with the exchange of several thousand dollars' worth of stock was told to State Corporation Commissioner Daugherty yesterday by Mrs. Jennie R. Kinser in a hearing on charges she brought against J. V. Karelsen and A. Fournier for the revocation of their brokers' license.

In her complaint Mrs. Kinser asserts Karelsen and Fournier obtained stock from her valued at more than $77,000 in exchange for approximately $27,000 worth of the First National Bank Discount Company stock. The company, she charged, was represented as an affiliation of the First National Bank.

During the hearing the name of the company was explained as the First National Loan and Discount Company, while any connection asserted to exist between the company and the bank was denied.

On the stand Mrs. Kinser explained to Commissioner Daugherty that on several occasions she had been the guest of both Mr. and Mrs. Karelsen at their home. During the hearing she told one of the department investigators that on at least one occasion she had played cards with the Karelsens and lost.

Another witness, Mrs. Betty S. Baker, who said she was a friend of Mrs. Kinser, told how she, Mrs. Kinser and the brokers had taken lunch together in a downtown cafe after she had become interested in the stock herself.

When asked if he had entertained Mrs. Kinser at his home Karelsen said he had, but declared a lesson had been taught him.

"It's the first and last time," exclaimed the witness.

The hearing was continued until 10 o'clock today.

LOVE THEFT REPUDIATED BY CONRAD

Hollywood Real Estate Man Denies Charge Made by Ralph Sindorf

W. E. Conrad, Hollywood real estate operator, yesterday made a general denial of the charges made by Ralph T. Sindorf, well-known Southern California amateur tennis player, that he had stolen the affections of Sindorf's wife, Mrs. Helen Sindorf. The denial came in the form of an answer Conrad filed to the suit for $100,000 damages brought against him by the tennis star.

Sindorf accused Conrad of making love to Mrs. Sindorf and with finally causing her to separate from her husband. He also declared the real estate man had taken his wife out to parties and on automobile rides, causing her to remain away from home until late hours at night. The complaint further charged Conrad with plying Mrs. Sindorf with liquor and with trying to prejudice her against her husband by telling her asserted false stories concerning him.

Conrad entered a categorical repudiation of these charges and stated that his relations with Mrs. Sindorf had been entirely proper. He declared he met Mrs. Sindorf in 1921 in a business way and admitted that he had dined with her on several occasions and that she had accompanied him in his automobile while he was on business of listing real estate.

The defendant also denied that he enticed Mrs. Sindorf away from her husband and asserted that if there was any marital discord between them it was not because of any action on his part. While Sindorf asserted his wife left him July 4, 1923, the defendant stated he had not been in Mrs. Sindorf's company since May 28, 1923.

With the filing of the answer, which was prepared by Attorneys Schmidt and Riggins, the case is now in a position to be set for trial.

GOVERNMENT'S STAMP EXHIBIT TO BE SHOWN

The stamp exhibit prepared by experts in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington and shown in the International Stamp Exhibit at London last year, will be placed on exhibition here Saturday. It will remain for one week. The collection will be shown in the postoffice branch at Hamburger's, according to an announcement by Postmaster O'Brien. A separate case containing a photograph of the gold medal presented to the Postoffice Department at London accompanies the exhibit.

FILM ACTOR SUED BY COSTUME FIRM

Charles Ray, motion-picture actor, yesterday was named defendant in a suit in claim and delivery brought by the Western Costume Company for the recovery of $1000 asserted damages and clothes, costumes and stage properties valued by the plaintiff at $1507.80. According to the complaint, the costume company rented the properties and goods to the defendant for use in producing a motion picture but Ray claimed title to the goods and refused to return them.

DR. OEFFNER DIES HERE ON VACATION

Dr. Peter J. Oeffner, said to have been a prominent physician of Ridgewood, Pa., here for a vacation, died yesterday at the Clara Barton Hospital. Death was due to an intestinal trouble, it was stated. Dr. Oeffner, with his wife, has been here three months and had lived at 641 West Fiftieth Place. Funeral services will be conducted today at 2 p.m. from the chapel of Pierce Brothers. The body will be cremated at the Hollywood Crematory.

Mrs. MacDowell Charms With Husband's Music

Mrs. Edward MacDowell, widow of the eminent American composer, was heard in recital Monday evening at the MacDowell Club on Western avenue. She performed a program of music from the pen of her husband—music which has become, well known. Also she gave a talk on the work of the MacDowell Memorial Association.

A pianist of extraordinary ability, Mrs. MacDowell played with authority, charm and musicianship. Very naturally she has a keen insight into the music which she performed, and her renditions are authoritative. The music of MacDowell is no teasy, but the difficulties vanish as if by magic under her well-trained fingers, and one is conscious of lovely little mood pictures—bits of tone imagery, and as well—the serious and noble harmonies, especially exemplified in the Largo from the Sonata "Tragica."

Mrs. MacDowell played selections from the "New England" Idyls, the Sea Pieces and "Woodland" sketches, and also miscellaneous etudes and program music numbers—styles in which the composer was most at home.

One composition, written when Mr. MacDowell was quite young, and not at all well known, a Prelude from Op. 10, proved to be a most attractive offering. The "Scotch Poem," loved by all keyboard artists, was rendered with whimsical beauty.

The Rigaudon from Op. 49 was performed with dash and vigor. The "Water Lily," "Wild Rose," "Will o' the Wisp" and "In Autumn" from the Sketches, and "Of Br'er Rabbit" from the "Fireside Tales" were charming, oftentimes wistful or happy, as the mood might be and in these Mrs. MacDowell manifested unusual interpretive ability.

One of the most dramatic and descriptive offerings was "The Eagle," inspired by Tennyson's poem. "In Deep Woods" and "Joy of Autumn" likewise revealed the imaginative artist as regards the composer, and also as concerns the pianist.

In all, Mrs. MacDowell's was one of the most unique, entertaining and worth while piano recitals heard this season. An atmosphere of friendly artisty and understanding prevailed at the event.

The recital was given as a benefit for the Southern California Creative Artists Retreat.

FOX STILL HERE

MAGNATE SEES MANY NEW FILMS IN PRODUCTION

By Grace Kingsley

William Fox, head of the Fox Film Corporation, is still in our midst, and a very busy man. He is working early and late, a little earlier and a little later than any of his employees, at the studio, supervising production. No detail is too small to engage his attention. He will remain two months longer.

Just what he will do in relation to erecting the proposed new studio at Westwood, noboby knows excepting Fox himself, and he doesn't wish to disclose his plans at this time.

In any case, there is to be no let-up in production at his Hollywood studios for some time to come, judging from present indications. Many superspecials are being made or are being prepared, and several of the best-known directors and stars have been signed. Some famous stories, including Edward Everett Hale's story, "The Man Without a Country," "Checkers," and "The Painted Lady," have been purchased. All these are to have all-star casts. Work of casting is now going forward.

Rowland V. Lee is to direct "The Man Without a Country;" Lambert Hillyer will make "Checkers," and Chester Bennett will hold the megaphone on "The Painted Lady."

Seventeen companies in all are at work, either actually shooting or preparing to begin work within a few days. The work of the reading department goes right on, and it is proposed to purchase several famous stories.

Emmett Flynn is making a big special feature called "The Man Who Came Back," with Dorothy Mackaill, George O'Brien and Cyril Chadwick. This is from the stage play of the same name, which, however, lends itself better to the screen than to the stage, especially as its action occurs in varied parts of the globe, including China, the Hawaiian Islands, and San Francisco.

Tom Mix is starring in "The Last of the Duanes," with Marion Nixon as his leading lady and with Lynn Reynolds directing.

Another special production is being made by Henry Otto, depicting the picturesque sorrows of Dante's "Inferno," in which an all-star cast is playing.

Jack Gilbert is starring in "The Mark of Cain," with Howard Mitchell directing, and with Evelyn Brent as his leading woman. This is a story excellently suited to Gilbert's talents. Shirley Mason is the star of "The Strange Woman," being directed by Edmund Mortimer, with Theodor Von Eltz in the leading male role. Charles Buck Jones is the star in a picture called tentatively "Double Dealing," with George Andre Beranger directing, and with Beatrice Burnham playing opposite.

Madge Bellamy, George O'Brien and Cyril Chadwick are featured in a drama, untitled, directed by John Ford.

Other productions include one being directed by Tom Buckingham, so far untitled, with Reed Howes, Alma Bennett and William Bailey featured; "Strathmore," directed by Denison Clift, with Wyndham Standing and Evelyn McCoy featured and George Arthur playing an important role; "The Last Man on Earth," directed by Jack Blystone, with an important cast.

Four comedy companies are at work, with Henry Lehrman, Benjamin Stoloff, Lew Seiler and George Marshall directing.

Stork at Earl Williams'

The stork arrived yesterday at the home of Earl Williams, well-known film star, and delivered a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Williams. The little one has already been christened Joan Constance, the Constance being in honor of Constance Talmadge.

Little Joan Constance is the first child to bless the Williams home.

Stahl Engages Stone

Lewis Stone has been engaged by John M. Stahl to play the lead in Stahl's next picture, as yet untitled, which the director will make for Louis B. Mayer.

Mae Marsh Recovers

Mae Marsh, who has been ill and confined to her home with an attack of neuritis, is able to be about once more. Miss Marsh is to remain in the West indefinitely, as her husband's business interests and her home are here. She turn which Mr. Harris will make.

Coming With Her Own Production

Annette Kellerman,
Who opens at the Philharmonic Monday in "Smiles of 1924."

is considering several picture offers.

Jackie Logan's New One

Jacqueline Logan is shortly to go to New York, where she will appear for Paramount in a film version of "Empty Hands," from the magazine story written by Arthur Stringer. This will furnish a novel vehicle for Miss Logan, inasmuch she will assume the role of a girl who, with her lover, is stranded in a wild, remote mountain region where the pair have to win their food and clothing through use of their bare hands and such hunting implements as they can devise.

Vera Lewis in It

That versatile player of character roles, Vera Lewis, who played an important role with Monta Bell in that rising young director's Warner Brothers feature, "Broadway After Dark," has been engaged for his current feature.

Out of the Silence

She is going to act right out on the stage, is Louise Fazenda, and doesn't care who knows it! Miss Fazenda has left for San Francisco to be guest of honor of the Oakland Press Club in its annual frolic, opening with a big dinner, to be followed by a vaudeville entertainment.

Miss Fazenda will present a skit, an ensemble of different screen characterizations she has done for the silversheet.

Dorothy Phillips Recovers

Dorothy Phillips, who was injured in an automobile accident a few weeks ago, has fully recovered, and is planning a return to the screen.

Marjorie Rambeau to Europe

Shaking the dust of her native land from her dainty feet, Marjorie Rambeau is going to Europe to spend the summer. Miss Rambeau has been playing in vaudeville during the last few weeks, following her sensational one-night starring engagement in George Middleton's "The Road Together," produced in New York several weeks ago.

Concerning that one evening's performance, Miss Rambeau is quoted as remarking:

"Well, the audience must admit that I didn't give them one dull moment!"

Makes Hay

Back in New York, Elmer Harris is letting no metaphorical grass grow under his feet on Broadway. He and Frank Woods have just signed with Hodkinson for the release of ten features, five to be made by Woods and five by Harris.

Plans call for the making of the pictures in San Francisco, and several San Francisco capitalists are backing the two producers.

Contracts have been signed with Patsy Ruth Miller and Matt Moore to play the leads in the first pictures, which Mr. Harris will make.

This will be a film version of "The Wise Virgin," written by Harris.

"Romance" at Playhouse

The first production which will be shown at the new A. H. Woods Playhouse here, will be a revival of "Romance," with Doris Keane in the leading role. It will be presented in May.

Miss Keane is now appearing in "Welded" in New York. Louis MacLoon is arranging all the details connected with the "Romance" revival.

Lions Are Hungry

The hoof and mouth disease quarantine has played havoc in the zoo at Universal City, and unless some way of getting around the State law is devised, twenty-five lions and other wild beasts may face starvation. This is because the strict cordon thrown out by the State veterinary authorities forbids the moving of horses, used for food for the big beasts, into the zoo slaughterhouse.

Lions in captivity cannot eat beef, because of the superfluity of fat, which rapidly has a fatal result. Horseflesh is therefore a necessary article of their diet. Condemned horses are used for this purpose.

Several motion-picture companies have been held up through the quarantine, as western plays cannot go on location without moving their horses. An Arabian picture in progress at the Fox studio halted when it was found that three camels needed in the picture could not be taken out of the zoo at Universal City to the other studio.

Ben Turpin to Flit

Immediately following the completion of "Yukon Jake," a Mack Sennett comedy special burlesquing a popular drama of the North, Ben Turpin, cross-eyed hero of the screen, set the burglar alarms in his pretentious Hollywood home, locked all doors and said good-by to his studio friends for about six weeks.

Mrs. Turpin has not been in good health for the last few months, and her condition has worried Ben exceedingly. Acting on the advice of his physicians, Turpin turned his caravan northward and he and Mrs. Turpin will enjoy a complete climatic change in the Province of Quebec, Can.

"Lilliom" Refused by Managers on Broadway Now Success

"Lilliom," now playing at the Pasadena Community Playhouse, was offered to all of the great American producers by Conway Tearle when he owned the rights to its presentation some years ago and refused by all of them as impractical. Tearle today told the story of the play after seeing its presentation in Pasadena.

"This was some years ago, while I was on the stage," Tearle said. "Charlotte Granville showed me a manuscript that raised me to ecstacy. The lead was the part for which I had been searching for years. I immediately paid her $1000 for a year's option on the story.

"It was called 'The Daisy,' an adaption by Osmund Shillingford, an English playwright, of a story by Franz Molinar.

"I submitted it to Al Woods, to Winthrop Ames, to half a dozen others of the big producers. Unanimously they refused it. They refused it twice a year for three years. Meantime I paid $1000 a year for my option."

Then the Theater Guild was formed. A translation of "Lilliom" was made and because of a suspension of international copyright agreements due to the war, it was staged without regard to property rights anyone might hold in it, according to Tearle.

It drew capacity audiences to the Guild's Theater. Then it went on Broadway and stayed there for two years.

"Lilliom" and "The Daisy" are one and the same.

CREATORE REMAINS WITH METROPOLITAN

Albert A. Kaufman, managing director of the downtown Grauman theaters, announces the engagement on a long-term contract of Creatore, who is just concluding a five-weeks' engagement at the Metropolitan.

Creatore's official capacity will be musical adviser to the managing director and featured conductor at the Metropolitan and Million Dollar Theaters.

That the conducter rivals some of our greatest movie stars in popularity among Angelenos was demonstrated by over a thousand fan letters which have been received during the past week inquiring as to whether or not Creatore would be a permanent musical acquisition in Los Angeles theaterdom.

LITTLE OF EVERYTHING IN "SMILES"

Coast's First Big Musical Revue Looks Like a Winner

BY MYRTLE GEBHART

"There is a great need here for a snappy musical revue to tour the Pacific cities," said Emile De Recat the other day, explaining the idea which gradually took form as "Smiles of 1924," which Mr. De Recat and E. C. Bostick will present at Philharmonic Auditorium next week. "Too seldom are the big Eastern shows seen here, and then long after their initial presentation, when their investiture has become old and, at times, shoddy.

"So we conceived the idea of answering the clamor voiced among theater-goers for a zestful musical revue—and we believe that our 'Smiles,' which we plan to make an annual event, will prove acceptable. All of our numbers have been carefully prepared and our scenery and costumes especially designed. We've one number that rivals anything I've ever seen in any New York theater—our girls apparently floating on mists of cobweb silver. We have fifteen changes of scenery and fourteen changes of costume."

"Something for everybody, and a little bit of everything," Annette Kellerman, the star, voices the show's motto. There will be beauty of background, song and dance and the charm of pulchritude, an unexpected thrill or two, a bit of pathos and a sprinkle of comedy. Above all, we are promised pep.

Miss Kellerman performs some hazardous dives and aquatic stunts and ten dances. Harry Gribbon and Gertrude O'Connor add a good quota of humor and Rex Storey, formerly of the Greenwich Village Follies, promises to divert us from our cares. And the choicest morsel of them all is Buil Montana, a handsome Latin lover, as you no doubt know, having seen his classic profile many times upon the screen. Bull ornaments the gym-scene, which is to be quite a novelty.

Thrills will be the contribution of the Rials, straight from the Orpheum, who do breath-taking convolutions through the air with wires and pulleys and umbrellas and things.

A loveller double-dozen of young girls would be hard to find than those slim creatures dancing in this production. Twelve, the chorus boast and a like number of terpsichoreans give zest and beauty to individual and group dances.

"Most of them are from Los Angeles or towns near-by," Miss Kellerman told me. "We selected them from 250 applicants and made an effort to chose a little different type of chorine than that so often found in musical shows. We didn't want the typical 'show-girl,' but nice home-girls who would add sweetness and refinement to our entertainment. We take two chaperones to make them mind their manners and write their letters home to mother and behave themselves."

Ernest Belcher has staged some special numbers that promise to be exquisite, having chosen eight girls from the best that his school offers—and you who have seen his ballets at local theaters know that means quality.

About them all is a freshness, a youthful, naive zest. None of that theatrical, artificial air that one so often finds among the chorus girls of Eastern shows, bred in conservatories of glamour. For weeks they have been rehearsing daily on an open stage. The fresh air, the vigorous physical training that Miss Kellerman has insisted upon for the gym number, coupled with the fact that they're a nice bunch anyhow makes them seem somehow much more genuine, their charm less of a tinsel quality than is customary with the "ponies."

Some distinctly promising novelties are included in the divertisment. For instance, "The Dark Moment," which isn't what you may think at all. It's twelve little girls who are little girls and yet who aren't—now see if you can figure out what I mean. They're little girls as they face you dancing; but when they turn around—oh my!

There are to be many others, of course. The covered wagon days of '49 will be appropriately presented, with the pioneers encamped at nightfall beside a real waterfall, giving voice to the song. "The Covered Wagons" composed especially by Joe Burrows, and with Annette Kellerman in an Indian dance. There will be the Peacock Strut, with the chorines gorgeously arrayed, and an old-fashioned dance in pastel colors. Not to forget the flashing oriental number, with its vivid hues imprinted against a gold curtain, and the Garden of Beautiful Girls, in which fantasy roses come to life and dance their perfumed parts out to gently wailing melodies.

POSTPONE "McGREW" OPENING AT LOEW'S

Owing to the ambitious plans which will accompany the world premiere of the Sawyer-Lubin production, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," at Loew's State Theater, the management has postponed this event until the 12th inst. At that time it is believed the atmospheric prologue production which is to accompany the prerelease showing of the picture will be in perfect shape. It is planned to use this prologue in all key city showings throughout the country and in order to perfect every detail of the staging more time has been allotted to the rehearsals, which are progressing under the direction of Fanchon.

In place of the Robert W. Service story next Saturday, Loew's will show Richard Barthelmess in "The Enchanted Cottage," adopted from the play by Sr. Robert Wing Pinero.

GOES TO CONGRESS FOR CAUSING RAIN

There have been some political candidates elected to office on the promise of finding who killed "Cock Robin" but few have gained an easy swivel chair for producing rain. Yet that's Will Rogers under the direction of Rob Wagner, in his latest comedy, "Going to Congress," which is being shown at the California Theater. Rogers has long been known for his political satires. He would rather take a few slaps at politics than play pole.

S.S.S. keeps away Pimples

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

Did you ever know how big cities make the hydrant water fit for you to drink? That's what S. S. S. does to the blood in your own blood-pipes. It makes it fit to circulate. S. S. S. is acknowledged to be one of the most powerful, rapid and effective blood-cleansers known. You don't have to use some new fad treatment that is mere guesswork, you don't have to smear things on your face in a vain effort to get rid of eruptions. Eruptions come from blood impurities and a lack of rich blood-cells. S. S. S. builds new blood-cells. This is why S. S. S. routs out of your system the impurities which cause boils, pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash. That's why S. S. S. has done such wonderful work in freeing thousands from the scourge of rheumatism. S. S. S. is also a remarkable flesh-builder. That's why underweight people can quickly build up their lost flesh, get back their normal weight, pink, plump cheeks, bright eyes, and "pep." S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is more economical.

Increase your Red Blood Cells. That's the sure way! S.S.S. builds Blood-Cells; this means strength!

ANNEXATION OF STRIP IN COURT

Suit Asks Annulment of Long Beach Vote

Filed for Many Residents in "Shoe String"

Section Held Uninhabited and Not Contiguous

Annulment of the results of the recent election by which annexation of the so-called "shoe string strip" to Long Beach was accomplished is sought in a suit filed in the Superior Court yesterday.

The suit was filed by the law firm of Bauer, Wright & Macdonald in behalf of A. C. Brown and some dozen or more other residents of the recently annexed strip. The plaintiffs seek to have annulled the proceedings had by the City Council of Long Beach which resulted in the calling of the election on the annexation question.

FEW INHABITANTS

As a result of the election Long Beach annexed the territory immediately north of the city known as Virginia City. In addition to this there was annexed a strip of territory about one hundred feet wide, reaching out east and west from the northern limits of Virginia City and circling around until it joins Long Beach again like a large loop. Within the loop to the east of Virginia City are about fifteen square miles of land and similarly situated to the west are about eighteen square miles. The territory within the loop although completely encircled by the newly annexed Long Beach strip, remains county territory. There are, according to the plaintiffs in the present suit, less than fifty inhabitants in the annexed strip outside of Virginia City.

The plaintiffs seek to have the election thrown out on two contentions. The first is that the annexed strip is not contiguous to Long Beach within the meaning of the Annexation Act of 1913.

HEARING IS SET

It is pointed out that the annexed strip takes no notice of established boundary lines such as roads but cuts across fields, through houses and other private property. It is said that in some instances a family can cook their meals in Long Beach and eat it in Los Angeles county without leaving the house.

The second contention put forth against the annexation is that the Annexation Act of 1913 provides only for the annexation of inhabited territory, which in the language of the courts means that the annexed territory can fairly be said to be inhabited as a whole. The annexed strip, it is said, consists merely of many parcels and tracts of land, the great majority of which are uninhabited.

The plaintiffs to the suit are residents of the northwest portion of the annexed strip. The case has been set for a hearing for 10 o'clock on the morning of the 11th inst. in Department 25 of the Superior Court.

Lewis Moreau Killed When Car Falls Upon Him

Lewis J. Moreau, salesman, of 1148 Magnolia avenue was killed late yesterday afternoon when his automobile skidded and overturned three miles south of Arroyo Grande, and about fifteen miles south of San Luis Obispo. Mr. Moreau's skull was crushed when he was caught beneath the car.

The inquest will be conducted at Arroyo Grande this morning.

LINDSEY FOR PRISONER AID

Famed Denver Jurist, on Visit Here, Commends Lead California Has Taken to Help Dependents

Inmates of penal institutions should be compensated for their services to the State and the proceeds of their labor should be turned over to their dependents, says Ben B. Lindsey, judge of the Juvenile Court of Denver, nationally known for his advocacy of reforms relating to child welfare.

Judge Lindsey, who is at the Biltmore, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday to study recent legislation in California on the subject of compensation for dependents of prisoners. He recently was appointed by Gov. Sweet of Colorado as a member of a commission created to promote legislation in that State on this subject.

CALIFORNIA TAKES LEAD

"California has made a start in that kind of legislation," said Judge Lindsey, "and its system should be studied by every other State where no steps have been taken to care for families of men sent to prison."

The California law does not extend to all classes of prison inmates but affects only husbands who have been convicted of desertion or nonsupport of their dependents. In such cases the family of the convicted man receives a share of his earnings, which are collected by the State and turned over to the wife.

"This is fine as far as it goes, but in my judgment it should include all classes of convicts," said Judge Lindsey. "It is unjust to deprive the family of the support of its head, convicted of crime. As it is now the State derives a profit from the labor of its prison inmates. At least a part of this should be turned over to the dependents, who are now made the innnocent victims of the wrongdoing of the husband and father."

Judge Lindsey has presided over the Juvenile Court in Denver for twenty-five years. His methods of dealing with youthful delinquents have received widespread publicity. During the first part of his service on the bench he devoted himself mainly to the welfare of boys but of late years girls, and especially babies, have received the greater part of his attention.

SOCIAL PROBLEM SEEN

In addition to his efforts to promote legislation in behalf of prisoners' dependents he also is interested in the adoption of laws to prevent wholesale destruction of unborn children.

"The death of a million babies prior to birth takes place annually in the United States," he declared. "This situation presents a problem in our social life that is becoming more serious every year. It can be checked only by proper legislation. Colorado already has adopted a law relative to this matter, which now has been in operation for almost a year and is proving a success. In time it is hoped that similar legislation will be passed by other States."

EX-HEAD OF CLUB TELLS FUND'S USE

Mrs. Cunningham Explains Entertainment Tendered to Senorita Palacios

Mrs. William P. Cunningham who was president of the Woman's City Club a year ago, the predecessor of Mrs. John T. Coleman, incumbent yesterday made a statement for publication regarding the fund for the entertainment of out-of-town guests of which Mrs. Mary Avery Scherfee was treasurer at the time of the entertainment of Senorita Palacios, representative of President Obregon and not his relative as has been stated repeatedly and erroneously.

"During my administration as president of the Woman's City Club, June, 1922-June, 1923, every fund of the club was increased and at the close of my administration, the club's books were audited, found to be correct, the funds in a prosperous condition, and without a debt of any kind," Mrs. Cunningham said. She spoke in detail of the different funds of the club and the expenses for paying for the brown-covered year book which not only paid for itself, she said, but brought a cash profit to the club of $52.70. This latter was in reference to the blue-covered book of this year which has not yet been paid for and about which there is some controversy.

As to the entertainment fund Mrs. Cunningham said: "This fund was not in any wise contributed to by the club itself, and no funds belonging to the club were in any wise used for that purpose. In fact, the club, in which there is no initiation fee, and whose dues are but $4 per year, had no funds from which money could have been legitimately used for this purpose, hence the necessity of establishing a new fund."

Mrs. Cunningham signed and attested Mrs. Scherfee's itemized statement of all expenditures and receipts in this special fund.

Louise Lorraine, Named as Co-respondent, Defendant in Husband's Plea

After being named in a divorce complaint filed in Los Angeles by Mrs. Edna Mae Acord against Art Acord, motion-picture star, Louise Lorraine herself was made defendant in a divorce action filed in San Francisco yesterday by her husband, Harold Bray, according to news dispatches from the Bay City.

Bray, who is a former Los Angeles business man, asserts that he and Miss Lorraine were married in Los Angeles in July, 1922. He charges that a year later she met Acord and "then began to attract Acord's attention and acted cooly toward her husband."

According to the complaint, Acord went to Santiago, Chile, last November to engage in picture work. Bray further declares that Miss Lorraine went there a month later. The complaint alleges that both are still in South America.

Mrs. Acord's version came out in the local courts last Saturday when her attorney, Paul C. Hill, declared he was unable to obtain legal service on Acord in connection with Mrs. Acord's petition for temporary alimony of $100 per week. Mrs. Acord's petition declared Acord informed his wife he was going so far away it would take $10 in stamps to send a postcard to him.

HOLLYWOOD TO GET NEW PLAYHOUSE

Crescent Junction Will be Site of Film Theater to Cost $500,000

Another theater is to be given Hollywood, at Santa Monica Boulevard and Havenhurst street, known as Crescent Junction. The total investment of the enterprise will be in excess of $500,000, according to Michael Gore, president of West Coast Theaters, Inc., who closed the deal yesterday for Hollywood Theaters, Inc., in conjunction with the West Coast Theaters, Inc.

Crescent Junction, according to John L. Young, president of the Hollywood Theaters, has long been under observation as a community center and its development this year has prompted the theater enterprise. The structure is to be a two-story building with stores and apartments. The theater seating capacity will be 1800. The architecture will be along the Spanish mission style. Construction is to be under the supervision of A. L. Smith, architect. Grover Scholem represented MacDonald and Kahn, through whom the contract with Hollywood Theaters, Inc., and West Coast Theaters, Inc. was made.

Harry C. Arthur, Jr., general manager of the West Coast chain, expects that the new house will open the middle of August. The theater will book First National, Famous Players and Metro. A full stage is to be one of the features.

MALICIOUS ARREST CHARGED BY WOMAN

Charging they maliciously caused her to be arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace, Elizabeth Gaudy yesterday filed suit in the Superior Court for $25,000 damages against John Phillips Godfrey and Mary Ayer Godfrey of Beverly Hills. Godfrey was said to have procured a constable and gone to the house where the plaintiff was staying the evening of January 21, last, and to have caused her to be placed under arrest. Miss Gaudy said the charge was dismissed in Justice Court on February 13. According to the complaint, Godfrey and employees of the co-defendant also removed the personal effects of the plaintiff from a house at 516 Beverly Drive and caused them to be placed in the street. The plaintiff is represented by Attorney William J. Clark.

E. P. PERRINE HEARD BY ADVERTISING CLUB

LYCEUM BUREAU SPEAKER IS ARRANGING FOR PARLEY OF INSURANCE MEN

"Man as a reasoning being is not more than 50,000 years old, but man as an emotional creature has a history of perhaps 50,000,000 years behind him."

That is one reason why advertisements appealing to man's emotional or "desire nature" are more effective than those which challenge his thinking capacities, according to E. P. Perrine, who spoke on "Fits and Misfits" yesterday before the Advertising Club at the Biltmore Hotel.

Mr. Perrine, who is a prominent Lyceum Bureau speaker, is in Los Angeles to arrange for the national convention of life insurance men, to be conducted here next July, when more than 3000 delegates from various parts of America are expected to visit Los Angeles.

SIGNING OF SEWER BONDS UNDER WAY

City Clerk Domingues is working night and day signing $6,000,000 outfall sewer bonds recently sold by the Council, and as rapidly as the City Clerk Completes a batch of the bonds they are carried to the Mayor's office, where the Mayor attaches his signature. City Treasurer Powell is also signing the bonds, and it is expected that the task will be completed this week so that the securities can be delivered to the syndicate, headed by Drake, Riley & Thomas, which purchased them. City Clerk Domingues is averaging about 1000 bond signatures a day, or $1,000,000 worth of bonds, as the securities are in denominations of $1000 each.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive T... Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act directly but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to healthful action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without the griping, pain or any disagreeable after effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with its attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c. —(Advertisement.

Don't Let That C... Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingling as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

MUSTEROLE WILL NOT BLISTER

DRY GOODS, FURNISHINGS & CLOTHING
The business you would like to buy is often the business that cannot be bought. For reasons which we will be glad to explain, this store is just one of those places which you will take to as soon as you start your investigation. The owner is not half as anxious to sell as we are to secure it, but we must make sales or we would starve to death. This is located in the San Fernando Valley, in a fast-growing city. A fine corner store established many years, doing around $100,000 a year and growing every month. Low rent, fine lease, clean stock. Will accept practically twelve for fixtures and stock.

SAN FRANCISCO BAY district, most fashionable and best conducted tavern, partnership offered by the owner who is retiring from active business. Located on a famous boulevard, having a wonderful patronage from the cosmopolitan and the very center of over one million population. The grounds are large and covered with shade trees, affording ample room.

The buildings are very modern and are well arranged and artistically decorated throughout. The place is now successfully managed by one who has had many years of experience in one of the finest hotels of the country. Other fine features are numerous to mention. My business requires my personal attention, therefore I will sell half. For further information, write owner, Address J, box 66, TIMES OFFICE.

A RARE AUTOMOBILE AGENCY
This is surely the choicest territory in the south; a fine new building with a long-established agency. Should be sold to a responsible man at $30; what it will income. The strength of present owner's connection with the factory makes it a wealthy man and some one is going to get it.

$50,000 BUYS ½ interest in old established safe business. A wonderful growing business in growing city of 6,000. You cannot make a mistake by looking here. This proposition will stand any kind of investigation. Have other good reasons for offering my attention, otherwise this opportunity would not be presented to you. Address BOX 778, TIMES OFFICE, San Bernardino.
